Assail Tammanyism and Radicalism.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Republicans filled the Chicago Stadium last night with a militant audience of 25,000 and in a fighting frame launched a campaign that promises to be one of the hottest in Chicago's history.

The arguments fell into two divisions. For the state battle over congressmen the issue, as expounded by C. Wayland Brooks, is to elect men who will take the gag rule off congress, and who, while not obstructing real progress, will halt "communist minded planners." Mr. Brooks, who is candidate for congressman at large, served as chairman of the massmeeting. Speakers called attention to the unusual aspects of the gathering in that it was not composed of pay rollers, out of the water pipe extension department, and elsewhere, for the G. O. P. has no county patronage offices.

In Cook county speakers sought to shake the local Democrats off the Roosevelt coat tails by explaining that the New Deal has no local place in politics.

Term New Deal Talk a Mask.

In a denunciatory declaration, termed an "indictment," on 27 counts, the Republicans accused the Democrats of setting up "a Tammany machine" that has grabbed control of the party and the state.

This "indictment" in blistering terms accused the Chicago "Tammany" of dragging in the New Deal and national issues as camouflage.

It declared the Democratic "machine" has always been against President Roosevelt, and that so far as New Deal recognition is concerned it gets no further than the back doorstep of the White House.

One phase of the onslaught was directed particularly against County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki—the county judgeship by virtue of its control of the election machinery is the keystone place in the struggle over county offices.

Sees Will of People Evidenced.

Chairman Brooks, known far and wide as "Curly" Brooks, brought a demonstration with his portrayal of the issues. He set forth that the landslide election two years ago was taken as a signal by the Democrats not to live up to their platform pledges but to embark upon the greatest centralization of power ever known and to change the constitutional form of government.

"This great meeting," he said, "is an unmistakable indication of the voice and will of the people against the so-called social and economic planning that will take away the right of the individual citizen to plan his own life, regardless of his occupation.

"America stands at the crossroads today. Who are these men and women who set themselves up as capable of directing and planning the lives of 120,000,000 people in direct conflict with the fundamental principles and purposes of our form of government?

Experimentation Has Limits.

"Where has their socialistic plan ever been tried and proved to be a giver or guarantor of human rights? There is only one government that guarantees liberty and happiness to every individual citizen and that is our constitutional form of government."

Mr. Brooks declared that although experimentation has its uses, there is only one way to protect America's economic and governmental fabric from destruction.

"Pass definite laws," he said, "so that the farmers, the laborers, the merchants may know definitly what they can do to preserve themselves, plan their own lives, and thus contribute to the general welfare and not be destroyed by monopoly or regulations made by antagonistic interests. We need remedy of our system, but not destruction."

The Path of Safety.

On the question of how to insure the future, Mr. Brooks set forth the issue at the Nov. 6 election as follows:

"Balance the power in the congress. Balance the power in the state legislature and in Cook county. How? There is only one way. We must elect Republicans to congress, the legislature, and county offices, so that this political force may rebuild itself and revitalize itself for the maintenance of stable government.

"We must take the gag rule off congress; we must pass definite laws we must stay the hand of communistic minded planners and deport

BRITONS LAND IN MELBOURNE; DUTCH TRAILING

BULLETIN.

MILDENHALL AIRDROME, England, Oct. 23 (Tuesday).—(AP)—The Dutch fliers, K. D. Parmentier and J. J. Moll, holding second place in the Melbourne race, arrived at Charleville, Australia, at 2:45 a. m. (Central Standard time) today, 787 miles from their goal. Col. Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn reached Port Darwin, Australia, at 12:50 a. m. and after a short delay due to oil trouble hopped off again at 3:41 a. m.

(Pictures on Back Page.)

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 23 [Tuesday]. — (AP) — Conquering motor trouble and a field of the world's foremost flyers, C. W. A. Scott and Campbell Black, British veterans, rocketed across the finish line at 3:34 p. m. today [11:34 p. m. C. S. T. Monday] to win the $50,000 London to Melbourne race in the fastest long distance flight aviation has known.

They covered the 11,300 miles from England in 2 days 22 hours and 25 minutes, far outdistancing the original nineteen competitors who were left scattered over two continents.

Unofficial calculations showed that, counting only actual flying time, Scott and Black had hurtled around the globe from London about 176.5 miles an hour. Their stops, including more than four hours lost at Port Darwin and Charleville while mechanics labored over the faltering motors, made their speed for total time elapsed about 160 miles an hour.

30,000 in Rain Greet Them.

Thirty thousand spectators, who had waited eagerly in the rain, sent up loud cheering as the Red Comet, British built De Haviland plane, was seen approaching the Flemington air course —the end of a flight almost half way around the world.

Deaf from the noise of flying at a 160 mile an hour clip, Scott managed to blurt out in a hoarse whisper that he and his companion had slept only two hours in three days.

After crossing the finish line the plane flew on to Laverton airdrome and made a perfect landing in the rain. Among the first greeters to reach the weary flyers were three women—Jean Batten, who made a woman's record solo flight from England to Australia last May, and two Brisbane women flyers, Rose Bonny and Peggy Doyle. The latter two presented Scott and Black each with a bottle of beer and a packet of sandwiches. Sir MacPherson Robertson, wealthy manufacturer, who donated the prizes, and the lord mayor of Melbourne were among the first to grasp the hands of the flyers.

Americans in Third Place.

Meanwhile, far behind the pace setting Englishmen who had stopped both at Charleville and Port Darwin to make adjustments to their faulty motors, were the Dutchmen, K. D. Parmentier and J. J. Moll, who were in second place. They had not yet reached Charleville, thus being at least five hours behind Scott and Black.

Apparently in third place were Roscoe Turner and Clyde Pangborn, the Americans, who had not yet reached the Australian mainland. They took off from Koepang, across the Timor sea, early today after a flight from Singapore.

The flight of Scott and Black was the more remarkable because the previous best record for an England to Australia flight was more than six days.

1,300 Miles in Lead.

When Scott and Black reached Charleville, 787 miles short of their goal, they were leading the second place Dutchmen by 1,300 miles, but they faced a last minute hurdle on the final leg in a continuation of the mechanical trouble which had beset them toward the end of the flight.

The Britons flew most of the way from Timor sea to Melbourne with a faulty motor. It was relieved by short lived repairs at Port Darwin and Charleville. They nursed the plane along, part time with only one motor running, and reached Melbourne flying about 150 miles an hour.

The race course adjoining the landing place was black with crowds. The roof tops of buildings were crowded with other thousands. The enthusiasm of Australians for the winning flyers was heightened by the fact the burly 6 foot Scott was well known here, having served three years as a pilot of the Queensland Airways.

In winning in a British plane [De

GIVES BIRTH TO QUADRUPLETS; 2 DIE IN 4 HOURS

New York, Oct. 23 [Tuesday.]—(AP) Two of the quadruplets born to Mrs. Cecelia Mulligan, 25, of the Bronx died in Lincoln hospital today after living only about four hours.

The other two infants—both boys—were reported by physicians to be in "pretty weak" condition, but the mother was "doing well."

Three boys were born first, arriving at 10:30, 10:35, and 10:42 p. m., eastern standard time, last night. A girl was born at 10:48 p. m. The last two to arrive died shortly before 3 a. m. today.

The mother had been rushed to the hospital in an ambulance last night, the births being premature by two months. The infants were placed in an incubator immediately. Their total weight was 10 pounds.

The father, Patrick Mulligan, an unemployed truck driver who receives $50 a month for relief, was at home tending their three other children when the quadruplets were born. The Mulligans were married seven years ago.

Greek Minister Quits; Shamed by Ex-Premier

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ATHENS, Oct. 22.—Former Premier Eleutherios Venizelos, 70, known as "the modern Ulysses" for his half century of war on Greek royalty in the interests of democracy, today showed Minister of Interior Jannopoulos how to catch a fugitive from justice who had evaded police for thirteen months.

ELEUTHERIOS VENIZELOS.

The minister of interior, whose humiliation is equaled only by that of the chief of police and Chief of Detectives Evert, "couldn't take it." He hurried to hand in his resignation.

More Resignations Expected.

Residents of Athens anticipate other significant political developments, including the resignation of several police executives, in view of Venizelos' oppositions to the government.

The events leading up to today's climax started June 6, 1933, when assassins made a second attempt on Venizelos' life. They riddled his automobile with bullets. His wife was wounded and a bodyguard was killed. Venizelos escaped injury.

Thirteen months ago authorities began to search for Karathanasis, a bandit chief, in connection with the attempted assassination. They searched and searched. But Karathanasis continued to enjoy his freedom.

Bodyguards Join Chase.

Then seven of Venizelos' bodyguards joined the chase. They accomplished what the police failed to do. The seven men quietly surprised Karathanasis, who offered no resistance, and took him into custody. The chief of police was at home when Venizelos' men appeared and presented the long sought prisoner to him. It was a great surprise to the chief.

It was no less a surprise to Chief of Detectives Evert when the chief of police turned the prisoner over to him. But Evert was equal to the occasion. He put Karathanasis in jail.

WIFE CLAIMS TURNING LAWN SOMERSAULTS IS NOT NICE; SUES

Los Angeles, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Declaring her millionaire husband "turned somersaults on the lawn and jumped around like an ape" when intoxicated, Mrs. Gladys R. Axelson today filed an affidavit as a preliminary step toward seeking separate maintenance from Jule C. Axelson.

Named in an annulment suit filed by Axelson against her two weeks ago, Mrs. Axelson, former actress, is the niece of Sir Peter Rylands, M. P., and the late Sir John Pritchard of London.

Mrs. Axelson, formerly wife of Dr. William E. Coverly, dentist of Park avenue, New York, said her husband owns a half interest in the Axelson Manufacturing company, which makes airplane engines, the "stock of which is valued at 4 million dollars," a town house worth $45,000 and a beach home valued at $15,000, two yachts, two expensive cars and large realty holdings.

RICH MERCHANT'S WIFE IS SHOT IN MYSTERY ATTACK

Mrs. Anna Morici, 60 years old, 144 North Mason avenue, wife of Philip Morici, wealthy Sicilian stockholder in the Chicago Macaroni company, was shot in the head last night during a mysterious attack by three men upon the automobile in which she, her husband, and her daughter, Genevieve, 27 years old, were riding at Ogden and Chicago avenues.

The men, handkerchiefs tied over their faces, attempted to curb the Morici car in what police believe was either an attempt at robbery or kidnaping. When the daughter, driving the car, eluded the attackers' sedan the men opened fire.

One of the bullets struck Mrs. Morici in the back of the head and, deflected by the bone, came out over her eye. The men fled and the wounded woman was driven to the Robert Burns hospital. Doctors said she would live.

Police were also investigating a possible connection between last night's shooting and the slaying of Antonio and Agostino Morici, rich Sicilian merchants and members of the same family, by gangsters on Jan. 27, 1926, on Ogden avenue near Lincoln avenue.

Stream Train Speeds East on Record Run

BULLETIN.

Barstow, Cal., Oct. 23 (Tuesday). —(Special.)—The streamlined train M-10001 passed through here at 1:06 a. m. (3:06 Chicago time). It had covered the 144 miles from East Los Angeles through the moon lighted Sierra Madre mountains in 3 hours and 6 minutes, clipping an hour and 25 minutes from the steam train schedule.

BY HAL FOUST.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

San Bernardino, Cal., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—The aerodynamic, M-10001, demonstrating a new era of lightweight and high speed railway passenger service, passed here at 11:08 p. m. [1:08 a. m. Tuesday, Chicago time].

The first 64 miles of its record breaknental trip was covered in one hour and eight minutes. Top speed was 85.5 miles per hour.

The engineer, in a comfortable upholstered chair facing a semicircle of windows atop the rounded nose of the carrier, gentled the charger through the suburbs of Los Angeles. This trip is not a race with time; it's a test of a fast schedule for regular service that might retrieve for railroads the passenger business they have lost to the airplanes and automobiles.

Halves Regular Time.

Without exerting itself, the canary yellow and golden brown carrier, shaped somewhat like a huge cigar, halved the regular running time between East Los Angeles and San Bernardino. There was not a great deal of difference in top speeds between the M-10001 and that made by the steam locomotives and their long strings of heavy Pullmans, but this Diesel powered tub of aluminum alloy can accelerate and decelerate more like a modern automobile than like a conventional train.

A crowd of several hundred saw the train leave the East Los Angeles station at 10 o'clock [Pacific time]. They included civic leaders who cheered this initiation of a transportation system that will shorten the distance between California and Chicago nineteen railroad hours, bringing the west coast as close to the midwestern metropolis as is Florida under conventional steam service.

Officials on Train.

Aboard the six coaches, including three sleeping cars, are officials of the Union Pacific, the Pullman company, and the General Motors corporation and representatives of Los Angeles and Chicago newspapers. The cars are articulated so that, except on a curve where the joints bend, it appears to be a single unit with unbroken aerodynamic curves from the head for the 376 feet to the tapered tail.

The train, owned by the Union Pacific, is scheduled to reach Chicago at 3:10 p. m. on Wednesday after covering 2,298 miles in 39 hours and 10 minutes as compared with the present service of 58 hours and 45 minutes from the steam drawn Pullmans.

This will be average speed from Los Angeles to Chicago, including stops, of 58.4 miles per hour. The running time average, including the pull over the Rocky mountains, will be 60 miles an hour. The tentative time table calls for an 80 mile an hour average between Cheyenne, Wyo., and Omaha, Neb., 507 miles. From Chicago

FLOYD TRAPPED AND SHOT DOWN ON FARM IN OHIO

Desperado Has Two Guns, but Runs.

[Copyright: 1934: By the Associated Press.]

East Liverpool, O., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Violent death at the hands of eight pursuing officers ended the crime career of Charles Arthur [Pretty Boy] Floyd on an isolated farm near here today.

He was shot to death in a burst of fire from two machine guns, pistols, and rifles, as he made his final effort to escape the relentless clutches of the law. The rays of a setting sun were falling upon the wooded Columbiana county hills toward which Floyd started running to find a refuge when the volleys laid him low.

Fourteen bullets struck him in the back, and another in the side, as he fled. He died in fifteen minutes.

Pistol in His Hand.

An automatic pistol with its safety catch released was in the hand of the No. 1 public enemy when he fell, but it had not been fired. Another pistol with a full magazine was found in an inside shoulder holster.

A few moments before Floyd was shot down, Stewart Dyke, a brother of Mrs. Ellen Conkle, owner of the farm, had refused to drive Floyd to Youngstown, where the fugitive hoped to find safety in a more populous section.

"I'll not take you there tonight, I'm going home," Dyke said he told Floyd.

Dyke asserted, however, that he had promised to take him to Clarkson, a nearby village.

Floyd's Face Pales.

"I backed up the car. Floyd was in the rear seat. Mrs. Dyke was in the front seat with me. I saw two automobile loads of officers before Floyd saw them and wondered who they were. When Floyd saw them his face paled and he ordered me to drive back of the corn crib.

"After I backed up he said, 'Get going!' and called me a nasty name. He pulled out his gun and jumped out of the car and then crawled under the corn crib. An instant later he darted out and came toward the car. Then he started across a pasture.

"When he was about 500 feet away, the officers started shooting. First he fell on his face, rolled over on his back, and then on his stomach. He got up on his knees and then fell down again.

Put Handcuffs On Him.

"By that time the officers reached him and put handcuffs on him."

Floyd, the slick haired fantom of the Ozarks, was able to say only a few words before he expired.

"Who in the hell tipped you?" he demanded as the officers led by Melvin Purvis, head of the justice department's bureau of investigation in Chicago, approached him.

Purvis immediately questioned Floyd concerning the machine gun massacre of five men at the Kansas City Union station in June, 1933, but to his dying breath Floyd refused to admit participation in that crime. "He wouldn't admit it," Purvis said.

Just before his death the desperado admitted his identity to the department of justice officer. "I am Floyd," he said, and it was apparent he knew that death was near.

He Asks for "Eddie."

A moment before, "Where is Eddie?" Floyd asked the officers. [Apparently he referred to Adam Richetti, captured Saturday near Wellsville, O., when he and Floyd engaged a posse in a gun fight.]

Floyd apparently only knew two bullets had hit him. "You got me twice," he said in a choking voice.

Purvis had a few more words with Floyd, which the department of justice agent did not reveal. Then the officers picked up the wounded fugitive and started to carry him to one of the automobiles intending to hurry him to a hospital.

Floyd, however, was dead before they reached the car.

They took his body to a mortuary in East Liverpool and there it was laid out on a slab, its many wounds to be discovered.

Large Crowd Gathers.

Within a few minutes a crowd of more than 500 persons gathered at the entrance of the undertaking establishment, much like a similar crowd that collected in Chicago a few months ago when department of justice officers led by Purvis shot and killed the notorious John Dillinger.

Police Chief Hugh J. McDermott, who with three East Liverpool patrolmen, aided Purvis and three other department of justice men in the final rundown of the fugitive, said about 50 shots in all were fired.

Chief McDermott tonight stood at the head of a small iron bed on which Floyd's body was placed at the mortuary and met each one of hundreds of persons as they filed through to see the body.

The police chief said he had received a telegram from Mrs. Walter Floyd, mother of the bandit, in Salisaw, Okla. The message read:

"I am the mother of Charles Floyd. If he has been killed, turn the body over to a reliable undertaker and prevent any pictures being taken of him and bar the public. Pass this request to the United States department of justice. Hold body until I arrive."

Cooks Meal for Bandit.

Mrs. Conkle made Floyd's last hour on earth a little more pleasant with a meal that Floyd himself described as "fit for a king." She cooked his last meal for him and it consisted of potatoes, spare ribs, rice, pumpkin pie, doughnuts and coffee.

Floyd paid her a dollar for it and said the meal was "well worth it."

Adam Richetti, long-time partner of Floyd, who was arrested Saturday while Floyd escaped during a gun battle they fought with a posse at Wellsville, was held in jail at Wellsville.

Richetti, in his cell, refused to believe officers tonight when they told him Floyd had been killed until he was shown accounts of the death in a newspaper.

"I don't see why he stuck around so long," Richetti said.

Richetti told the local officers he would resist any attempt to extradite him to Missouri to face a murder charge in the Kansas City massacre.

"I want a lawyer," he said.

Mayor W. H. Daugherty of Wellsville said George Lafferty, prosecutor of Columbiana county, where Richetti was arrested and Floyd killed, would confer with two officials and authorities from Kansas City tomorrow, and at that time details would be arranged for returning the prisoners to Missouri.

HUNTED FOR YEARS

Charles [Pretty Boy] Floyd probably was the most notorious outlaw Oklahoma has known since the days of Al Jennings and the Dalton brothers. At least seven murders—six of the victims officers—and more than a score of bank robberies and kidnapings have been laid at the door of the swaggering outlaw.

He graduated from a local gangster into a killer of national disrepute with the Kansas City slayings. With two other men, named as Adam Richetti, now in the Wellsville, O., jail, and Verne C. Miller, he slew four officers and a prisoner, Frank Nash, on the Union station plaza on June 17, 1933.

Floyd's career of crime began in 1925, when he was sentenced to five years from St. Louis for highway robbery. After his release he engaged in a series of bank robberies, kidnapings, and killings that placed him high in the list of public enemies.

Leaps from Train.

In 1930 Floyd was arrested for the killing of H. F. Manes, an Akron, O., policeman. Unable to obtain sufficient evidence, officers turned him over to Sylvania, O., police for bank robbery. He escaped jail, was recaptured, sentenced to from 10 to 25 years, but escaped again by leaping from a train. Later he was charged with slaying two peace officers in Oklahoma and Ohio.

The latest charge of murder was laid against Floyd yesterday. He and Richetti were charged in warants issued in Columbia, Mo., with murdering Sherif Roger Wilson and Sergt. Ben Booth of the Missouri state highway patrol, a few days before the Kansas City massacre.

FEDERAL AGENT PURVIS IN DOUBT ON ENEMY NO. 1

East Liverpool, O., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Who is the public enemy No. 1 now?

Melvin Purvis, the ace federal investigator, who has picked off two of the No. 1s in the last several months—John Dillinger and now Floyd—doesn't know.

"That would be hard to say," he said tonight. "We still have plenty of work to do."

Department Has One.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The name of George "Baby Face" Nelson tonight was underscored by the justice department as the new "No. 1 public enemy."

Only this morning he was "No. 2." But he was elevated when Charles [Pretty Boy] Floyd fell this afternoon under a hail of federal gunfire.

And John Hamilton, also a member of Dillinger's broken following, is "public enemy No. 2" or close enough to tie with any other contestant for that dubious honor.

Toll of New Typhoon Rises to 11 in the Philippines

MANILA, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Manila Bulletin today listed eleven dead and one missing from yesterday's typhoon and estimated the damage amounted to $1,200,000. The toll from the storm of Oct. 16 remains at approximately 80. Thousands still are homeless. The insular legislature today voted to appropriate $500,000 for relief.

DEATH OF FLOYD LEAVES 2 "GUNS" STILL AT LARGE

Law's Pursuit Takes Toll of Criminals.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The death of Charles [Pretty Boy] Floyd today again emphasized the death trail of the desperadoes and the effectiveness of federal and police drives in the last year to eradicate gangdom.

At large remain only John Hamilton and George [Baby Face] Nelson of the imposing roster of nationally notorious public enemies.

Law's Death Toll.

In the 12 month period blazing guns of peace officers brought death among others, to:

Herbert Youngblood, Negro criminal who escaped jail with Dillinger, slain at Port Huron, Mich., March 16.

Charles Makley, Dillinger mobsman, fatally wounded a few weeks ago in an attempt to escape the Ohio prison.

Harry Pierpont, Makley's running mate, electrocuted in Ohio Oct. 17.

Others Behind Bars.

In addition to death dealt out as a reward for crime, federal and police rounded the majority of other notorious gangs behind bars and two killed themselves.

Verne Sankey, kidnaper and slayer captured here, killed himself in a South Dakota prison; Willie Sharkey, Touhy gangster, hanged himself in a St. Paul jail while awaiting a kidnap trial.

Vern Miller, northwestern sheriff who turned desperado, was found slain and robbed outside Detroit. Police regarded the death as one of intergang warfare.

Gordon Alcorn, another northwestern criminal, who was a running mate of Miller, was captured and jailed.

The Toughy gang was rounded up and its leader, Roger, along with three others, went to an Illinois prison for kidnaping John Factor.

And so it went—desperadoes defying law, the law paying in death or prison.

Purvis Criminals' Nemesis.

Melvin H. Purvis, youthful attorney who turned sleuth, marked another notch on his gun—the death of Pretty Boy Floyd. It was his men who relentlessly trailed the southwestern gunman to his death just as they shot down John Dillinger in Chicago.

Normally mild mannered southerner, who "sees red" when dealing with criminals, Purvis today became the most dangerous nemesis of the desperado.

Whether Purvis himself actually fired the shot that laid Floyd low in Ohio probably never will be known—but he's a good marksman. He wouldn't admit that he fired the fatal shot at Dillinger in front of a north side theater on July 22, but men who were there said his gun barked first.

A few hours later his men rounded up Gordon Alcorn, running mate of Sankey, and saw him put behind the bars.

STREAMED TRAIN LEAVES PACIFIC ON DASH TO EAST

Plan 39 Hour Run to Chicago.

to New York, over the New York Central tracks, the M-10001 will adhere to the eighteen hour schedule of the Twentieth Century Limited.

110 M. P. H. Guaranteed.

The twelve cylinder 900 horsepower Diesel engine in the parabolic nose of the streamlined train was guaranteed by the Winton Engine company of Toledo, O., to drag its 200 tons of tubular aluminum alloy at a peak of 110 miles an hour and with a cruising speed of 90 miles an hour.

In bringing the train west for this run, the M-10001 speedometer touched 116 miles an hour for a short distance on the Omaha to Cheyenne track. This was a record for a rail carrier with sleeper and diner service, although not as fast as some of Germany's experimental models. A vehicle resembling a dirigible with a propeller in front, designed by Franz Krukenberg, made the 180 miles from Berlin to Hamburg three years ago in less than 97 minutes, at one time reaching a speed of over 143 miles an hour.

In the Chicago shops of the Pullman Car and Manufacturing company, trains similar to the M-10001 are nearing completion to inaugurate such service in February without extra fares. The new trains will have sixteen cylinder Diesel engines of 1,200 horse power, with nine coaches.

Son of Harriman Aboard.

W. A. Harriman, chairman of the Union Pacific, is aboard expecting to arrive in New York in fifty-seven and a half hours from Los Angeles. His famous father, the late E. H. Harriman, as chairman of the Union Pacific board, in 1906, rode a special train east from the San Francisco fire to New York in seventy-one hours and twenty-seven minutes for a record that has stood for twenty-eight years.

The thirty-nine hours and ten minutes from Los Angeles to Chicago in this stream lined job will clip about five and a half hours from a record that has stood for twenty-nine years. In 1905, Death Valley Scotty, a prospector who had struck a bonanza, chartered a special train, and with his dog as his only companion, came from Los Angeles to Chicago in forty-four hours and fifty-four minutes.

Denied Custody

John Pestle, an ex-service man, was taken into the Domestic Relations court yesterday, charged with having deserted his two sons, William, 4 years old, and Jack, 3, in a rooming house at 1314 East 62d street. Pestle testified that his wife, Lucille, had left him three weeks ago, and pleaded for custody of his sons. Police, however, testified that Pestle was given to drinking. Judge Jay A. Schiller ordered the children to the Juvenile home until the father mends his ways.

CLUETT CHARGES FEDERAL WASTE WILL RUIN U. S.

New York, Oct. 22.—[Special.]—The country is being "robbed" by Postmaster General James A. Farley, Democratic state and national chairman, in the attempt to put over the New Deal, according to E. Harold Cluett. Cluett is Republican nominee for United States senator. He spoke at a meeting of the Brooklyn G. O. P. Club, Inc.

"The federal government is wasting our money," he said. "The country will be bankrupt within a year."

Cluett added that New York state, which pays about $240,000,000 a year in federal taxes—or 32 per cent of the total for the country—obtained a return of only $57,000 for its farmers under the New Deal's AAA, while Texas, which pays about $13,000,000 in federal taxes, received about $57,000,000 in AAA funds for its farmers.

Referring to Senator Royal S. Copeland, his Democratic opponent, Cluett said he "spends more time with his own business than he does with the business of the government. What we need in the senate is a business man and not a doctor."

Fiorito, Orchestra Leader, Weds Chicago Divorcee

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Ted Fiorito, dance orchestra leader, and Madeline La Salle of Chicago eloped to Yuma, Ariz., today, where they were married. They announced their wedding tonight on their return here by plane. Fiorito and Miss La Salle met in Chicago recently when Fiorito appeared there with his band. Miss La Salle was divorced a month ago from Stevens H. Hammond, polo player of Chicago. Fiorito also was divorced in 1932 by Mrs. Janet Miller Fiorito on grounds of desertion. Fiorito's orchestra has appeared in Chicago at the Edgewater Beach hotel and the Blackhawk restaurant.

PREFERENCE OF HEIRESS ENTERS VANDERBILT SUIT

Court Ponders Mother's Visit to Child.

New York, Oct. 22.—[Special.]—While Mrs. Gloria Morgan Vanderbilt and Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney disputed the custody of 10 year old Gloria Vanderbilt and her $4,000,000 trust fund in a Supreme court action, the child's own preference today intruded on the proceedings.

Justice John F. Carew was confronted with the problem as to whether, in a habeas corpus action, he could hear evidence of the meeting of Mrs. Vanderbilt with her child last Saturday at the Whitney home in Old Westbury, N. Y.

Counsel for both sides held conference with him after court adjourned, but the decision was not revealed. The press has been barred from the proceedings since the testimony, in the opinion of Justice Carew, became productive of "scandalous gossip."

Two Versions of Visit.

According to information obtained outside court, however, there are two versions of the visit. Both versions agree that Mrs. Vanderbilt and her two unmarried sisters, by arrangement between counsel, visited the Whitney home. It was Mrs. Vanderbilt's first attempt to see her child in a month. The two versions also agree that Mrs. Vanderbilt suffered a nervous collapse while there and was treated by a physician.

The opposing versions differ in that the Vanderbilt story attributes the mother's collapse to the indignity of visiting her own child "under a guard of cordons of police," whereas the Whitney story declares the mother was overcome when the child had hysterics in fear that her mother was about to take her away from Mrs. Whitney, her aunt. Dr. Everett Jessup, summoned by the Whitney nurse from Roslyn to treat the child, is understood to have calmed the mother, also.

Will Talk with Gloria.

All that could be learned from Justice Carew was that he intended to talk with the child in the presence of both sides before he decided on her custody.

Meanwhile Mrs. Whitney took the witness stand for the first time in her effort to gain permanent control of Gloria. Her direct testimony occupied the morning. Nathan Burkan, counsel for Mrs. Vanderbilt, said when court adjourned that he would need about two days to cross-examine Mrs. Whitney.

It is understood he will make a counter attack for Mrs. Vanderbilt by questioning the morality of the use of nude models by Mrs. Whitney for some of her sculpture.

MRS. ROBINSON FEARS HARM BY HUNTED HUSBAND

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Thomas H. Robinson Jr., indicted for the abduction of Alice Speed Stoll, tonight preferred prison to freedom and possible attack by her fugitive husband, also wanted for the crime, as she awaited arraignment scheduled for tomorrow.

This was announced by Clem W. Huggins, counsel for the woman now held in Jefferson county jail in default of $50,000 bond. Huggins said, "She is safer in jail," explaining that she fears death at the hands of her mate.

Search for her husband continued through the nation. Seattle banks were asked to check incoming bills after reports that a man answering Robinson's description had been in that area.

Decide Date of Hauptmann Trial at Hearing Tomorrow

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

New York, Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Bruno Hauptmann, the melancholy German charged with the murder of the Lindbergh baby, will be arraigned Wednesday morning at Flemington, N. J., and a date set for his trial, according to a decision reached this afternoon at a conference between attorneys for the state and defense.

There will be no petition for a change of venue, the defense lawyer, James M. Fawcett, announced. He said he was convinced the farmers and townspeople who were Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's neighbors in March, 1932, when the child was kidnaped, would give Hauptmann as fair a trial as he would get in any other Jersey county.

Hauptmann, therefore, will be tried in the century-old courthouse at Flemington, before Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard. The precise date for the beginning of the selection of a jury remained problematical although predictions were that it would be either Nov. 12 or 19.

Loses 30 Pounds in Jail.

In his cell at the new jail at Flemington, the ex-convict was reported to be even more churlish in his behavior than before. Rumors were frequent that he was about to break down and make a confession. These were based upon his glum exterior and his apparent nervousness. He has lost 30 pounds since his imprisonment and eats little in jail, his guards reported.

Attorney General David T. Wilentz announced that New Jersey's case against Hauptmann was "complete."

If the presiding judge permits, the jury will be taken into the Sourland mountain region near Hopewell, N. J., where the kidnaping was committed, the attorney general revealed. They will examine the Lindbergh home and then go to the deserted region some miles away where the body of the 20-months-old infant was finally discovered 73 days after the child had been abducted from its nursery.

The prosecutor said he saw no reason why John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk shipbuilder, should be a witness at the trial. Curtis was convicted two years ago for hampering the kidnap investigation through the perpetration of a hoax. He was sentenced to three years' imprisonment but was released eventually on payment of a $1,000 fine.

Hunt Costs a Million.

The cost of the two and one-half year hunt which resulted in the arrest of Hauptmann was a million dollars, Assistant Chief Inspector John J. Sullivan declared. He said this estimate included the salaries and expenses of New York, New Jersey, and federal operatives assigned to the investigation.

"Traveling expenses made up the major part of the cost," he revealed. "It cost more to run down the false leads than to trace the good ones."

IL DUCE SWINGS PICK ON DOOMED HUTS IN ROME

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

ROME, Oct. 22.—Wielding a pick with energy and skill betraying the long practice he had with this instrument when he supported himself in exile by working as a common laborer, Premier Mussolini today personally inaugurated work on one of the most important projects for the beautification of Rome. The mausoleum of Augustus, which at present is used as a concert hall, will be partially restored. A large open space will be created around it by tearing down a great number of small dirty houses which cluster around it on all sides.

Mussolini climbed to the roof of one of the doomed houses and there removed his black coat revealing underneat a gaily colored jersey tucked in at the top of his riding breeches. He rolled up the sleeves of the jersey and with his hands removed tiles from the roof. Then he seized a pick and began raining blows on the top of the wall until a large piece toppled over and fell into the street below to the accompaniment of loud cheers.

Before beginning his housewrecking activities, Mussolini spoke to the assembled workmen. Isolation of the mausoleum of Augustus, he said, will transform what is presently one of the filthiest and most unhygenic quarters into one of the beauty spots of the city. One hundred twenty houses will be demolished.

Stay on Curb Till Trafic Light Changes, Is Warning

Do not stand in the street while waiting for changes in the direction of trafic. This warning was issued by the Chicago Safety council in its weekly bulletin yesterday. "Many pedestrians venture two or three feet into the street while waiting to cross," the bulletin said. "This practice not only tends to slow down the movement of trafic but confuses drivers and endangers the lives of the pedestrians. Stay on the curb."

INSULLS HIT BACK AT TESTIMONY ON MARKET 'RIGGING'

U. S. Witness Is Firm on Cross-Examination.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

In cross-examination of R. A. Knittle, government expert accountant witness, Samuel Insull's defense fought all day yesterday to break down the testimony that the market for Corporation Securities company stock was an Insull market, kept up by "wash sales" and intricate intercompany transactions that led the public to buy at fictitious valuations.

At the close of the day the witness was just as stubborn about this point of view as he had been at the start, but he admitted that it was a conclusion that he had drawn from the books, and his qualifications as an expert were challenged by the defense.

Try to Discredit Chart.

Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson had under advisement last night a motion by Attorney Floyd E. Thompson, attorney for the Insulls, to strike from the record the graphic chart by which the witness had proved to his own satisfaction that the great bulk of the stock exchange trading in these stocks in 1929, 1930, and 1931 was done by Insull investment companies through various brokerage houses.

The defense introduced a theory that would reduce by half the percentages given by government witness in picturing the relation of Insull company trading to the total volume of trading in these stocks.

Mr. Thompson had a new chart put before the jury which had the same colored tubes across it, but the mixture of colors was different.

Government's View Assailed.

In this chart the public had a much larger share in the trading. The question raised was whether a buy and sell order was to be considered one transaction or two. The government chart had put the Insull companies into the picture whether they were on the buying or selling side. This naturally doubled their precentage in the volume relation.

Knittle admitted that the Utility Securities company, which was managing the sales of Corporation Securities stock, was in the general stock business buying for investment and for resale, but he insisted that in the charts which he had prepared they were representing the Corporation Securities only. He did not look at the certificates or at the stock transfer ledgers, he said. He did not find the secret acounts of J. D. Schienman & Co. reflected on the books of the defendant companies.

Bolsters "Wash Sale" Testimony.

He was somewhat wobbly about the methods of the Stock Clearing corporation in disposing of certificates and balancing accounts, but he stuck to the general conclusion that the sales and purchases he had traced represented sales without change of ownership.

Mr. Thompson won a point in getting a ruling from the court permitting him to have a list of the references on the "work sheets" from which the witness had testified. The attorney said that it was a hopeless proposition to attempt to test the accuracy of the witness through hundreds of books and thousand of pages.

He wanted the work sheets which the witness had used, but the government objected and the point was not pressed by the court.

Defense Motion Upheld.

"This is not a summarization, but a conclusion," said the court at one point of this argument. "The defense is entitled to the basis of the testimony."

He permitted Mr. Thompson to reserve a portion of his cross-examination until he had had a chance to examine the records from which it came. The attorney said he had already examined some and had found a dozen errors. Special Prosecutor Leslie E. Salter challenged this statement.

"Go ahead and check," he said to the defense. "We challenge you. It is all foolishness to say that this witness would come here and swear to lies."

On redirect examination of this witness Mr. Salter asked only one question, and that was for the witness to explain the difference between the chart which he had presented and the one offered by the defense.

Expct New Witnesses Today.

Unless further examination of this witness intervenes, the prosecution will go ahead this morning with new witnesses. A dozen more "victim" witnesses are in waiting and a government accountant is to attempt to build up through the books of the defendant companies the prosecution theory that the Corporation Securities company was insolvent long before it quit selling stock to the public.

The state's case of embezzlement against Samuel Insull was called yesterday before Chief Justice Dennis E. Sullivan in the Criminal court. Mr. Thompson asked by telephone for a delay, stating that the case in the federal courts would not be completed this year. No objections were made by the state's attorney and the Criminal court trial was set for Jan. 7.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green was ill with a cold yesterday and did not attend the federal court trial.

Professional Models Protest Against Outsiders

FINDS STRANGE INDIAN TRIBE IN SIBERIA; LIVE IN WIGWAMS

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

MOSCOW, Oct. 22.—Julian Bryan, the first American to take movies in Siberia, left Moscow for New York tonight after an adventurous journey among strange tribes in remote regions of the Soviet Union. He visited the Tungus, who migrated from Manchuria to Northern Siberia 1,000 years ago. They live much like the American Indians. They live in wigwams, traverse lakes and rivers in birch-bark canoes or dugouts, and have implicit faith in medicine men who exercise evil spirits with drums.

They subsist on reindeer milk, which there is as rich as Devonshire cream, meat and little else. Their favorite dish, which they presented to Bryan, is the upper lip of a moose. Primitive as their life is, the Soviet has succeeded in collectivizing them and their reindeer. There are great huntsmen, but they hunt according to the second Five-Year plan, each "worker" having his quota of wild goats, moose, elk, bear, and smaller game to bag. There are about 400 Tungus.

Loyola Dean Recovering After Falling at Home

John McCormick, 43 years old, dean of Loyola university law school, was reported recovering in St. Francis hospital, Evanston, from injuries incurred at his home, 6151 North Talman avenue, last Saturday. Dean McCormick was reported to have fallen after slipping on a rug in a hallway.

MODELS LAUNCH DRIVE AGAINST SOCIETY GIRLS

Say Debs Take Little Pay or None.

Professional models representing all branches of the vocation in Chicago met yesterday afternoon in the office of Attorney Kenneth K. Krippene to launch a campaign of protest against society girls' invasion of their field. New York models announced on Sunday a similar purpose.

Backed by the Models' Registration bureau, at which more than 650 professional models are registered, the Chicago group drew up and signed "an appeal to society girls," some 300 of whom are now modeling, to "show their sportsmanship" and withdraw from the calling. Copies of the "appeal" are to be sent to all shops employing socially prominent persons as models.

The models charged that their society competitors lowered the standards of modeling, depressed the rates of pay, and took work needed by professionals for livelihood.

Like Pictures in Print.

"The standard modeling rate," said Mrs. Connie Seaman, head of the models' bureau, "is $5 for the first two hours and $3 for each successive hour. The society girl, who models for two reasons—the publicity she gets out of it or the compliment it pays her personal vanity—will accept $2 an hour. More often than not, she receives no pay, her picture in the paper being compensation enough. Often she is given the expensive gown she is modeling.

"An average professional Chicago model works three days a week, averaging from $5 to $10 a day. Out of this she not only supports herself, but maintains an extensive wardrobe necessary for modeling purposes. Of the 2,500 professionals in Chicago less than 200 have regular work."

Displaced by Free Worker.

Two known as "top models" were at the meeting yesterday. One, Violet Bonner, 2226 West 54th place, said she averaged $18 a week; the other, Betty Hayden, 2010 Archer avenue, $30.

"I modeled for six years," said blonde Jean Dodd, 3118 North Harding avenue, "and then a society girl deprived me of my job because she could work for nothing."

Among the socially prominent girls and women who have been modeling recently are Mrs. Walter F. McLallen III., Miss Jean Stevens, Miss Peggy Hambleton, Mrs. Phillip Maher, Mrs. C. Ross Cuthbert, Miss Nancy Traylor, Miss Francise Clow, Miss Dorothy Ranney, Miss Jane Schuttler, Miss Margaret Chapman, and Mrs. W. Irving Osborne Jr.

CHARGE UNDERTAKER EXHIBITED BODIES OF 2 EXECUTED SLAYERS

James M. Hall, Negro undertaker with an establishment at 4031 South State street, was asked last night to appear at the coroner's office for questioning about what is alleged to be a slightly unethical delay in the disposition of two bodies intrusted to him.

The bodies were those of Alonso McNeal and George Walker, both Negroes, who were electrocuted Oct. 12 for the murder of Policeman John Officer. They were not buried until yesterday, despite a law which prohibits the keeping of a body more than 100 hours.

Word was received at the coroner's office that Hall had been charging admission to view the bodies in his shop, and an investigator was sent out by Coroner Frank J. Walsh. The deputy arrived just in time for the funeral at the First Church of Deliverance, 4315 South Wabash avenue.

Loud speakers were carrying the words of the Rev. C. H. Cobb, Negro spiritualist, to throngs in the street, and Undertaker Hall and others were discovered taking "collections" from those who desired to enter for a last look at the departed.

Hall said he was just raising money to bury the two bodies, and agreed to tell Coroner Walsh in what style.

WITNESS ADMITS PERJURY; 2 ARSON SUSPECTS FREED

Two more men convicted of arson in connection with an Elgin factory fire were freed in the Kane county Circuit court in Geneva yesterday after the state's key witness declared he had given perjured testimony at the request of Paul E. Bertram, former deputy state fire mashal.

The defendants were Harry Samsky, 1332 South Kedzie avenue, and Thomas H. Farrell of Berwyn. Four years ago they were found guilty of having set an $80,000 fire at the E. P. Johnson Piano company plant in Elgin, then leased by Farrell. Their conviction was reversed by the Supreme court on technical grounds. Samsky's second trial opened last week.

Louis Van Meter, 20 years old, 1440 South Sawyer avenue, an employé of Samsky's trucking business, admitted he had lied twice as a witness.

Judge Frank W. Shepherd instructed the jury to acquit Samsky, nol prossed the charge against Farrell, and ordered Van Meter held in $2,500 bonds for perjury.

ERNEST STEVENS FREED BY STATE SUPREME COURT

Embezzlement Conviction Is Reversed.

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday reversed the conviction of Ernest J. Stevens, former president of the Stevens and La Salle hotels, for embezzlement. The high court's finding held, in effect, that bad business judgment is not necessarily criminality.

Stevens was convicted Oct. 14, 1933, by a jury in the Criminal court of Judge Michael Feinberg of having embezzled $1,308,463 from the funds of the Illinois Life Insurance company, of which he was vice president, and transferring it to the treasury of the Stevens hotel in 1931. He was sentenced to one to ten years in prison on Nov. 27, 1933, but has been at liberty pending his appeal, on which yesterday's reversal was based.

Insulls Face Similar Charge.

State's Attorney Courtney, who will direct the prosecution of similar embezzlement cases against Samuel Insull and his brother, Martin, declined to comment on the Supreme court's ruling.

"We'll have to study that one over," he said, adding that it would take several days to analyze the high court's opinion. He also was uncertain whether he would ask for a rehearing of the case.

In reversing the case the Supreme court did not remand it, and thus it will not be retried. In view of this it was regarded as highly unlikely that the state would elect to try Stevens on another charge of embezzlement and one of conspiracy which were stricken off with leave to reinstate. These counts are predicated on virtually the same principles as the case in question.

Facts Not in Dispute.

"The facts concerning these transactions," the Supreme court opinion said after reviewing the evidence, "are not in dispute. As to the conclusions of law and inferences of fact to be drawn from these facts, there is, however, very serious dispute."

The opinion emphasized that whereas embezzlement is usually done secretly, there had been no attempt by Stevens to cover up the large loans from the insurance company to the hotel, and the deals were approved by the insurance company directors.

"We are not commending the loans to the hotel company as sound investments," the opinion said, "but . . . we are here considering fraud and criminal intent in these transactions. It is a far cry from a mistake in investments made in good faith to a felonious, fraudulent investment made for the purpose of converting the funds of the lender to the use of the accused.

Fraudulent Intent Held Lacking.

"There is no evidence of fraudulent intent. We are of the opinion that the record does not justify a verdict of guilty."

Stevens had been indicted with his father, James W. Stevens, and his brother, Raymond W. Stevens. The father was too ill to stand trial with his son and Raymond killed himself in his Highland Park home. During his trial Stevens told friends that he was defending the honor of his family, and accepted full responsibility for the acts under legal scrutiny.

Stevens, reached at his home, expressed elation at the outcome of his appeal.

"I think the opinion speaks for itself," he said. "It appears the Supreme court supported completely the position we took during my trial. I'm very, very happy now that it is established definitly that what I did was what I believed then to be the best for all concerned."

TWO OHIO BANKERS FACE FEDERAL JURY; CHARGE FALSE ENTRY

Cleveland, O., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Joseph R. Nutt, former board chairman, and Wilbur M. Baldwin, former president of the Union Trust company went on trial in federal court today on charges of making false entries in the bank's books.

The government's case revolves around an alleged $10,000,000 "window dressing" of the bank's statement on Sept. 30, 1931.

The government charges that the statement showed a false increase of $10,000,000 in deposits and of $10,000,000 in government bonds owned by the bank.

PURDUE STUDENT AND GIRL TO FACE DYER ACT CHARGE

The Chicago avenue police last night were holding Alfred H. Brauer, 19 years old, a student of Purdue university, Lafayette, Ind., and Miss Selma Underwood, 19 years old, of Durham, N. C., for prosecution by federal authorities under the Dyer act, which prohibits interstate transportation of stolen automobiles. The couple were arrested Sunday night in front of a fur shop at 105 East Delaware place when their actions aroused the suspicions of neighbors. They directed the police to an automobile which they admitted having stolen in Lafayette.

Brauer told the police that his father is Herman G. A. Brauer, of Raleigh, N. C., and said the elder Brauer was connected with the federal tarif commission in Washington. He said he is married and that last Sunday was the first anniversary of his wedding. His wife, who lives in Raleigh, N. C., gave birth to a baby two months ago, he said.

Miss Underwood said she left her job as waitress in a Durham, N. C., restaurant on Oct. 15, to go to Lafayette to meet him at his solicitation. Brauer was compelled by his parents to transfer his studies from Duke university at Durham to Purdue university because of his attentions to her, she said.

NEW DEAL SANTA, POLITICAL BOSS HOLD MISSOURI

Democrats Entrenched by Doles, Pendergast.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 22. — [Special.]—Between them, Santa Claus of Washington, D. C., and Boss Tom ["Feed 'em and vote 'em"] Pendergast of Kansas City are going to carry Missouri handily for the Democratic ticket on Nov. 6. It looks like an unbeatable combination.

Senator Roscoe Conkling Patterson, Republican, possibly the most outspoken critic of Roosevelt policies on the rostrum today, apparently is doomed to go down to defeat battling the New Deal. His Democratic opponent is Boss Pendergast's selection for the senate, Harry S. Truman, presiding judge of the County court in Kansas City, whose speeches run largely to laudation of President Roosevelt, the "great humanitarian and savior of his people."

Situation Favors Democrats.

Almost every element in the political situation favors Democratic triumph. The "show me" state has shaken more than 225 million dollars from the Roosevelt Christmas tree. There are 108,000 families and 16,000 single persons on the federal relief rolls—close to 500,000 individuals out of a population of 3½ millions. Up to Sept. 1 the detailed figures on the flow of government money into Missouri were:

Rental and cash benefits to farmers	$10,488,116
CCC camps	5,311,668
Farm Credit administration to Aug. 1	27,375,557
Emergency relief	24,764,481
Home Owners' Loan corporation	37,713,242
Public Works administration	76,879,265
Reconstruction Finance corporation	41,250,415
Total	$223,692,744
Total federal taxes paid by state, including processing taxes, were	$ 80,626,117

Here as elsewhere the Democratic candidates and managers are throwing out the suggestion more or less openly that those receiving the manna from Washington or expectant of favors yet to come will consult their best interests by electing Democrats, who reasonably may be expected to possess more influence than Republicans would have with the Roosevelt administration. A typical revelation of the political situation was afforded by a parade for Truman in St. Francois county, which was composed entirely of members of the 7,429 families on federal relief.

Farmers Strong for AAA.

Even the Missouri farmers, unlike the Kansas husbandmen, are strong for the AAA. In the recent AAA referendum the vote was 34,173 for and 19,208 against the continuation of the corn-hog restriction program in 1935, and 26,402 for and 23,330 against a live stock and grain curtailment program for 1936. This in the face of the fact that compared with the 10½ millions of bounties received, the Missouri farmers had contributed nearly 21¼ millions in processing taxes.

When it comes to the matter of political organization, the Democrats everywhere are firmly in the saddle. In the Roosevelt landslide of two years ago the Democrats swept almost every particle of patronage with its attendant political influence into their control. They have the state administration, the city and county administration in Kansas City, the city administration in St. Louis, and innumerable other city and county offices. Combined, the Democratic state, city, and county job holders and the army of federal administrators, agents, coördinators, and other employés in the Missouri field service of the Washington alphabetical establishments constitute an aggregation of Democratic pay rollers sufficiently numerous to carry a state election normally.

Republicans Disorganized.

The Republican party is disorganized, demoralized, and without funds. Republican leaders perked up at the disclosure of reaction against Roosevelt policies in the Literary Digest poll, which in the case of Missouri amounted to a 21 per cent waning of enthusiasm for the New Deal. But the figures left the New Dealers with 54 per cent, compared with 46 per cent for the opposition. The general attitude among Republican leaders seems to be that while there is no hope of carrying the state this time, a good foundation is being laid for a Republican comeback in 1936. The reaction against the New Deal is most pronounced among business men.

Pendergast, a chunky man with a large head set on a muscular neck—a living cartoonist's conception of a political boss—is the master not only of Kansas City but also of the state. He names senators, congressmen, governors, state legislators, and in this election the state superintendent of schools and two members of the Supreme court. Pendergast impresses you as a reincarnation of Boss Croker; his Kansas City organization out-Tammanies Tammany, with politicians fattening on the proceeds of vice and crime and city contracts.

"We Feed 'Em and We Vote 'Em."

Asked once to reveal the secret of his power, Pendergast said:

"I'm where I am today because of my own ability. I know all the angles of organizing and every man I meet becomes a friend. I know how to select ward captains and I know how to get to the poor. Every single one of my ward workers has a fund to buy food, coal, shoes, and clothing for the poverty stricken. And when a poor man comes to Old Tom's boys for help, we don't make one of those —— investigations like these city charities. No, by God, we feed 'em and we vote 'em."

With the bonus issue destined to bulk large in the next congress, it is interesting to note that Truman and some of the candidates for congress have pledged themselves to vote for full payment of the bonus at once.

The prospect is that the Republicans will gain two members of congress in St. Louis and perhaps another in the Ozarks district.

Senator Patterson has scorned to give any lip service to any aspect of the New Deal. He rakes it from stem to stern in every speech.

Assails Administration.

"Under the program of this administration," he says, "our constitution, which President Roosevelt took an oath to preserve, protect, and defend, is being undermined and destroyed.

"The Republican party, the true champion of constitutional government and Americanism, invites citizens of all walks of life to join with it in restoring American traditions and in protecting the American form of government. We declare that old-time Jeffersonian Democrats hold no principles in common with the radicalism which their present leaders endeavor to foist upon them.

"It is apparent that those who are directing national affairs are not engaged in a program of economic reconstruction, but are steering closer and closer to a system of collectivism and regimentation of finance, commerce, labor, industry, and agriculture, all directed and controled by a colossal burocracy.

"Can't Loaf Into Success."

"We do not believe that you can spend yourself into prosperity; that you can loaf yourself into success.

"While masquerading as Democrats these national leaders have deserted every known principle of democracy and substituted therefor the teachings and principles of socialism and communism.

"We believe the farmer should have the right to farm as he sees fit and that no alphabetical chief should have the power to dictate to him as to the crops he should raise or acreage he should till.

"Boards and bureaus are legislating rules and regulations which interfere with every phase of private business, regiment and control whole industries, discriminate between localities, sections and industries; order the daily lives and the methods of earning a living of millions of our citizens.

"Controls Financial Structure."

"The administration has taken over control of the financial and credit structure of the nation. It is continually reaching out for more and larger powers to be concentrated in the hands of the executive. It is using money, wrung from the people by the bludgeoning of taxation, to insure election of its favorites. It has robbed Peter to pay Paul.

"These and other measures were put through under the guise of emergency action. It is now demanded that they be made permanent. No better example of the growth of burocratic arrogance or of executive usurpation can be found than the demand of the administration that these measures be made permanent. In one short year unrestrained power has advanced from relief to revaluation, from temporary regulation to permanent reorganization."

TABER AND KEHOE BAIL $200,000 IN TWO BUS DEATHS

CRIMINAL COURT.
William McDaniel, larceny of an automobile, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

Bonds of $100,000 each were set by Chief Justice Denis E. Sullivan in the Criminal court yesterday for William Taber and Joseph J. Kehoe, officials of the street car men's union, who are under indictment on charges of murder growing out of violence in the strike called against the Chicago Motor Coach company Aug. 16.

The two deaths involved in the indictments are those of James Kelly, a bus dispatcher, and Mrs. Mary Kennard, 65 years old, of the Hyde Park hotel. Kelly was slugged and shot to death Sept. 27 and Mrs. Kennard died the same evening three hours after she was struck on the head by a steel ball bearing hurled through the window of a south side bus.

"These two men are equally chargeable in these murders with the men who actually fired the bullets or dispatched that steel ball," First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley told Judge Sullivan.

Leon Weitzman was fined $25 and costs for contempt yesterday by Superior Judge Joseph B. David during the trial of a $10,000 damage suit against the bakery company. The suit grew out of the death of Mrs. Alice Wheaton Gray, who was struck by one of the bakery's trucks. Weitzman failed to obey a subpena summoning him to testify as to whether the truck was being operated for the company at the time. Weitzman paid his fine and the company attorney stipulated that the truck was being driven on company business at the time.

HOOVER TALKS TO 50 HELPERS IN BELGIAN RELIEF COMMISSION

New York, Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Speaking over a telephone from Palo Alto, Cal., through an amplifier at the New York University club, former President Herbert Hoover talked tonight to fifty men who formerly had been associated with him when he was chairman of the commission for relief in Belgium during the world war.

Former members of the commission from various parts of this country and from Belgium gathered at the club for a dinner to celebrate the 20th anniversary of the formation of the commission in London. At the conclusion of the dinner the former members heard a five minute address of greetings from Mr. Hoover at his home in California.

When the relief work of the commission ended in 1919 an educational foundation was formed by the members to devote remaining funds of the commission for the establishment of scholarships and fellowships between this country and Belgium.

EFFECTIVE AT ONCE THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE WILL ACCEPT LIQUOR ADVERTISMENTS

ON October 19, 1933, the Chicago Tribune announced that, if and when prohibition was repealed, it would not accept advertisments of whisky, brandy, gin, rum, and similar liquors.

The decision was based on careful observations of the methods used to promote the sale and use of liquor prior to ratification of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Until the methods to be employed to distribute liquor after repeal were made known and could be observed in operation over a reasonable period of time, the Tribune felt it would best serve its readers and the general public by not publishing liquor advertising.

Enough time has now elapsed in which to draw some conclusions regarding the liquor industry and its future.

During the past year the Tribune has observed the reasonable deportment of the public in the exercise of its returned right to drink liquor publicly. It has considered, without alarm, the manner in which the legitimate distiller has sought distribution and customers.

In the activities of more responsible retailers, who have become important factors in the distribution of liquor, it has had evidence that sales of liquors would more than likely continue on a level more satisfactory than in pre-Volstead days.

On the other hand, the bootleg industry has carried over from prohibition days and operates to the detriment of the public revenues and the legitimate dealers who are asking that the bona fides of their brands be made known to the public.

Influenced by these developments, the Tribune is of the opinion that it should now open its advertising columns to the legitimate liquor manufacturer and retailer, and that by so doing, it will contribute to the general welfare by increasing the pressure against the illicit manufacture and sale of liquor.

Henceforth, without advocating the use of liquor, and reserving the right to reject any specific liquor advertisment, the Tribune will accept and print liquor advertising.

NEW DEALERS FISH FOR VOTES ALONG OHIO RIVER

Hint at Millions for Shipping, Power.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Politics, particularly the situation in Pennsylvania, where the New Dealers have a fight on their hands, occupied the attention of the White House today.

After a long conference with President Roosevelt, Messrs. Joseph F. Guffey and George H. Earle, Democratic candidates for United States senator and governor respectively in Pennsylvania, issued a formal statement dangling before the voters of the upper Ohio and Delaware river watersheds something like a new Tennessee Valley authority.

Outlines Big Power Plan.

Morris L. Cooke of Philadelphia, chairman of the power resources division of the President's national resources board, also participated in the conference and lent his name to the joint statement. This said Mr. Roosevelt had ordered an immediate survey of water power, navigation, flood control, and rural electrification possibilities in Pennsylvania "so that construction can begin promptly when the projects are authorized."

Mr. Guffey was asked whether this dallying with the thought of getting many, many millions of dollars for Pennsylvania meant that the New Dealers were afraid of Senator David A. Reed, the Republican candidate for reëlection, who is supported by Gov. Gifford Pinchot, an ex-New Dealer. Mr. Guffey said the proposal had no such significance; that it had been considered for years.

Nevertheless the episode at the White House had its amusing aspects, for it was recalled that Gov. and Mrs. Pinchot were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt just before the May primaries in Pennsylvania. Gov. Pinchot was the Republican candidate for the nomination against Senator Reed and had the blessings of the New Deal.

After he had lost in the primaries, however, Pinchot threw his support to Reed. Postmaster General James A. Farley was chagrined. Tonight Mr. Guffey and Mr. Earle were among the White House guests at a dinner given by Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt.

President Orders Survey.

The statement, issued by three White House conferees, said in part: "The President has ordered a survey and preliminary plans for the purpose of developing the water resources in the upper Ohio and Delaware watersheds so that construction can begin promptly when the projects are authorized. The dams will be of the multiple type, with navigation, flood control, and power, and the plans will be developed in consultation with Mr. Morris Cooke.

"The President is deeply interested in the development of rural electrification in Pennsylvania and will ask the national resources board to give this development immediate consideration.

"The President ordered an immediate survey by the national resources board of means not only to stop the decline in the use of coal but to increase it.

"The committee which will study this matter will consider the economic relation between Pennsylvania's coal and New York's hydro-electric development on the St. Lawrence river."

The announcement of steps to increase the use of coal along with the development of hydro-electric power on a grand scale sets a precedent in the way of economic alterations attempted by the natural resources experts. The National Coal association, which incidentally is meeting here Friday, is waging a nation-wide fight against the New Deal's "billion dollar" power program on the ground that it will destroy the coal industry and throw countless thousands of miners out of work.

Fights Tennessee Project.

This association estimates that the Tennessee Valley authority alone, fully developed, will throw 16,665 miners out of work. The TVA and other hydro-electric projects of the New Deal will be the center of discussion at the coal convention.

Besides Mr. Guffey and Mr. Earle the President had one other political caller, Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, majority leader in the senate. Senator Robinson said he and the President discussed the general political situation and were "both well satisfied with it." The senator also announced plans to visit the President at Warm Springs, Ga., next month to discuss public questions and legislation for the next session.

Another White House visitor was James E. Van Zandt, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, who presented a 7 point program calling for, among other things, immediate payment of the cash bonus. In view of his speech at Roanoke, Va., President Roosevelt was not expected to take this recommendation seriously.

ROOSEVELT ASKS ALL WHO CAN TO HELP POOR

Speaks for Work of the Private Charities.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt tonight appealed to the country to support private charitable organizations so that the huge burden of government relief will not increase.

In a brief radio address from the White House the President opened the "1934 Mobilization for Human Needs," a coördination of private relief societies which are now seeking financial aid thoughout the country.

Citizens are being relied upon by the government to keep up their contributions to private charities in order to keep down public relief, the President declared.

Should Lighten Others' Burden.

"The federal government, the state governments and the local governments," he said, "are all of them bearing an unusually heavy load of expenditures for relief and employment purposes—a load so heavy that every good citizen should seek to lighten it in every way possible. This effort on the part of governments of all kinds to bear their share of the emergency needs proceeds very clearly on the assumption that the total amount of relief of human needs, heretofore borne by private contributions to private organizations, will continue in the future at least at the same pace and in the same amount as in the past."

Saying that it is unwise to hand over to the government any burdens which can be borne privately, Mr. Roosevelt argued that good citizenship called for a continuation of private relief in its present volume.

"I hope you will well realize," he pointed out, that it is contrary to sound public policy to transfer more burdens to the shoulders of government if it can possibly be avoided and, therefore, that private charity should as a matter of good citizenship, be maintained at least at current levels."

Praise for Private Charity.

Upon the continuation of private charities depends the continuation of personal relationships in relief work, the President said, observing also that the centralization of relief in public bodies was undesirable.

"Surely none of you," he said to his radio audience, "want to centralize the care of relief either in Washington or in your state capitol or in your city hall. The decent realization of relief—the keeping of it in the hands of private organizations as much as we possibly can—means that personal relationships, personal contacts, personal obligations, and personal opportunities to do good will be preserved.

"It is, therefore, without hesitation and with very deep feeling that I ask you to support your local charitable and welfare organizations in this 1934 mobilization for human needs."

The President's speech started the financial efforts of thousands of charity organizations, especially community chests, throughout this country. Newton D. Baker, wartime secretary of war, who heads the 1934 mobilization for human needs, also broadcast an appeal from Cleveland in support of the drives.

MRS. ROOSEVELT FINDS 'CCC' FOR IDLE WOMEN IS A GOOD THING

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Mrs. Roosevelt today indorsed as a "tremendously good thing" the plan, tried out this year for the first time, of educational camps for unemployed women.

As an outgrowth of her idea of a camp for unemployed girls, which resulted in the organizations of Camp Tera, on Bear mountain in New York, twenty-eight schools and camps for unemployed women were established last summer in twenty-eight states and the District of Columbia, under the direction of Miss Hilda Smith, specialist in workers' education of the federal emergency relief administration.

Mrs. Roosevelt also specifically approved today the policy, which was the subject of some criticism last summer, of including in camp discussions of the principles and platforms of all political parties and schools of thought, not excepting communism and socialism.

"I don't see how they could be left out of such general discussions," Mrs. Roosevelt declared. "They are part of the whole picture in any discussion of politics or economics. And I personally feel that the more knowledge and intelligence people who live in a democracy can bring to the solution of their problems, the better. After all one can't live [illegible] this world without hearing about these things, and it is certainly better and more valuable to have democratic discussion of such subjects under intelligent direction and leadership than to leave them to be talked about by individuals with perhaps a narrower background and less breadth of vision to assist their understanding."

The New York summer school, the Oberlin resident school for women, and the Chicago training center, were among those denounced by critics as promoting dangerous radicalism and fostering treason through failure to suppress discussion of communism in their open forums or to withhold from the students literature in their libraries on the subject of communism and socialism.

MANY ABSENTEES FROM MEETINGS OF RELIEF BOARD

Six Month Attendance Is 54 Per Cent.

Members of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, who sit as a board of directors representing the citizen stockholders in the relief business, which has a gross of $120,000,000 annually, had an attendance average of only 54 per cent over the last six months period, a survey showed yesterday. The commissioners receive no compensation.

At the Sept. 25 meeting Chairman Robert J. Dunham and John P. Roche were the only members at the long table where ten men are supposed to sit. On Oct. 5 Chairman Dunham and John P. Roche carried on the meeting. Not forming a quorum, their actions were ratified in rubber stamp fashion at the next meeting, when seven members were present.

Numerous Problems Considered.

Included in the problems presented to the "two man commission" on these occasions were the following: Settlement of claims on 1932 contracts for Cook county relief coal; awarding of bids on tools, coffee, vegetables, and meats; additional county allocations for September, allocations of $11,830,573 for October, changes in personnel of county relief committees, plans for future financing of commission and appointment of supervisors for federal education program.

Chairman Dunham is also chairman of the new consolidated park district with its manifold demands upon his attention, but was absent from only four out of eighteen commission meetings. He is also president of the Universal Oil Products company. Knowlton L. Ames Jr., is director of the state department of finance, and has liquor revenue and sales taxes under his jurisdiction. He has been absent from fourteen of the eighteen meetings, but has had a non-voting representative present at these times.

George Barr of Joliet, a lawyer and a trustee of the University of Illinois, attended eleven of the meetings. Edward J. Barrett, state auditor, had the poorest record because of having to be in Springfield most of the time, and was at only one meeting, having a representative at fifteen sessions.

Attends Only Two Meetings.

Charles Boeschenstein, a banker, of Edwardsville, near East St. Louis, has been able to get to only two of the last eighteen meetings.

State Treasurer John C. Martin has attended thirteen meetings in six months despite his other duties. Victor A. Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, has been at eight sessions, much of his time being taken up by NRA duties which take him out of the city. John P. Roche, Chicago advertising executive, had the best attendance record in the period surveyed, being at fifteen meetings.

Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton, perhaps the most active in commission meetings, has sandwiched time for twelve sessions between his numerous other official duties. His last three absences were caused by a vacation to recuperate from the strain. Omar H. Wright, Belvidere banker, had a perfect record until serious illness prevented his atending four meetings.

"I have never worked with a more sincere and public-spirited group of men," Chairman Dunham said after the commission members agreed to have the attendance record made public.

ADVISES LEGION NOT TO ASK FOR BONUS PAYMENT

Work for Disabled, Senator Urges.

Miami, Fla., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The American Legion, opening its 16th annual convention today was counseled by U. S. Senator Frederick Steiwer [Rep., Ore.], and past National Commander Louis Johnson of Clarksburg, W. Va., against demanding immediate full payment of the veterans' bonus.

In an open air session delegates also heard Dr. Thomas H. Healy of Georgetown university in Washington plead for "adequate national defense" and assert "a disarmed United States would be a menace to the peace of the world."

A call to the Legion for a "peaceful rebellion against communism and anarchy" was sounded by Gov. Dave Sholtz of Florida in a welcoming address.

Memorial For Dead.

Memorial service for the world war dead was conducted by the Rev. Father Robert J. White, national chaplain of Washington. The solemn "taps" from a bugle rolled over Bayfront park. Thousands of spectators stood with bared heads.

While consideration of the bonus probably will be fraught with bitter controversy when the Legion begins its general business sessions Wednesday, Senator Steiwer declared "disinterested and patriotic service presents a question whether this convention should take an unequivocal stand for the immediate cash payment.

"The Legion can, with the utmost propriety, stand vigorously for a program of justice to its disabled comrades, but adjusted conpensation affects all alike. I am doubtful of the ethics of able-bodied men making a demand for immediate cash payment of claims not yet due when many of them can well afford to wait for payment until the certificates mature in 1945.

Johnson Urges Caution.

"Once more we convene in the presence of momentous times," said former Commander Johnson, "and more than ever it behooves us to consider fairly and wisely what decisions we make here in the next four days.

"Our nation is emerging from the depression. It would be folly to say recovery has been completed, but no one can doubt that at last we are well along the road. Let us remember that this is not the time to plunge into a program which might retard our progress toward complete recovery. The watchword of the hour is: 'Don't rock the boat!'"

Johnson said the Legion could well be proud of the stand it took in Chicago last year when it did not press any claim for bonus payment.

Democrats' Tammanyism and Radicalism Assailed.

from our boundaries those communist minded men who would destroy this the greatest government on earth. From this hall tonight will go forth that fighting force that is the greatest guaranty of our continued liberty.

"We will be joined by thousands and thousands of Jeffersonian Democrats who have been driven from their own party by new faces, new methods, and unthinkable objectives.

Foes' Leadership Attacked.

"We will be joined by people working to elect Republicans, not to destroy, not to obstruct, but to lend that balancing hand of constructive suggestion that is absolutely essential to the continuance of our government and our happiness."

In the "indictment" or "platform," which was read by John T. Dempsey, one of the younger group, the Republicans ripped into the Democratic party managers. This document, written by a group of candidates and committeemen, was phrased in the blunt language of accusation. Much of its material could be found in newspaper files.

The tempo of the attack was set by the opening paragraph. This charged that "the corrupt and unscrupulous Kelly-Nash-Horner-Crowe Tammany organization" was injecting national issues into a purely local campaign "in order to conceal their scandalous conduct in the affairs of our county government."

Find Crowe in Tammany Garb.

The Mr. Crowe, in the hyphenated combination, it appeared was Robert E. Crowe, former state's attorney, whose recent differences with his Republican brethren led them to "read him out" of the party. The "indictment" treated him as a Democrat and condemned his political maneuvers as inspired alone for Democratic advantage.

"Discredited Democrats," the attack remarked, "have defrauded the federal government out of almost half a million dollars in income taxes, have debauched the Home Owners' Loan corporation into a national scandal that rocked the country, and have been definitly repudiated and rejected by the President and his cabinet in the distribution and administration of all emergency relief and construction projects.

"They voted against Roosevelt in the Democratic convention, they have always been against the President, and are still against him."

Cite Widespread Gambling.

The document, which was unusual in its denunciatory scope, directed its accusations against Mayor Kelly, Gov. Horner, P. A. Nash, Democratic county chairman, Mr. Crowe, and others. In the matter of gambling, the platform charged the "Chicago Tammany" with entering into a "copartnership with the gambling and vice syndicate on a huge scale."

"Hundreds of gambling houses," it asserted, "are owned and operated, in whole or in part by Democratic leaders, wherein roulette wheels, blackjack, and every other form of gambling device are in full blast under paid police protection."

In behalf of Republican candidacies, the platform declared, among other pledges, for the 1 per cent tax limitation, for economy in government—"our candidates are degnitly committed to a 25 per cent reduction in the cost of running their offices or they will resign," for unemployment relief and for collective bargaining.

Candidates Explain Indictment.

Campaign banners were draped from the galleries, and as the Stadium filled ward delegations filed in and paraded along the ailes. Eight candidates were on the program, and their speeches echoed and amplified various sections o fthe "indictment of Chicago's Tammany."

One accusation that the "Tammany ring" has stolen elections, has fraudulently registered thousands of voters for Nov. 6, and has appointed "hoodlums and gangsters as judges and clerks expecting to steal another election, was expanded by Jacob D. Allen, candidate for clerk of the Probate court.

Mr. Allen declared the Tweed ring in the nineties in New York has a counterpart in the "Chicago Tammany." He took up the subject of election machinery, in control of the county judge.

Record of Election Frauds.

"After Judge Jarecki's election in 1922 as county judge," he said, "he certified certain judges and clerks to offices.

"I have here the record of the names and addresses and precincts of those judges and clerks, appointed by Jarecki, who, early in his term, were brought into his court and tried for election frauds.

"They were found guilty in his court, sentenced to prison in his court, fined in his court, paid their fines or served their terms in jail, and at the next succeeding election, the same court that had tried them, that had heard the evidence and had found them guilty and sentenced them to jail, reappointed the same men and women in the same precincts. Whereupon at the first opportunity they stole another election.

"Look a step further. The same judge that caught them twice, that convicted them twice and sentenced them twice, sent them back the third time to the same boards. The finger prints of some of these men are on file in the detective bureau as well known criminals."

Invite Honest Democrats' Aid.

Mr. Allen declared that large groups of Democrats are incensed with "Tammany rule."

"Let us go to our responsible Democratic friends," he said, "and invite them to help us put some plain, honest, old-fashioned bookkeeping back in control.

"Thousands of Democrats are waiting for some of us to be thoughtful enough to give them an opportunity to help clean up their own party. We had to clean our party. We had rascals who forfeited the confidence of the people. We had to clean house; we have been through the storm."

Alderman James C. Moreland, candidate for assessor, also took up the Tammany motif.

"The brazenness with which this corrupt Tammany machine has looted our treasuries and has robbed our taxpayers is shocking," he declared. "By comparison it makes Jesse James and John Dillinger law-abiding and respectable citizens.

"The Democratic records are but a series of treacheries which, if presented to an impartial and independent state's attorney, would send them to the penitentiary with shocking despatch."

Accusations that the "Chicago Tammany" is using political coercion upon recipients of federal doles were made by James P. Ringley, nominee for sherif.

Pleads for Fair Balloting.

Honest elections depend upon a change in control of the election machinery, Judge Samuel Heller, nominee for county judge, declared in his speech. He attacked County Judge Jarecki, his Democratic opponent, and cited cases of election frauds that he declared went unpunished.

He dwelt upon the election board, when it dealt with his election contest two years ago.

"Mr. Lipsky," he said, "is the great multiplier, Jarecki is the great master of addition, Mr. McGuire is the divider and subtractor, and Mrs. Reinecke is the auditor—she approves everything.

"A great combination it is of mathematical experts, who stand ready to add, subtract, multiply or divide, in order to deprive you of your vote.

"Judge McKinley was elected in 1930, but was cheated out of the office by the county judge, who kept him off the bench for four years of the six year term and permitted a Democrat to occupy the place until his death a few months ago."

The Sanitary District Scandal.

The "whoopee" era in the sanitary district was reviewed by John E. Northup, nominee for sanitary trustee.

"The men responsible for the sanitary district frauds have humiliated Chicago beyond measure," he asserted, "yet no rebuke has ever been administered at the polls. On the contrary, the local Democratic leaders, hoping this outrageous misconduct has been forgotten, now seek to rally the voters with the cry, 'Forward with Roosevelt.' They know Roosevelt has little use for them."

"The issue," he said, "is whether the people of Cook county want lower taxes or whether they want, not only a continuation of present confiscatory taxes, but still higher taxes."

He criticized Gov. Horner for not supporting a 1 per cent tax rate limitation.

Conduct of City Treasurer.

As nominee for county treasurer, James A. Kearns made one of the shortest speeches, dwelling on his platform pledges and his record as city treasurer for the last four years.

"In 1933 alone," he reminded his audience, "over 462 million dollars was received and disbursed in my office, yet despite the fact that 125 banks closed in Chicago, not a penny of taxpayers' money was lost."

A brief speech was also made by Municipal Judge William E. Helander, candidate for reëlection. The rally was opened by Edward F. Moore, county secretary, and on the platform were candidates and Republicans from several outside counties.

CONSERVATIVES WARNED BY ICKES TO AID NEW DEAL

Threatened with "Fate of Lot's Wife."

New Deal principles were ardently expounded last night when Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes and Stuart Chase, economist, spoke at the opening of the Sinai Temple Lecture association's 21st season at 4600 South Parkway. Their topic was "America Faces a Changing World."

Secretary Ickes branded all opponents of the New Deal as "conservatives" and described the experiment as "a social readjustment long overdue."

He began his talk with a biblical reference to Lot's wife and pointed out she was turned to a pillar of salt when she dared look back to the doomed cities, Sodom and Gomorrah.

That unfortunate fate, he intimated, figuratively awaits those conservatives who dare to oppose present trends. Lot's wife, he added, was typical of present day conservatives, in that she hated any change.

Business came in for a drubbing at the secretary's hands. He blamed "captains of finance" and "great merchants" for a large share of the country's economic woes and charged that an "invisible government," dominated by a small group of powerful men, was too weak to take the proper initiative.

"Backwoodsmen; 50 Years Behind."

Mr. Ickes stressed the need for social legislation.

"We're backwoodsmen," he asserted, "in the matter of social legislation. We're 50 years behind Great Britain in this regard. But the great captains of indutry in this country shudder when this subject is brought to their attention."

The speaker denied that citizens of the United States face any loss of their liberty through the workings of the New Deal and he soundly criticized "those great constitutional lawyers," referring to men who have protested what they assert are invasions of the constitution.

1932's Revolt "Long Overdue."

"The peaceful revolution of November, 1932, was inevitable but overdue," he said. "I believe the change would have been made even without the financial chaos existing at that time."

Mr. Chase devoted his talk to the economic aspects of the New Deal program. He reviewed the history of industry, placing the blame for overproduction on a highly specialized machine age and declared that the present experiment "fills the breach."

"The question now is not to rid the country of governmental interference, but how to apply it," he declared. "I say that in the teeth of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE."

Candidates on Nov. 6 Ballot

John J. Hoellen, former alderman, was born in Chicago on Oct. 21, 1887; attended public schools here, and has been in the retail shoe business in the city for twenty-five years. He served eight years, 1925-'33, in the city council as the representative of the 47th ward, of which he is the Republican committeeman. He lives with his wife and a son at 1842 Larchmont avenue.

John E. Northup, an attorney, was born in Marshall county, Iowa, and attended Drake and Vanderbilt universities and the University of Chicago. From 1906 to 1912 he was an assistant state's attorney. The next year he was named special state's attorney to prosecute vote frauds. In 1921 he was appointed a special assistant United States attorney general to prosecute mail robberies, and in 1927 became first assistant United States district attorney. Two years later he joined the staf of State's Attorney Swanson and prosecuted the sanitary district cases. He lives at 161 North Menard avenue.

Dr. John B. Cipriani was born in Chicago on Oct. 4, 1891. After his graduation from the University of Illinois medical college he served in the medical corps during the world war. He has been engaged in the practice of medicine for more than twenty years and was a member of the University of Illinois faculty for a number of years. He resides at 5464 Kammerling avenue.

U. S. INDICTS 4 IN HOLC FRAUD INVESTIGATION

Indictments charging four men with obtaining money under false pretenses and impersonating federal officers in connection with operations of the Home Owners' Loan corporation were returned before Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday. None of those named is in custody.

Morris B. Zutman, 711 South Central Park avenue, a real estate operator with offices at 127 North Dearborn street, was accused of taking $100 from Nathan B. Brodkin, 1821 Clifton Park avenue, after an alleged offer to hurry a loan from the HOLC on Brodkin's home. Zutman also was charged with having taken $25 from C. T. Rosencrantz, 4124 Argyle street, for the same purpose.

Charles Hossack Jr. of New Lenox, Ill., William Walsh and John F. Stubner, 3357 North Narragansett avenue, also were named. The indictments resulted from a statewide investigation of complaints by home owners, according to Bradley Eben, assistant United States attorney.

HOPKINS LEARNS ABOUT POLITICS FROM AN EXPERT

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Gleefully, Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator, today predicted the defeat of his brother, Dr. Lewis Hopkins, who is running on the Republican ticket for coroner at Tacoma, Wash.

"I suppose he's claiming he'll raise 'em from the dead," Hopkins confided at his press conference. "But he'll never be elected. He can stay at home nights after this election.

"It's too bad, because he'd make a damned fine coroner!

"For 2 cents I'd indorse his opponent. But Jim Farley told me if I did that my brother would be elected sure."

"I think these go well together"
"So do Liederkranz and beer"

Very Important IN A LAXATIVE FOR WOMEN

It must be Gentle

STRONG, powerful "dynamite" laxatives are bad for anyone. But for you women... they're unthinkable!

Your delicate feminine system was never meant to endure the shock of harsh, violent purgatives or cathartics. They weaken you. They often leave bad after-effects. Madam, you must avoid them!

TAKE EX-LAX—THE GENTLE, THOROUGH LAXATIVE

Ex-Lax is the ideal laxative for every member of the family, but it is particularly good for women. That's because while Ex-Lax is thorough, it works in a mild and gentle way. Why, you hardly know you've taken a laxative.

And Ex-Lax checks on the other important points, too: It won't cause pain. It won't upset digestion. It won't nauseate you. It won't leave you weak. And what's very important, it won't form a habit. You don't have to keep on increasing the dose to get results.

EX-LAX—THE FAMILY LAXATIVE IN MILLIONS OF HOMES

All the good points of Ex-Lax are just as important for the rest of the family as they are for women. So millions of homes have adopted Ex-Lax as the family laxative. Keep a box of Ex-Lax in the medicine cabinet—so that it will be there when any member of the family needs it. All druggists sell Ex-Lax—in 10c and 25c boxes.

WATCH OUT FOR IMITATIONS!

Ex-Lax has stood the test of time. It has been America's favorite laxative for 28 years. So avoid imitations—insist on genuine Ex-Lax, spelled E-X-L-A-X, to make sure of getting Ex-Lax results.

We who make whiskey SAY:

"DRINK MODERATELY"

On one point all thoughtful men have always agreed. On one point all connoisseurs in the art of enjoyable living have always agreed.

A few weeks will mark the anniversary of Repeal. We think it is appropriate that we who make whiskey should emphasize, to you who drink whiskey, the desirability of moderation.

For a situation exists today which requires us both to take an honest, serious look at the future.

Our stake in that future is clear—our part in an industry in which we have held an honored position for 77 years.

Your stake is of vital concern.

It involves not only your health, your money expenditures, and your enjoyment of life—but a principle which is the very core and fibre of American history and tradition—your personal liberty.

The Threat to Liberty

When Repeal came, most brand names were unfamiliar. People lacked experience. They didn't know how to choose.

Many bought unwisely. And drank unwisely, too. Because this new whiskey was inexpensive, it was consumed freely. Because of its rawness and harshness, it could not be consumed as whiskey should be—for mellow warmth and flavor.

If we both think honestly and speak frankly, we must admit this condition is not in the tradition of fine living. It is not what any thoughtful person could desire.

What Common Sense Suggests

There is nothing new about drinking whiskey.

Through generations, it has always occupied a natural place in gracious living.

The House of Seagram believes that whiskey, properly used, is deserving of that position. Seagram's has always felt that the proper use of whiskey suggests a pleasure in its aroma, its flavor, its mellowness.

However, these characteristics are found only in whiskey that has been properly distilled and then brought to full mellowness, full wholesomeness by aging.

The real enjoyment which whiskey can add to the pleasures of gracious living is possible only to the man who drinks good, aged whiskey and drinks moderately.

Therefore, the lesson of generations of experience is not inapplicable to problems of today. The principle of moderation is not at variance with what common sense suggests as the right course for us today.

Whiskey is a Luxury

Whiskey cannot take the place of milk, bread or meat. The pleasure which good whiskey offers is definitely a luxury.

On our part we feel so strongly that we say—the House of Seagram does not want a dollar that should be spent for the necessities of life.

And even to those to whom whiskey does not mean actual deprivation, we say—treat whiskey as a luxury. A pint of good, aged whiskey will bring you more enjoyment, more satisfaction, than a quart of whiskey of dubious quality.

We feel sure that you will agree with us that the desirable way of life is thoughtful, informed by experience, guided by common sense. Realizing this, we feel sure that you will prefer moderation in the enjoyment of the finest to the empty satisfaction that follows upon profusion of the second rate.

FEARS BUSINESS MAY BE BARRED AS CRITICS OF NRA

New York Lawyer Gives Views in Lecture.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Speaking before the Lowell institute here this evening, Gilbert H. Montague, chairman of the committee on NRA of the New York State Bar association, declared that thousands of business men are in danger of being estopped from contending that the NRA is unconstitutional.

The address was the third of six lectures given by Mr. Montague before the institute. The subject of tonight's lecture was "Constitutional Bases of Executive Law Making."

"No longer may it be assumed," said Mr. Montague, "that every one can challenge the constitutionality of an act of congress, or the constitutionality or validity of any executive-made law promulgated by an executive or commission.

"There is a long line of Supreme court decisions holding that where one has accepted the benefits, or availed of the privileges, or invoked the provisions, of an act of congress or an act of a state legislature or an executive-made law of an executive or commission, he is thereafter estopped from contending that this act of congress or this act of state legislature or this executive-made law of the executive or commission is unconstitutional or invalid.

Thousands Are Affected.

"Thousands of business men, therefore, because they have joined in applications for codes or supplemental codes or code amendments, or because they have accepted the benefits, or availed of the privileges, or invoked the provisions, of these codes or supplemental codes or code amendments, are now in danger of being estopped from contending that the national industrial recovery act is unconstitutional, or that such codes or supplemental codes or code amendments are unconstitutional or invalid.

"In almost every industry there are, however, some business men who have forfeited none of their constitutional and legal rights.

Insists on Information.

"The Supreme court has always insisted that interested parties must be informed of all memoranda, data, and reports which any law making executive or commission may take into consideration in arriving at its findings, determinations, orders, or other executive-made laws.

"Time and again the Supreme court has reproved law making executives and commissions for failure to set forth fully the facts and reasons on which are based their findings, determinations, orders, or other executive-made laws."

Mr. Montague said he considered it an interesting speculation concerning what will be the fate of some of the National Recovery administration's codes, orders and laws when all the requirements insisted upon by the Supreme court are applied by the courts to the "National Recovery administration's gold fish bowl."

Not Always Transparent.

"To proponents of a code," he said, "the National Recovery administration gold fish bowl is not always transparent, and to parties objecting to a provision in a code the National Recovery administration gold fish bowl is opaque most of the time, and from the constitutional standpoint it is debatable whether it can ever hold water with its denial of notice and of opportunity for hearing to interested parties, its one-sided conferences, its exclusion of interested parties from pre-hearing conferences and from post-hearing conferences, and its nondisclosure of confidential memoranda, data, reports, and recommendations on which the deputy administrators and the assistant deputy administrators and the division administrators and the supervisory boards of the National Recovery administration rely in arriving at their determinations, and its lack of any specific findings or evidence to support findings that are mere verbatim quotations from the general language of the act."

Wilmette Zoning Law Gets Setback in Supreme Court

The Illinois Supreme court ruled yesterday that the village of Wilmette could not, under its zoning ordinance, prevent the erection of a garage and filling station at Main and Lake streets. This is zoned as commercial property and Wilmette officials had contended that the garage could be built only in an industrial area. The Supreme court upheld a decision of the Cook County Superior court.

CITY PARKS FACE FINANCIAL CRISIS, DUNHAM WARNS

Urges Quick Action on Assembly Plea.

The tangled finances of twenty-two park units recently merged in the Chicago park district, which have heaped up a funded debt in excess of $100,000,000, have precipitated on the new district a financial crisis which calls for an immediate reorganization of the entire park debt structure, Robert J. Dunham, president of the Chicago park district board, told a committee of bankers and civic leaders yesterday.

To meet the crisis an acceptable plan to refund at least $35,000,000 of the debt must be immediately devised and approved, and additional provision must be made to bolster park district corporate revenues, Mr. Dunham declared. He called on the committee to draft such a plan in time for presentation to the expected special session of the state legislature in November.

Swift Action Is Promised.

Frank Gordon, vice president of the First National bank and head of the committee, promised immediate action on Mr. Dunham's proposals. The present west park refinancing program, which averts default and spreads existing debt on 20 year refunding bonds, will provide the basis of the committee's deliberations, he said.

Henry S. Cutler, municipal securities expert; John O. Rees, secretary of the citizens' committee on public expenditures, and Edward N. Heinz, controler for the park district, who designed the west park plan, will assist in the work.

Vital Issues at Stake.

"I realize that I'm calling for rapid action on an important problem, but the need is great," Mr. Dunham declared. "The payment of employés and the construction of the outer bridge is definitly linked up with our debt problem. If a general refinancing program is ordered we can and will build the bridge."

The total bonded debt inherited from the smaller parks is more than $100,000,000, plus $5,300,000 in outstanding tax anticipation warrants, Mr. Dunham explained. During the next five years bonds totaling between $6,500,000 and $7,000,000 will fall due.

EPISCOPAL GROUPS CONDEMN WAR, BACK SOCIAL INSURANCE

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 22.—(AP)—"Liberals" were victorious in the Protestant Episcopal convention today when measures condemning war and indorsing social insurance for unemployment and old age were adopted by the house of bishops and house of deputies.

With bishops concurring, the report of a "committee of ten" on world problems was adopted by the house of deputies, but not before many revisions had been effected.

Most sweeping of these was adoption of a resolution declaring "an unremitting war on war" and affirming that "war as a method of settling international disputes is incompatible with the teaching and example of our Lord, Jesus Christ."

SURVEY REVEALS HOW VISITORS AT FAIR SPENT CASH

Transportation First and Food Second.

BY EARL MULLIN.

Food and transportation took most of the dollars spent at the Fair, according to a financial report on concessions made yesterday. As of last Saturday, Oct. 20, visitors had spent $14,557,513 within the Fair grounds, exclusive of an estimated 2 million dollars spent in subconcessions over which the management of the Exposition has no direct control.

The total attendance at that time was 14,541,017, placing the average expenditure a little in excess of one dollar per visitor. This figure does not include gate admissions.

Leader in all classifications was the Greyhound Bus lines, intramural transportation company. The bus company reported a gross of $812,344 for 10 cent rides from end to end of the grounds.

Food Sales Next Highest.

The next highest in all classifications was reported by the Crown Food company. In 47 stands the company took in $631,397, and in nine restaurants reported a gross of $658,154. Other high figures were quoted in the restaurant class by Old Heidelburg with a gross of $498,838; and Thompson Restaurants grossing $422,434. The Walgreen Drug company, with lunch counters and soda fountains, reported a gross of $335,000.

The Sky Ride, owned and operated by the Fair, had the largest income of any ride. The total for this concession was $345,255. Among private concessions the two high places were held by the Flying Turns with $93,416 and the Cyclone Coaster with $69,803.

In the show and spectacle class, including the Villages, the German Black Forest was out in the lead with a gross of $387,337. The Wings of a Century, drama of transportation, which is classified as a spectacle, had a gross of $220,518 for second honors in this group.

Midget Village Popular.

Other high place holders in the Villages, in which the general gate admission is the only figure in which the Fair has a record, were as follows: Midget Village, $195,542; Italian Village, $191,431; Streets of Paris, $182,555; Belgian Village, $118,430, and Merrie England with a gross of $126,807.

First honors in the games and vending machines classifications went to the Guess Your Weight machines with a gross of $182,663.

"The money spent in concessions by visitors is particularly pleasing when the entire amusement picture of the Fair is considered," Nathaniel Owings, chief of concessions, said. "Many desirable features for public entertainment were free of charge this year. More than 25,000 free seats were provided, and in each theater there was a complete turnover about four times a day.

Calls Business Remarkable.

"Among these features were the Lagoon theater, the Standard Oil Wild Animal show and the two symphony orchestras. Considering this, I think the business reported by the concessionaires is indeed remarkable."

Many of the concessionaires are so pleased with the results of this year's Fair that they are in favor of a repetition. The great majority are now planning on participation in various other international expositions planned for other sections of the country in the next two or three years.

The first to announce definite plans was the Streets of Paris. John M. McMahon, vice president and general manager, yesterday returned from Florida where contracts were signed for the winter season. The entire show, structure and subconcessions, will open New Year's eve on Biscayne road in Miami. Several other Fair shows will join the Streets of Paris there.

DIES AT STREET CAR BARN.

Henry C. Hale, 71 years old, 2227 North Keeler avenue, died yesterday, apparently of a heart attack, in the Chicago Surface lines barn at 24th and Leavitt streets where he was foreman of the mechanical department.

Joan Snyder, 4 years old, winner of third place honors in the Fair contest to pick America's most beautiful baby, arrived yesterday to receive her award. She was accompanied by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Snyder of Toledo. She will be given a cash award and a college scholarship.

With sunny skies and warm breezes making the day ideal for Fair going an encouraging attendance for a Monday was registered yesterday. At midnight the official reading was 81,696. At the present rate officials expect the arrival of the fifteenth million by the end of the week. As of yesterday morning the total stood at 14,822,454 paid admissions.

150 LABORERS ON HUNGER STRIKE; GO UNDERGROUND

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 22.—One hundred and fifty laborers on the city waterworks declared a hunger strike today and took up a position 46 feet underground in a passageway beneath a settling basin. The strike is a protest against the suspension of more than 100 laborers for the purpose of economy. The strikers expect 900 other men belonging to their crew to join them. They announced they would neither eat nor leave the passageway until the 100 suspended men were re-employed.

200 Reds Attack Spanish Consulate in Cuban City

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Oct. 22.—Shouting "Down with Lerroux"—Premier Alejandro Lerroux of Spain—and wielding brickbats and large rocks, about 200 communists, waving red flags, today attacked the Spanish consulate at Camaguey City. The rioters destroyed all the furniture. They set fire to the archives. Soldiers routed the communists after an hour's fight.

Merrie England is the first of the exhibitors and concessions at the Fair to sound out visitors about retention of features of the present Fair for years to come. Each visitor to the village is given a ballot, to vote yes or no on the question of whether or not the Globe theater and other features of the village should be retained as permanent features in Burnham park.

The Festival of Light, given each night this week to show the wonders of modern illumination is proving one of the most popular features at the Fair, judging by comments of visitors and telephone queries as to time and place. The spectacle combines fireworks, smoke screens, ten billion candle power searchlights, and maneuvers by airplanes. One of the most spectacular is a fire power dive.

An exhibition of creative photographs, some of which have been awarded prizes both in United States and Europe, will be shown in the Illinois Host house today at 8 p. m. The exhibition is the property of Dr. Max Thorek.

The South Dakota agricultural band will give its last World's Fair concert at 8 p. m. in the Court of States. Deecort Hammitt, composer, is director of the band which hails from Alcester, S. D., and is recognized as the official state band. They have been playing at the Fair since Oct. 15.

STRAWN AND N. U. EDUCATOR ASSAIL NRA AS HOPELESS

"Dictatorship Is Ahead," Speakers Warn.

"Dictatorship" was the word used yesterday by two prominent Chicagoans—a banker, lawyer and civic leader, and an educator—in describing the New Dealers' "planned economy" and the regulation of private enterprise through federal alphabetical agencies. The descriptions were given in separate meetings, in both of which the speakers deplored the encroachment of governmental units into fields hitherto reserved for business.

The banker-attorney was Silas H. Strawn, who addressed the Junior Association of Commerce at the Bismarck hotel. In particular he assailed the NRA, the AAA, the CWA, and the administration's "tinkering" with the value of the dollar.

"Seize Too Much Authority."

"The people never intended the administration should take on as many responsibilities as it has," said he. "I don't quarrel so much with the brain trust because, God knows, the day has come when our public officials must be educated.

"But I said a year ago that there wasn't money or man power enough to carry out the proposals of the NRA, and that is the way it is working out. I haven't seen any evidence that those who are on the job now can, or are, doing any better than those who preceeded them."

Swinging to the government proposals for redistribution of wealth and the current attacks upon capitalization, Mr. Strawn said:

Fears Dictatorship Near.

"Should such changes be made we would be under a dictatorship in truth. You should see the countries that have dictatorships today and consider whether their people are any better off than we are here."

Denouncing the intrusion of government bureaus and burocrats in business affairs, Mr. Strawn turned to the AAA. This program, he said, reminded him of a pup always chasing his tail and never quite catching up "It's always going in circles but can't quite reach itself," he said.

He referred also to the "dictatorship of price fixing by government order" and proposals for unemployment and old age insurance and pensions.

"Business can't stand them at this time and we will fight to keep them out," he asserted.

Dean Assails Economy Plan.

Dean Ralph E. Heilman of Northwestern university's school of commerce was the other speaker, appearing before 2,000 delegates to the convention of the American Bakers association at the Hotel Sherman.

"A planned economy calls for establishment of a complete economic dictatorship and it is unalterably opposed to a Democratic form of government," he told the gathering. "In brief, the proposal involves a greater surrender of individual freedom and economic liberties than most of us would be willing to accept.

"Such planning is a task which lies beyond the limits of human intelligence. No man or group of men can be sufficiently intelligent, wise, well informed, free from personal interests and political pressure to assume responsibility for the thousands of business decisions which must be made every day and for controling the economic destiny of every individual."

JEWELRY TRADE CODE ATTACKED IN CHICAGO SUIT

Company Charges NRA Sponsors Monopoly.

Allegations of an NRA sponsored monopoly and unfair trade practice in the business of supplying fraternities with pins and other insignia were made yesterday in a bill of complaint filed in federal court by attorneys for the Brochon Engraving company of 225 East Ontario street, manufacturing jewelers.

The bill seeks an injunction restraining United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, Frank Milhenning, code authority member of the precious jewelry producing industry, and Frederick L. Roberts, acting state NRA compliance director, from interfering in the Brochon company's solicitation of fraternity business.

The complaint declares that a paragraph inserted in the code without the general knowledge of the trade has resulted in a monopoly in favor of L. G. Balfour, Attleboro, Mass., owner of four companies dealing in fraternity insignia. The paragraph in question was inserted at a hearing in Washington last Sept. 25. The code as approved at a meeting of the trade here in July, 1933, did not contain such a paragraph, the suit says.

"When a fraternity controls the manufacture and distribution of its insignia under a contract, it is an unfair trade practice for unauthorized persons to manufacture, solicit or accept orders for such insignia," the code paragraph in question says.

The complaint alleges that this provision results in the Balfour jewelry concerns cornering 90 per cent of the emblem business of the 750 fraternities in the country.

Protests against the paragraph, the complaint asserts, have been filed with W. L. Schurz, deputy code administrator in Washington, by 67 other jewelry manufacturers affected by its restrictions.

COUNCIL'S RIGHT TO FIX FEES OF COURT IS UPHELD

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday upheld the right of the city council to fix the schedule of fees for the Municipal court. The ruling was made on an attack on the present schedule by Attorneys Hirsch E. Soble and Albert Langeluttig.

They contended the schedule was excessive and should have been set up by the legislature instead of the council. The court ruled: "The general assembly cannot delegate its general legislative authority, but it may empower others to do what it, as a legislative body, may lawfully do."

COUNTESS MAY GAMBLES TO WIN COURT LENIENCY

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Oct. 22.—Mrs. Clendenin J. Ryan Jr., the former Countess Marie-Anne von Wurmbrand-Stuppach, and her mother, Countess May, again are occupying the spotlight here as the trial of Countess May approaches. She is charged with defrauding Vienna shopkeepers.

With only two more days to go—the trial is set for Thursday—Countess May desperately is trying to amass enough winnings at the state gambling casino at Baden, fifteen miles south of Vienna, to pay off her creditors.

Questioned in Jewel Robbery.

Her daughter, Mrs. Ryan, for whose wedding trousseau Countess May declares she ran up charge accounts of about $2,000, is said to be suffering from an attack of hysteria following her questioning at police headquarters today in connection with a mysterious jewel robbery.

The jewels belonged to Countess Caecile Sternberg, with whom Mrs. Ryan came to Vienna Saturday. Countess Sternberg and her husband, a famous duelist, occupy an apartment in the Hotel Sacher. Mrs. Ryan and her mother are staying at the same hotel. The police believe the jewels, which were valued at $6,000, were stolen from the countess' hotel room.

Police said Mrs. Ryan is not under suspicion, but that she was upset over the interrogation.

What success the mother may be having in her gambling operations is not known yet, but it is known she has only a $40 stake which she hopes to stretch into at least $3,000. She is gambling on the theory that if she pays off her creditors the court will take a lenient attitude.

ANNULMENT SUIT PENDING.

Clendenin J. Ryan Jr., heir to part of the estate of the late Thomas Fortune Ryan, was married to 20 year old Countess Marie-Anne von Wurmbrand-Stuppach Feb. 20, 1934. A rift developed almost immediately, and Ryan filed suit in New York to annul the marriage. He charged that his wife and others were in a conspiracy to get control of the family fortune through the marriage, that she misrepresented her fortune, that she indicated falsely that she was chaste prior to the marriage, and that since the wedding she "refused to perform the duties of a wife." A countersuit was filed by the Viennese beauty.

MILLERS DEFY NRA ON ORDER ALTERING CODE

Industry's Authority Hits Action as Dictatorial.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Openly defying what they consider dictatorial action by the NRA, members of the milling industry are fighting a life and death battle against the recovery administration over the integrity of their code, it was learned today.

Junking of the code or the resignation of the milling industry's code authority in a body may develop as the result of the NRA's arbitrary action. Officials and industry representatives, however, refused to comment on either of the possibilities.

Code Group Defies NRA.

A flat defiance of the NRA has been made by the code authority in the course of the struggle, it was learned today. In protest over NRA order No. X 98, the code authority has instructed members of the industry to proceed as though the order were never issued by the recovery administration.

The order, which involves the technical question of forcing millers to pay brokerage fees to coöperative buyers, was issued arbitrarily by the NRA without consultation with the milling industry. The code authority considers that the new order "vitiates" one of the most important sections of the code.

Rooted in Code Changes.

At the bottom of the controversy is the NRA's right to make sweeping changes in codes without consulting the industries involved. The retail solid fuel code authority recently resigned in a body in protest over such "dictatorial" actions.

Defying the NRA order and stressing the arbitrary fashion in which it was ordered, the milling industry's code authority has sent the following circular to all member mills, it was learned from unofficial sources:

"This order was executed without in any way having been referred to the industries affected and, while possibly intended to cover farmer and consumer coöperatives only, it may be so broadly interpreted as completely to vitiate the prohibition under article VII, sections 1, 2, and 3 of our code.

Challenges Order.

"This order is being challenged—

"First, that it does not apply to our code because the trade practices are under the jurisdiction of AAA.

"Second, on the grounds that it is in effect a legislative order and promulgated without opportunity to be heard.

"Third, that our interpretation does not admit that those organizations now seeking such allowances or commissions qualify under such order even if such order stands.

"Until further advised the milling industry is hereby instructed to govern itself by the ruling heretofore made, notwithstanding this order X 98."

Overturns Milling Code Article.

Order X 98 provides that no code "shall be so construed or applied as to make it a violation of any such code for any member of any industry to pay or allow a brokerage commission to any bona fide and legitimate coöperative organization performing services or engaged in functions for which other persons may be properly paid such a commission."

This order overturns article VII of the milling code. The code attempts to restrict the payment of brokerage fees strictly to brokers. The code was intended to prohibit as an unfair trade practice the payment of brokerage fees to persons or organizations which were not properly brokers but which were merely acting as agents for some purchasing group.

HIGHEST COURT BACKS MELLON'S LEVYING OF TAX

Protects Officials in Their Duties.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The broad principle that government officials may perform their duties without fear of damage suits was upheld tacitly today by the Supreme court.

That court declined to study the District of Columbia Supreme court's refusal to entertain a $250,000 damage suit against Andrew W. Mellon and Ogden L. Mills for actions while the former was Herbert Hoover's secretary of the treasury and the latter under-secretary.

Attacks Treasury Action.

The Standard Nut Margarine company of Jacksonville, Fla., had contended that although court rulings exempted it from usual taxes on oleomargarine butter substitutes, treasury officials nevertheless had tried to collect.

Although Mellon and Mills were entitled to some immunity for their acts, the company argued, they were not free from personal liability when the acts of their subordinates were invalid.

To that Mellon replied that if officials were held responsible, "no official would dare to act in a doubtful situation until the court of last resort had spoken." The court's refusal to review the case amounted to an indorsement of Mellon's position.

Some Other Court Actions.

In other actions today before taking a recess until Nov. 5, the Supreme court:

Overrode protests of the Missouri Pacific and the Texas and Pacific railroads and approved an interstate commerce commission order by which the Southern Pacific was authorized to obtain stock control of the St. Louis Southwestern, better known as the Cotton Belt.

Agreed to pass on the right of federal courts to place insolvent Pennsylvania companies in the hands of federal receivers.

Refused to review a South San Francisco city ordinance, allegedly directed at a "shopping news," which prohibits the distribution of hand bills and other printed matter except newspapers and publications which print general news and keep their advertising space open to the public.

Avoids Action on Ships.

The Supreme court declined to pass on the question of whether the federal government had the right to confiscate three ships which carried alcohol into Bayonne, N. J., although their licenses did not cover that kind of business. In that case, a lower court ordered the vessels released, holding that prohibition repeal had made the seizures ineffective.

At Fair in 1876

A scale model of the Corliss steam engine which furnished power for Machinery hall in the Philadelphia Centennial exposition of 1876 has been placed on exhibition in the Museum of Science and Industry in Jackson park. The model was loaned by E. Maury of Chicago, the owner.

Built by George H. Corliss, the original engine was equipped with a flywheel 30 feet in diameter and a cylinder bore and stroke 40 inches by 10 feet. It had a shaft 352 feet long. After the exposition the engine was purchased by the Pullman company and used to run its Chicago shops until 1910. It was dismantled and sold for junk in 1914.

SANITARY BOARD PWA MONEY IS AGAIN HELD UP

Further delay in paying a $545,668 instalment of a federal grant to the sanitary district was announced yesterday by Carl H. Bauer, state engineer inspector for the federal Public Works administration, despite the completion of a district staf reorganization demanded by PWA officials.

"We have decided to continue to hold up the funds allocated for the sanitary district until we receive a satisfactory report on what the district proposes to have the contractor do about 3,000 feet of defective sewer in the Calumet intercepting sewer project No. 13," Bauer said. "I have heard that the district is going to require the contractor to replace the sewer, but haven't received a report. When a satisfactory report is submitted the funds will be released."

Calumet sewer was constructed by the S. A. Healy company of Detroit and has never been accepted by the district.

"We are going to recommend action by the contractor on the Calumet job immediately," Philip Harrington, sanitary district chief engineer, said yesterday. "Our report to Mr. Bauer will be ready in a week or ten days."

DRESS AND TOY CODES AT ISSUE IN U. S. COURT

Closed Shop Attacked in the Latter Case.

New York, Oct. 22.—[Special.]—United States Attorney Martin Conboy today began suit in the United States District court for an injunction under the National Recovery act against the Fair Waist and Dress company. That concern does a large interstate business with plants in this state, New Jersey, and Connecticut. The defendant is charged with flagrant violations of the dress code. Although all of the company's products were allegedly marked with code insignia, Mr. Conboy charges the company exacts from and permits its employés to work more than 35 hours.

In the trial of another suit ten violations of a collective bargaining agreement were charged to the Ralph A. Freundlich, Inc., Toy company by counsel for the American Federation of Labor.

Closed Shop Pact Attacked.

The Freundlich company is receiving the support of the National Association of Manufacturers in a move to have the closed shop declared a violation of section 7A of the National Recovery act.

That company has been named as defendant in a suit by the Doll and Toy Workers' union, backed by the A. F. of L., to compel observance of a closed shop agreement. The trial entered its second day today before Supreme Court Justice Black.

Counsel for the Freundlich company, headed by Max Shlivak, base the defense on three contentions: that the contract the company entered into is not really a contract but rather an arbitrators' award; that no closed shop contract is legal under section 7A; that, although the contract is not legal, the company nevertheless did not violate it.

Defends Labor Pact.

Emil Schlesinger, counsel for the A. F. of L. and the Doll and Toy Workers' union, insisted that closed shop agreements are as legal as they were before section 7A was enacted. He asserted that the ten violations occurred when the Freundlich company a few months ago moved its plant from New York City to Clinton, Mass.

The clauses which it was charged were broken by Freundlich, who is head of the Doll and Toy Manufacturers' association, call for the employment of union members only, for a forty hour week, for minimum wage schedules, and for limitation and special rates for overtime work.

After several hours of argument Judge Black said he probably would hold the contract enforceable no matter where the firm operates. He said that if violations are proved, and shown to have been deliberate, he might compel the firm to return to New York City. The Freundlich company is a New York corporation.

REFUSE WISCONSIN PLEA TO BUY SPUDS AND KEEP PRICE UP

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The Federal Relief administration indicated today it would not accede to a request from Gov. Schmedeman of Wisconsin to buy 1,000 carloads of Wisconsin potatoes to check a falling market.

The governor had made the request in a telegram to Harry L. Hopkins, relief administrator, but a spokesman for Hopkins said today the farm administration disagreed with Schmedeman's contention that a serious potato surplus existed not only in Wisconsin but in other producing states.

The surplus relief corporation, it was pointed out, makes no purchases unless AAA experts declare the existence of a surplus in the commodity under consideration. These men, the spokesman said, do not believe there is a surplus of potatoes or that there is a need of buying.

CAPTURES ULSTER POLICE STATION WITH FAKE GUN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Oct. 22. — Patrick McArdle, who just returned from the United States, "captured" an Ulster police barracks with a dummy revolver today.

After cutting a window pane in the Forkhill station near the Armagh border, McArdle, dodging the guard, silently entered the dormitory.

Threatening to shoot any one who moved, McArdle wandered through the building. Eventually one policeman saw the gun was a fake and McArdle was captured. The pistol was carved of wood.

WHO'S GETTING THE BIG MONEY IN THE NEW DEAL?

The Texas legislature has thrown prudence to the winds in its reconsideration of the Colorado river enabling bill. The members have substantially disregarded the advice to summon witnesses who might explain the purposes to which the bill is to be put. The bill failed to pass in the previous special session, but now the forces of Congressman Buchanan and his allies appear to be triumphant.

For the moment everything is rosy. Four and a half million dollars of Uncle Sam's easy money [including a gift of more than a million dollars] will be spent in completing what used to be called the Hamilton dam and now is called the Buchanan dam, perhaps in view of the interest in its behalf displayed by Congressman Buchanan, the chairman of the appropriations committee of the house.

The facts in this affair should have led the legislature to approach the matter with more than ordinary caution. The scheme in the first place was unsound. It is now widely believed among engineers that the Insull management, which sank more than three million dollars in the uncompleted project, made a serious mistake, because the costs of electrical generation at the site will be excessive. There is even reason to believe—and the legislature might have run down the facts if it had cared to do so—that the Insull engineers themselves advised against the construction of the dam, but were overruled.

It follows inevitably that the completion of the work will not end the story of losses. The electricity produced at the Buchanan dam will have to be sold to some one. The loss will be paid perhaps by the taxpayers of Texas and perhaps by those who have invested their money in existing utility plants. In the one case the people of Texas will suffer from needlessly high taxation; in the other they will suffer because private capital will be discouraged from further investment in a state which, though it needs immense sums for its development, has served notice of its disregard for the rights of investors.

Nor is that the whole story. Papers filed in the federal court in Chicago allege that under contracts which have been signed control of the property will pass, if it has not already passed, to Mr. Ralph Morrison of Texas, an original Roosevelt man and a principal contributor to his campaign fund. The legislature made no adequate effort to check the truth of this allegation or to discover what Mr. Morrison might have in mind. The New Dealers are riding high these days, but the time will come for congressional inquiries and grand jury inquiries, and when that time comes the neglect of the legislators to uncover relevant facts will not be easily explained.

The legislators had ample reason for being on their guard. Honest Harold Ickes' hydro-electric grants have already assumed the proportions of a national scandal. Mr. Ickes himself is beginning to show alarm. Only a few weeks ago he withdrew his appropriation for the Rio Verde development in Arizona, saying that a recalculation showed the scheme to be unsound. That was a feeble attempt to save face. His own engineering reports had shown the scheme to be unsound and his own department had rejected it. The grant was made in the face of adverse recommendations because, if reports current at the time may be believed, the political pressure from Arizona Democrats was too powerful for a man of Ickes' quality to resist.

Mr. Ickes has not withdrawn his appropriation for the notorious Loup and Platte river schemes in Nebraska. If possible, the Nebraska projects are even more unsound than the Rio Verde. The flow in the Platte river is notoriously uneven; in summer the bed of the stream is often bone dry for weeks on end. The flow in the Loup is somewhat less erratic, but still so highly variable, as the government's own gauges show, that the costs of generation must be ruinously high on this account alone. In addition, no market for the power has been found.

If Mr. Ickes has favored Nebraska as against Arizona the explanation may lie in the greater political importance of Nebraska and in Honest Harold's personal sense of obligation to Mr. Arthur Mullen for favors received. Mr. Mullen was formerly Democratic committeeman from Nebraska and is generally credited with being Mr. Ickes' sponsor for his post in the cabinet. Mr. Mullen is also attorney for the two Nebraska projects and as such in a position to obtain substantial fees. What he gets will flow from the taxpayers through Honest Harold to Mullen.

NOT EXPERT OPINION.

Two witnesses well known in aviation affairs joined the alarmist school of thought in estimating the possibilities of aviation warfare. They are Igor Sikorsky, builder of airplanes, and Frank Hawks, speed pilot and aviator in the late war. Published widely as the opinion of experts, they illustrated strikingly the limitations of that much abused designation. Mr. Sikorsky is a very able constructor of airplanes. Mr. Hawks is a skilful and daring navigator of the air. But their opinions of the menace of invasion and attack by air reveal none of the qualities of expert judgment. They will be made much of by the civilian theorists who paint the awful possibilities of air attack with no regard for the available data of experience and no understanding of the factors involved in the problem of air attack.

Mr. Hawks envisages an invasion of the United States from Japan or other distant bases with as little allowance for the limitations and difficulties of such an enterprise as any excited layman. To bolster up his dubious argument he invented a force of "young Japanese warriors" willing to commit certain suicide in an attack upon New York City, from which even his reckless theorizing recognized they could not survive. To fill the cup of alarm to overflowing this supposedly expert prophet raised the familiar bugaboo of a poison gas capable of wiping out "the population of Manhattan and the adjacent sectors."

Mr. Sikorsky described enormous bomb carriers on the model of the large passenger planes now being developed and announced their ability to blast whole cities into ruins.

This is trash repeatedly discredited by practical experiment and the opinion of real experts in the fields covered. The destructive capacity of bombs has been carefully studied on the basis of experience not only in the late war but in carefully devised trials since. Men who are real experts and not prejudiced propagandists or dreamers have repeatedly deflated the exaggerated estimates of arm chair warriors and impractical theorizers. It has been proved time and again in war and peace tests that bombing has a very limited effectiveness. To destroy a city would necessitate a force and favorable conditions which are not plausible factors in any expert judgment of possibilities. The most eminent chemists have repeatedly disposed of the myth of an all destructive gas. The assumptions of Hawks and Sikorsky, in other words, are not expert in any respectable sense. They are the product, we suspect, of a very shortsighted and mistaken notion that by making the public shiver with dread more appropriations for military aviation will be granted. They will capture headlines for a day or two and cause disquiet or even alarm among uncritical readers. But as their fallacies are exposed the reaction will be unfavorable, not favorable, to military aviation, and obstruct reasonable preparation, not advance it.

THE FUTURE OF NAVAL CONFERENCES.

Preliminary talks are getting under way in London to prepare for the naval conference of next year. The hope is that the United States, Great Britain, and Japan may find an approach to the question of limitations which will assure an agreement in 1935.

The probable good of the conference is obscure and its dangers are apparent. It is viewed as an occasion when conflicting national interests are served to the advantage of one and the disadvantage of another. The intent is ostensibly to remove competition in naval building, which in itself would arouse fears of the intentions of one nation in the minds of another, but, unfortunately for this purpose, the conferences have been interpreted as being in themselves the very competition they seek to avoid and as serving the objects of one nation against another.

Japan believes that it has been restricted below the line of security in relation to both America and Great Britain. Japan has construed the agreements as containing designs against its position in the far east. America has felt that the British wish to restrict American naval types for the protection of its own sea lanes.

Agreements, it has been found, have increased the feelings they were intended to subdue. They have aroused suspicions they were intended to allay. It is far from clear that it would not be less provoking to undertake no agreements whatever and to have it understood that each nation was free to consult its own ideas for its own security. Conferences have a way, even when they produce a treaty, of leaving the situation a little more disturbed than it was before.

Editorial of the Day

VOTE BUYING CONTINUES.

[Sioux City Journal.]

John D. M. Hamilton, Republican national committeeman from Kansas, in an address in Chicago, broadcast over a national chain hookup, assailed the Democratic practice of attempting to buy votes with public funds. He declared the use of federal money for political purposes was "a vicious attempt to control and dominate the franchise of the American people" and "an intention to buy votes as assuredly as though the cash were passed from hand to hand."

In Maine the trick of threatening that relief funds out of Washington would be stopped if the people did not vote Democratic was worked successfully. It is being tried now in Iowa and in other states. There never has been anything more corrupt in a campaign than this subterfuge. It is a disgrace to the Democratic leaders who practice it in state and local campaigns and to high officials of the government, including President Roosevelt, who are aware of what is being done and who make no attempt to put an end to it.

There is no hope whatever that any appeal made to Postmaster General Farley, chairman of the Democratic national committee, would be effective. So far Mr. Roosevelt has been indifferent to it. However, employment of this trick without his condemnation of it puts him in a bad light with right thinking American citizens and at a time when he cannot afford such a challenge to his character and reputation. He owes a duty to himself, to his party and to the American people as a whole to issue a statement declaring his administration does not sympathize with this maneuver.

Neither major party ever played a cheaper trick in politics than this in the history of the country. The administration in Washington ought to look upon it as an affront. Mr. Roosevelt should consider it a personal insult from members of his own party. He is supposed to have the interests of all at heart. He is permitting cheap politicians to use him and his high office in a way that challenges the integrity of his entire administration.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

THANK HEAVEN! there are still gentlemen left among us. One such, conscious of the fact that he was a gentleman, proud, courtly, and carrying distinction in every movement, walked across Michigan avenue at Delaware place swinging his cane as though it were a royal scepter. He had the light, after he had waited long and patiently on the safety island (humorously so-called), and when the green finally flashed on the stately gentleman marched on across the way like King George walking to the throne. A truck driver, one of these round the corner boys, who, of course, had a right to turn north on the green light (but no right to kill, maim, or insult), whirled down on the dignified gentleman. The truck driver let out an awful blast from his horn, yelled some sort of inarticulate curse, and then whooped out, "Git on there, grandpa! Git a move on!" The old gentleman stopped still in his tracks and as rock rooted as the long, thin, red line of Frenchmen at Waterloo when to the cries of "Surrender! Surrender!" from the advancing British they answered, "The guard dies; it never surrenders!" The old gentleman never moved or flickered an eyelash as the great, roaring truck seemed about to crush him to death. The truck driver madly swung his truck to one side and jumped on the brakes until their screech could have been distinctly heard for fifteen miles. "Pardon me!" said the old gentleman calmly, "I believe I have some rights still remaining in spite of automobiles and their importunate drivers." Then the grand old gentleman, with the same grave, deliberate step, proceeded on his way. He had vindicated his class. He was a gentleman and if death had come he would have died like one.

LINES FROM AN ORIENTAL NOTEBOOK.

All has been done, Artemidorus. All has been done:
The ankham flowers wrapped in byssus for your ear—
A faience model of the Ra-boat set
With lapis sails and oars:
Clay troughs for incense sprinkling have been brought
And milk from a white cow for the four fires.
All has been done.
Shall still I bring the amulets—
The vignettes against flame?
While here, Artemidorus, you were not Supplied with charms against loose wanderings;
You said one day at Heliopolis—
"You are the link between my heart and soul."
At Karnak once . . . "In rubrics for the dead
Or Books of Breathings I shall not forget
Your hennaed cheek, slim daughter of the veil!
My chambered memories shall long survive
Our newest pyramid, and avenue of sphinx.
Nor fields of seeds, nor garland-laden lands
Nor branches of the ilex and the palm Shall bring forgetfulness."
Thus did you speak.
Farewell, Artemidorus. All is done.
The Guardian of the Scales has been invoked
And now your heart is feather-weighed again,
And safely sealed deep in a mansioned jar.
Have you escaped the dark sarcophagus . . .
The stricture of the tightened mummy band . . .
The winged charioteer . . . the serpent cup?
Have you forgotten south winds on the Nile—
Wind-driven boats before a Priest in Thebes?
I hear the treadle of a hidden loom.
Farewell, Artemidorus. All is done.
What say you now of purple-mannered life?
Of time . . . of space and of the Horus Psalms?
I pause upon the highway of your word.

RACHEL MACK WILSON.

WASHINGTON reports that Mr. Roosevelt is very strong for the "abundant life," but doesn't know just what he means by it. Now me, all I find in real abundance these days is taxes, more taxes, rising prices, more people going on the dole and a very great abundance of winter headed this way. An abundant life is a grand thing, but it depends on what you get in abundance.

THE PROFESSIONAL MODELS down in New York are threatening to picket the next place that uses society debutantes as models. The professionals say the debs are swiping their jobs, but that they don't know how to walk, they have no balance, they don't know what to do with their hands and they don't know how to show off clothes properly. All of which may or may not be true, but anyhow the debs know how to get mad. What! don't know how to show off clothes? Every one of us can be goaded to the point where we'll fight, and telling the debs they don't know how to wear clothes is just going to start a lot of trouble.

A BRITISH ADMIRAL in a speech the other day said, "The English people descended from a unique stock and as a result are the finest fighting race known." And especially when they fight against paying their war debts. My word! what a battle they can put up then. And how!

WE'RE ALL GOING SO SPEED MAD this winter that I expect the tailors will soon come out with streamlined overcoats with a parachute attachment with every suit of clothes so that we can jump out of the twenty-fifth story window and fly swiftly and rapidly down to earth. Elevators are too slow for this age and generation. We gotta hurry!

IT MAY BE only a coincidence, but since there is a possibility of Upton Sinclair's election as governor of California they've got busy out there and put on a train that cuts down the time from Loz Onglaize to the east to nineteen and a half hours. And there's a movement on to change the state's national anthem from "California, Here I Come," to "California, Here I Go."

DIET IN PREGNANCY.

EVERY expectant mother needs as careful and as explicit instruction during pregnancy as she needs after the birth of the child. On the mother's diet and general hygiene during this important period will depend to a large extent freedom from disagreeable symptoms, safety at the time of the infant's birth, and the health and well-being of both herself and her child for a considerable time thereafter. To a degree that is scarcely realized the mother's diet is of paramount importance.

First, it must be adequate in amount for the nourishment of the mother and of the developing child. Second, it must be of such character as will supply all the needed food elements and serve as a preventive of constipation, anemia, damage to the kidneys, and eclampsia (convulsions).

In general, the diet in twenty-hour hours should consist of:

One quart of milk; two eggs; one serving of beef, mutton, chicken, or fish; four servings of vegetables, two of which should be leaf vegetables such as spinach, chard, other greens, cabbage, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts, lettuce, and celery; one tablespoon of butter, and a generous supply of raw or cooked fruit. Other foods must be taken so that the total calories will approximate 2,000 or 2,500. It must not be forgotten that the fetus itself in the last months of pregnancy requires approximately 400 to 500 calories a day.

Sufficient water must be taken so that the excretion of urine shall equal approximately two quarts daily. Constipation will be avoided if vegetables and fruits are used in sufficient quantities. As a rule, little attention need be given to vitamin deficiency provided the diet follows with fair accuracy the one outlined.

As far as is known no diet that supplies all the needed food elements will greatly influence the size of the child. Birth difficulties do not lie in the weight of the child primarily. For example, an infant with rather large bones and consequently a large head may weigh no more than a very fat baby with small bones and a small head. The normal weight gain of the mother is about 18 to 20 pounds, and excessive weight should be guarded against. Should the mother gain abnormally, a heavier load will be thrown upon the heart and the food burning functions of the body. Furthermore, the liver and kidneys, which play so vital a rôle in toxemias of pregnancy, will be reduced in efficiency and possibly damaged.

Should nausea and vomiting develop in the early months of pregnancy food control is of importance and the best procedure lies in using five or six very light meals during each twenty-four hours. At this time fats should be reduced to a minimum with the exception of butter, and in severe cases butter may be omitted for a few days. The diet should consist largely of carbohydrates (starches and sugars) and fruits, with only a small amount of protein, preferably chicken. Glucose should be administered freely and fruits used in large amounts. If there is excessive vomiting it may be necessary to administer vitamin B concentrates.

Anemia must be guarded against. It is a general rule that women require more iron than men because of blood lost or used in the functions of menstruation, pregnancy, and lactation. It has been pretty definitly shown that anemic mothers are inclined to premature delivery. By many authors it is contended that the need for iron is greatest during the last three months of pregnancy and is still greater if twins or triplets are present. The expert physician watches the hemoglobin of the blood and prescribes iron in some suitable form when the need is shown.

In an earlier article mention was made of the importance of calcium. This cannot be too strongly stressed. Calcium is not utilized by the body except in the presence of vitamin D. Milk fortified with vitamin D may obviate the need for the administration of calcium salts; otherwise calcium glycerophosphate should be prescribed.

DRINK MORE MILK.

Mrs. R. C. M. writes:

1. What is the reason for teeth becoming saw-edged after childbirth?
2. If caused by a deficiency of certain chemicals in the system, can you suggest a diet?

REPLY.

1. Probably a deficiency in needed minerals, particularly calcium. Most women who are pregnant take added amounts of calcium and phosphorus during the period preceding childbirth.
2. It should contain all needed vitamins, particularly vitamin D, and be rich in calcium. Use an extra quart of milk daily and an abundance of green vegetables.

TREATMENT SUCCESSFUL.

A Mother writes: For two years my daughter suffered from pyelitis. A doctor made a serum of her urine and injected this into her arm once a week. That was four years ago and she has had no trouble since.

REPLY.

The vaccine treatment is often successful.

The DEBUNKER

By John Harvey Furbay, Ph. D.

We often use the expression, "Like waving a red flag in front of a bull," and it is usually believed that bulls are especially excited by the color red. To our amazement recent scientific studies have proved that bulls are color blind and cannot tell one color from another. It has been shown by tests that red does not bring any special reactions from these animals. It is probably the movement rather than the color which does the exciting.

LIQUOR ADVERTISING.

New York, Oct. 18.—As a Chicagoan and long a reader of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE I am aware of the contribution made by your newspaper in the fight for repeal of prohibition. Now, repeal of itself promptly brought about a partial correction of the intolerant conditions which existed during the fourteen years of mockery—but, mind you, only partly so—for over 50 per cent of the alcoholic beverages consumed today, in the opinion of the secretary of the treasury, are bootleg. Therefore the biggest competitor to the legitimate liquor, wine and beer industry after nearly one year of repeal still remains the manufacturer of illicit beverages aided by the bottle refilling cheat, and the counterfeiter of bottles, labels, and stamps.

By means of the various devices the treasury department has sponsored, and with the help of state and municipal authorities the public receives, some effective protection against the illegitimate liquor purveyer and the industry receives protection from the illegal producer. But the coöperation of the consuming public is needed finally to stamp it out.

The future of the industry will be what the public wants it to be. Those of us who are new in the liquor industry are making a sincere effort to place it on a high level of conduct.

In the fight the public can be won over most quickly through properly directed publicity and advertising. To that end it occurs to me that newspapers of the high standing of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE still have a duty to perform to the public and to the legitimate industry by opening their columns to controled liquor, wine, and beer advertising.

THE BLAME GOES WITH THE CREDIT.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—E. G. Thiem's letter in the Voice of the People today sets up the "Benefits of AAA" as a comment on your editorial, "A Farmer Sharpens His Pencil." Mr. Thiem, we believe, is publicity agent for that well known jobholders' training school, the Illinois Agricultural association. Apparenty the pay rollers are depending on the subtle Mr. Thiem to prove the existence of benefits in the AAA as a safeguard to the continuity of their federal salaries.

Illinois farmers so far have paid in processing taxes on hogs probably $10 for every dollar so far paid back in benefits. Some great hog producing counties have been taxed at the rate of 100 to 1 in benefits. Every hog slaughtered or sold is "taxed" $2.25 per hundred pounds, or an average of $5 per head.

Mr. Thiem says "thanks to the crop plan, hogs topped at $6.15 in Chicago." Scarcely over a month previous top hogs sold for $8.05 at Chicago. If the crop plan claims the benefits of raising hogs from the low level it must accept the responsibility of smashing hog prices practically $2 per hundred, or $5 per hog, between September and October, 1934. This is current history, something every farmer with hogs in the lot clearly recalls. Hog prices dropped steadily from $8.05 to $5.85, the top price today. The AAA may have the doubtful credit of smashing hog values $2.20 per hundred in forty days' time and reducing Illinois farm income from hogs by millions of dollars. If they shirk this burden, then how may they claim to have manipulated an upturning market?

Mr. Thiem farms "by proxy," he says. Therefore AAA benefits naturally may attract him. The so-called referendum now under way under AAA direction is widely publicized as a farmers' indorsement of the corn-hog plan. Figures published by the Drovers Journal, Chicago, show the unbelievable fact that only one farmer in five signing the contract ever cast a vote. Chiefly the vote was limited to federal farm bureau members. County agents [pay rollers] and corn-hog plan inspectors [pay rollers] conducted the referendum. It would be equal to economic suicide for any farmer signing a contract and awaiting benefit checks to vote adversely in the face of these conditions. WALTER C. CONDON.

INCONSISTENCY ALLEGED.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Would you be so good as to put some symbol on your paper so I could distinguish it from the other CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE that is being published in this city?

Last spring, after the Literary Digest had a straw vote on the New Deal, this other CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE deprecated the value of the results of that vote as being inaccurate, false, biased, and possibly through connivance of the Digest to give the advantage to the New Deal. Incidentally, the result was rather in favor of the New Deal.

Now the Digest has come out with another vote, the result of which is against the New Deal. Your paper gives this more prominence than the other TRIBUNE gave the other results. Moreover, your paper submits the results as being a pretty good indication of how things are around the country.

Now it is all very confusing. Both your TRIBUNE and this other one that I read have the same appearance, the same writers, the same departments—why, even the same address and the same publishers. But no one paper could be so two faced and inconsistent. Will you please help your readers to tell one from the other? MARK TABER.

FIRST CALL ON JOBS.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—In reference to the letter of William Mitchell in this morning's TRIBUNE, I can go him one better. I am not only a citizen but was born of native Chicagoans in the city of Chicago. I have been unemployed three years. The worst aspect of the situation is that thousands and thousands not only of aliens but of farmers and small town lads come here and go to work because the foreman or some boss is a small town lad himself. I defy any one to deny the following: There is not one concern in Chicago where you can walk in like a man, state your ability and obtain employment on merit. DISGUSTED.

MARKET RIGGING.

Chicago, Oct. 19.—Shades of Gen. Custard! Consistency, thou'rt a jewel, by gad! Consider:

1. The government discovers that certain wicked bankers rig markets and promptly take steps to crucify all bankers and very nearly succeeds.
2. The market for government bonds becoming somewhat lousy, the government decides to do a gigantic rigging job on its own hook.
3. The rigging job having failed, the government hires the wicked bankers——

Hi de hi de ho! I guess we'll have to pass the apples again.

GERMANS REFUSE TO PAY CHURCH TAX TO NAZI RULE

"Rebel" Pastors Set Up Own Regime.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—Pastors of the free Protestant churches of Germany today completed the organization of their own church government to supersede the Nazi dictatorship under Reichobishop Ludwig Mueller. The most important post, that of treasurer, was entrusted to Supt. Karl Koch, who, according to members of the new church council, will collect taxes from supporters of the secessionist church.

Heretofore church taxes, which are fixed at 10 per cent of the income tax for all persons except dissidents, has been collected by the government. Churchgoers who refuse to pay the tax to the government, stating that they have paid it to Koch, will violate German laws and will be liable to punishment. The leaders of the opposition church movement declare this action is necessary "for a final showdown."

Calls for Support.

"For months," they said, "we have been promised readjustment and consideration of our claims by Mueller's church ministry. We refuse to stand for more delay. The faithful who want to hear the gospel and the creed as taught by Martin Luther must show that they support us."

It is consistently rumored that Dr. August Jaeger, Nazi commissioner of Protestant churches in Prussia, will resign. Jaeger, accompanied by secret police, invaded Munich and deposed and arrested Hans Meisser, bishop of Bavaria. He also ordered the church dissolved in that state.

Meanwhile a toothache forced Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler to delay government action in the church secession movement.

The chancellor had intended to deliver an address in which he intended to set forth the government's attitude in the rapidly spreading revolt. Leaders of the oppositional synod believe Hitler will depose Reichsbishop Mueller, but the chancellor's legal advisers are urging him to remain firm.

Hitler Is Worried.

Consternation struck Nazi party leaders when sheaves of declarations of loyalty to Bishop Meisser poured into the party's headquarters in Berlin. Hundreds of Bavarian peasants signed the declaration, which also protests against the dictatorial procedure of Dr. Jaeger.

Because farmers in the past have been the backbone of Hitler's support these protests are causing the Nazi bigwigs no end of worry.

The threat of a Roman Catholic interdict also reached the Nazi party today. The Catholics, who have been lying low in recent weeks, are believed to be about ready to resume their offensive against the Nazi administration.

Read Forbidden Declaration.

Reports from various parts of Germany said that priests read in their Sunday sermons large portions of the declaration drafted at the bishops' conference in Folde last spring. Nazi authorities forbade the reading of the declarations to the public at that time.

The declaration states that the Catholic church in Germany was a victim of suppression and injustice, and that priests were being persecuted.

According to reports from Munich, Cardinal Michael Faulhaber has received special authority from the pope to place an interdict upon the entire diocese in the event of his arrest. This would mean that in Bavaria no Catholic baptisms, confirmations, marriages, extreme unctions, or burials could be conducted.

BERLIN TO BUILD SAFETY CELLARS FOR AIR RAIDS

[Copyright, 1934, By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—A campaign to provide every house in Berlin with a bombproof cellar for the protection of tenants in case of an air raid has been initiated through proclamations issued by the state commissar for Berlin, the chief of police, the reich air defense league, and the Association of Berlin House and Real Estate Owners.

The proclamations point out "heavily armed foreign powers force Germans to take immediate steps to protect women and children against air attacks." An even more immediate aim, however, is to create jobs in order to hold down the number of unemployed during the winter.

Every "house community," that is owner and tenants, are requested to construct an air attack refuge at once and at their own expense. In addition every house owner is called on to contribute a minimum of five marks to a common fund from which less well to do property owners are to be aided to build safety cellars at once. A census for this purpose is already under way.

Junk Peddlers Charge Dealers with Lockout

More than 1,000 junk peddlers met yesterday at 1136 North Western avenue to protest against a lockout which they allege was ordered against them by Chicago junk dealers on Oct. 18. Charges were made that the lockout was planned in order to manipulate the price of waste paper. Jack Gilberg, president of the Midwest Waste Paper Dealers' association, said there was no lockout, but the dealers could not trade with the peddlers because of their price demands.

WARNS GERMANS WHO HOARD SUITS OF REAL WOOL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 22.—"Do men who hoard suits made of genuine wool actually believe they will be able to walk the streets of German cities in their fine English suits, while the rest of the nation is compelled to wear substitutes?" the Westfaelische Landeszeitung asked today. The article sounded a warning against persons hoarding goods of any kind.

"A fine suit may easily brand its wearer as a traitor to national economy and a scoundrel who knifes his own people in the back at a time when he could, instead, show his reliability and idealism," the newspaper said.

STUDENTS RIOT AGAINST ITALY IN SERB CAPITAL

Police Scatter Crowd in University Square.

BELGRADE, Oct. 23 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Police, forewarned, yesterday quickly scattered Jugo-Slav students who demonstrated against Italy in the first disorder here since King Alexander was assassinated at Marseilles.

The students, gathering in the square before the university, shouted "Down with Mussolini" and "Surrender Pavelich" before police dispersed them.

By royal decree court mourning for the Alexander was extended to one year. No public amusements must be allowed until Oct. 23.

Picks New Cabinet.

A new cabinet, headed by Nikola Uzonovich as premier, was approved by the regency early today. The completion of a cabinet came as a surprise, as only yesterday it was understood that Uzonovich, who recently resigned as premier, had given up his effort to form a new government.

Gen. Zitkovich was reappointed war minister, to the disappointment of many Croats. The new régime includes Dr. Milan Srshkitch and Marincovich, both of whom were formerly prime ministers in the late king's dictatorial government.

As men most devoted to the stringent régime of the late king are included in the cabinet, foreign observers believed, the dissatisfaction of the Croats and Slovenes would continue for some time without hope of a genuine Jugo-Slav unity.

Refuses to Extradite Pair.

TURIN, Italy, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Well informed circles said tonight Italy will refuse extradition of Dr. Anton Pavelich and Egon Kvaternik, wanted in France as alleged leaders of the terrorist band accused of plotting the Marseilles assassinations.

Pavelich, alleged chief of the Croat revolutionary band, and Kvaternik, named as his "delegate," were arrested here last week at the request of French authorities, whose questioning of three suspects held in France brought their names into the case as the alleged chief conspirators against King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia.

An official report said the interrogation by police did not shake the contention of the Croatians that they were innocent of the plot and were not in France when the assassination occurred. Diplomatic circles watched the situation with particular care, since they regarded it not as a mere criminal case, but one with delicate possibilities of an international character.

"I have never been in Marseilles in my life," Turin police quoted Pavelich as saying. "The only time I was ever in France was in June, 1927. That was as a representative from Zagreb to an international congress in Paris. I gave no orders to anybody in connection with the Marseilles affair."

France Nabs Another Suspect.

PARIS, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Another confessed member of the Croat revolutionary terrorist band which is accused of plotting the Marseilles assassinations was held for investigation today. Police said Andre Artoukovitch, a former Belgrade lawyer, arrested at Dieppe, had admitted acquaintance with Dr. Anton Pavelich and his companion, Egon Kvaternik, who are prisoners in Italy. Artoukovitch denied having any part in the slayings.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

A Steer Laboratory.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

TWO hundred cattle will be used in feeding tests to be conducted during the next year at THE TRIBUNE Experimental Farm near Yorkville, Ill. Today there are 179 head of steers and calves at the farm, all well bred grade animals. The calves are Herefords and the steers are practically all Herefords; there are a few that may have some Shorthorn blood. The entire herd was produced on the range.

During the next few weeks a search of the middle west will be made to find ten pure bred steers; five Angus, and five Shorthorn, weighing approximately 624 pounds. This is the average weight of the herd of forty-two yearling feeders bought last week by Clarence Thurow, manager of the farm. The pure bred Angus and Shorthorn steers, along with five of the grade Herefords, will be marked and turned in with the other feeders. The grades and pure breds will then be roughed through the winter and fattened under the same conditions for the market.

The 117 grade Hereford steers brought to the farm a year ago are from Wyoming, the 42 yearlings recently purchased are from Texas, and the calves are from Colorado.

With the herd made up of grades and pure breds, two years olds, yearlings and calves, and animals from four different parts of the country, Manager Thurow expects to be able to make some interesting and valuable observations, which he hopes will teach lessons not only of value to THE TRIBUNE Experimental Farm but to other feeders in the middle west.

Records of weights, costs, feeds used, and methods of feeding and handling the animals are kept for the benefit of feeders who are seeking practical information.

MENTHOLATUM Gives COMFORT Daily

His Hair Roots are NOT Dead

Hair roots are a part of the human body and do not "die" as long as the body itself lives. They become inactive when (1) they are attacked by some local scalp disorder (such as dandruff) or (2) when they have not received sufficient nourishment. Hair roots are alive, even in a bald scalp and are ready to respond to proper stimulative treatment.

Seventeen years ago Paul A. Thomas discovered the proper method of stimulating the dormant sources of hair growth. His method has been improved each year and today is as near perfect as any scalp treatment can be. First, Thomas treatment overcomes all local scalp infections, stops scalp itch and abnormal hair fall. It then stimulates the tiny glands in the scalp which nourish the hair. Thus, "sleeping hair" obtains sufficient strength to grow again and become visible on the scalp.

Come in today and learn how Thomas can help you to have a good, healthy head of hair. Thomas never makes a charge for consultation or complete scalp examination. All service is rendered in private.

BRITONS--SCOTT, BLACK--WIN AIR RACE IN 70 HOURS

Dutch Flyers Are Second, Americans Third.

Haviland] the Scott-Black team also defeated Great Britain's premier air couple, the Mollisons, who had a similar machine, but lost any chance of winning by being forced to repair their ship at Allahabad, India, where they still were grounded early today.

Parmentier and Moll, before leaving Port Darwin, said they were enjoying their trip thoroughly. They regarded it an adventure which was proving the commercial value of their plane. It was pointed out that no alterations had been made in their American Douglas plane to prepare for the race. In addition to the pilots it was carrying a cargo, 2,000 letters and three passengers. The passengers were Thea Rasche, German aviatrix; Peter Gilleson of The Hague, and R. G. Dominie of Brazil.

Cathcart Jones, Englishman in fourth place, arrived at Singapore at 2:14 a. m., G. M. T. Malcolm MacGregor, another New Zealander, arrived at Allahabad at 2:21 a. m. in fifth place.

Scott's prolonged stay of more than two hours at Charleville was due to renewed engine trouble. Only one of his motors was functioning when he arrived there. Mechanics made hasty adjustments and Scott started once, only to return to the Charleville field. His second start was successful. The motors seemed to be functioning well as he struck out for Melbourne, but it was thought he might relieve the strain by reducing his speed on the home stretch.

Two Are Killed.

The air race had its first fatalities today when Flying Officer H. D. Gilman and J. Y. C. Baines, co-pilot Britishers, crashed to death in Italy. The men, flying a British Fairey Fox machine, fell from a height of 4,500 feet in the Palazzo and Gervasio sector of the Apennines not long after taking off from Rome.

Their plane burst into flames as it touched the ground. Peasants saw the crash, but were powerless to extricate the doomed airmen.

With two withdrawals today the field was reduced to 13 competitors. The Mollisons, James and Amy, who led the race to Karachi, India, Saturday and set a record of 22 hours 13 minutes, quit after failing to reach Allahabad. The landing gear of their plane, which is a duplicate of Scott's, failed to work. They took off and returned to Karachi twice yesterday, and after a third attempt landed at Jodhpur and withdrew.

Others Far Behind.

The other competitors have made less than half the distance between England and Australia, but they are still eligible for prizes in the handicap race. These include J. D. Hewett and C. E. Kay, New Zealand; Lieut. M. Hansen, Denmark; D. E. and K. G. Stodart, England; C. J. Melrose, South Australia; John H. Wright and John Polando, United States; C. G. Davies and C. N. Hill, England; Lieut. G. Shaw, England, and H. L. Brook, England.

Wright and Polando were held up by a bad gas line at Cyprus, but repaired it and went on to Aleppo, Syria. They are flying a Lambert monocoupe with Warner super-Scarab motor.

The race is a feature of the Melbourne centennial celebration and the prizes are supplied by Sir MacPherson Robertson, Australian candy magnate. The winners of the speed race will receive £10,000 Australian [$40,000] and a gold cup valued at £500 [$2,000]. The second place winner will receive £1,500 [$6,000], and third place, £500 [$2,000]. The winner of the handicap race will receive £2,000 [$8,000] and second place, £1,000 [$4,000]. Most planes were entered for both the speed and handicap races, but some only in one division.

POSITIONS OF AIR RACE LEADERS

Numbers on map indicate the relative positions of the five leaders in the England to Australia air race: (1) Scott and Black finishing at Melbourne; (2) Parmentier and Moll, Dutch, en route from Port Darwin to Charleville; (3) Col. Turner and Pangborn, Americans, en route from Koepang to Port Darwin; (4) Jones and Waller, British, at Singapore; (5) MacGregor and Walker at Allahabad.

Here's Description of Plane Which Won the Air Derby

BY WAYNE THOMIS.

The airplane and engines with which the British flyers, C. W. A. Scott and T. Campbell Black, won the London to Melbourne air race did not exist ten months ago. They materialized from the minds of their designers and engineers after the race was announced last December. It was a piece of aeronautical engineering of unprecedented speed and accuracy since not one major change was made in either ship or engine after they were put together.

Both plane and engine are the product of the DeHavilland company, England's premier builder of commercial airplanes since the world war. During the war the company built a series of reconnoissance, observation, and bombing planes which were the best of their types used by any army.

Low-Wing Monoplane.

The plane is comparatively small and is built along lines suggested by the best American engineering of the past five years during which the Douglas DG-2, and the Boeing 247, both commercial transport airplanes, were conceived, designed, tested, and put into service on airways in the United States.

It is a low-wing monoplane, powered with twin-engines set in the wings. It is fitted with retractible landing gear and split-flaps to reduce the landing speed. The pilots sit in the rear of the fuselage and the tandem seats are completely enclosed.

The wings, following American practice, are full cantiliver, tapered in both chord and section. The tail group is also full cantilever, thus leaving the plane completely free of bracing which causes a drag. The wheels retract entirely into the engine nacelles.

The machine is entirely of wood construction covered with fabric. Its "all up" weight is 5,320 pounds including 260 gallons of fuel stored in the forward portion of the fuselage. The span is 44 feet and the chord at the wing roots measures five feet and six inches.

Cooled by Forced Draft.

Engines used are six cylinder in line, cooled by forced draft generated by the craft's speed. They give 230 British horsepower each, are direct drive and are not supercharged. Only ten of these engines were built. They are modifications of a new six cylinder engine the DeHavilland company only recently began to manufacture.

The company's engineers said the first engine was run at top revolutions—approximately 2,400 per minute—for more than 60 hours when it was first put together. It stood the test perfectly. Two, at least, of this engine's brothers gave fine accounts of themselves in the winning ship.

It is not particularly astonishing when an airplane has been so perfectly designed that changes are found to be necessary. Nevertheless, internal combustion engineers confess themselves completely astounded at the absence of "bugs"—small but important changes which cause, usually, redesigning and remachining of certain parts—in the DeHavilland special six engines.

An Interesting Story.

The story of how the DeHavilland company agreed to build the three ships of this design, called Comets, which were entered in the race, is as strange as is the immediate success with which the company's engineers met in building the machines.

After the race was announced a number of English flyers asked the company to build fast airplanes which could qualify to the standard British license and be eligible for the race. The company agreed providing the purchasers put up the money for the planes without seeing a single blue print or even hearing a description of the ship as it would be delivered.

The company simply announced that the plane as finished would cruise at "approximately 200 miles an hour" and have a range of approximately 2,000 miles. To these blind specifications A. O. Edwards, manager of tions A. O. Edwards, prominent London business man, agreed, and he entered as his crew Pilots Scott and Black. Capt. J. A. Mollison and his wife, Amy, and two other sportsmen flyers, Bernard Rubin and Ken Waller, both of London, also purchased ships. The three were the only Comets the company built.

BLACK WINS BRIDE AS WELL AS AIR RACE LONDON TO AUSTRALIA

LONDON, Oct. 23 [Tuesday].—(AP)—Campbell Black, co-pilot of C. W. A. Scott, who won the London to Melbourne air race today, was racing not only for the prize but for a bride, it was revealed here.

During the rush of preparations for the departure from Mildenhall last week the young airman found time to propose marriage to the English actress, Florence Desmond.

"If you win this race I will give you my answer," Miss Desmond said in response to Black's proposal.

With that added incentive, Black set out on the aerial dash half way around the globe.

Miss Desmond told the Daily Mail today that she and Black had been "great friends" for some time and that he had taken her on numerous flights.

"I knew the dangers of the flight to Australia and, although I felt he would win, I realized I might never see him again," Miss Desmond said.

"So when a few hours before the start of the race, out at the airdrome, he asked me to marry him I wanted to say 'yes' then and there.

"But I thought it would help him more if I delayed my answer until he won this race."

SCOTT TUMBLES ALL RECORDS IN AUSTRALIA RACE

Time to Darwin One-third of C. T. P. Ulm's.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 23.—[Tuesday.]—C. W. A. Scott and T. Campbell Black literally blasted all England to Australia records even before reaching Melbourne in the Mac. Robertson race.

Scott sliced a generous two-thirds from the record made by Charles T. P. Ulm a year ago almost to the day. Ulm made the 10,000 miles to Derby, West Australia, in 6 days 17 hours 45 minutes. Scott reached Darwin, about the same distance, in 2 days 4 hours and 22 minutes.

This is the third time Scott has flown from England to Australia, each time breaking the existing record. In contrast to the present spectacular flight it took him 9 days 3 hours 40 minutes in April, 1931, and 8 days 20 hours 47 minutes in October of that years.

Speed 164 Miles Per Hour.

On arrival at Charleville, Scott and Black had covered the 10,500 miles from Mildenhall in just a little more than 64 hours at an average speed of 164 miles an hour. This was in spite of recurring motor trouble after passing Timor sea.

Scott said the whole trip was the worst he had ever experienced.

"Crossing the Bay of Bengal," he said, "we had low clouds and constant rain for 1,400 miles. The sea was only just below the fuselage. The visibility, the worst in my experience, forced us to fly a few feet above the ocean hour after hour.

"We lost our way 150 miles from Bagdad and landed to get our bearings.

"The night had been particularly gruelling. We had spent hour after hour in pitch darkness in filthy weather, flying absolutely blind, hoping for the best."

"I never wanted so sincerely to see Australian shores in all my life as when that port engine failed," Scott said, reminiscing over the journey from Singapore to Darwin.

Prince of Wales' Pilot.

Scott, who piloted the prince of Wales while the latter was hunting in east Africa, is from London. He is more than six feet tall and was heavyweight boxing champion when a member of the Royal Air force.

His height and sandy hair and mustache are in decided contrast to the slightly built, short, co-pilot, T. Campbell Black, who has black glossy hair and a black mustache.

When they finally limped into Darwin both men feared the port engine might remain out of action, but Scott asserted that even this would not deter them from pressing on to Charleville. This heroic measure was not required, however.

Mechanics quickly freed the seized piston and within an hour had the engine firing again, although only on five of the six cylinders, with its power reduced and the port engine thus unbalanced and vibrating.

AUSTRALIAN FLYER EXPECTS TO HOP FOR HONOLULU TOMORROW

SUVA, Fiji Islands, Oct. 23.—[Tuesday.]—(AP)—Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith today set the takeoff for Honolulu, on the second leg of his Australia-California flight, for noon tomorrow from Naselai beach. Heavy rains which pelted this island city yesterday, flooding Albert park and forcing postponement of the flight have ceased.

From Albert park Sir Charles will fly first to Naselai, there to refuel before departing for Honolulu, 3,197 miles distant.

Only one possible change loomed in his plans. Instead of making a sustained flight to Hawaii, he probably will set his plane, the Lady Southern Cross, down on Fanning Island, 1,200 miles out from Suva, for a halt of possibly not more than an hour or so.

Sues County for Death of Wife During Flood

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—As the result of the death of Eugenia Scully and destruction of a home at 2670 Honolulu avenue, Montrose, in last New Year's day flood, William R. Scully and four minor daughters today filed suit in Superior court demanding $213,275.75 damages of Los Angeles county and the Los Angeles county flood control district. Scully blames the failure of the defendants to provide proper flood control measures for the fatalities, asking $200,000 damages for his wife's death and $13,275.75 for loss of his home.

STORM TOLL 21 IN NORTHWEST; FEAR NEW GALE

Shipping and Property Losses High.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 22.—(AP)—A new storm, born in the Gulf of Alaska, whirled toward the Pacific northwest tonight as the coastal area counted twenty-one dead and great property damage as the result of a furious gale which struck the north seaboard yesterday and reached into California.

The gale yesterday, registering as high as 83 miles an hour, wrecked boats, blew down trees, houses and communication lines and raised havoc generally in the Washington and Oregon coastal areas. Two fliers crashed to their deaths in a canyon near Hayward, Calif., during a heavy rainstorm.

Fear More Casualties.

Authorities expressed fear other casualties might have occurred and that the full cost of the storm would not be known until crippled communication lines were restored to service.

Grays Harbor, Wash., was cut off by high water from the east. Tidewater was backed into city streets and homes.

Power service was out in Olympia for 24 hours. It was believed it would take two days to restore service in the rural communities of Snohomish county, north of Seattle.

The liner President Madison was torn from its moorings in Seattle and crashed into three nearby vessels, sinking one, the stern wheeler Harvester. Twenty members of the Harvester's crew leaped to safety. Owners of the Harvester said their loss would be $125,000, and they had no insurance.

30 Passengers Escape.

Thirty passengers from the Tacoma-Seattle boat Virginia V. were saved with difficulty as the ship was wrecked at Olalla.

Although the freighter Floridian sent out distress calls when struck by the storm off the Oregon coast, it limped into Astoria today. It rode out the gale alone after having once been driven into the sand.

The President Madison, which also struck the vessels North Haven and Aleutian Native, was warped back into her berth today.

Tatoosh Island, at the entrance to the Strait of Juan de Fuca, was isolated with wireless antenna and telegraph lines down. There are eighteen persons on the islands, employés of the weather bureau, naval radio men, and members of the lighthouse service.

ALOIS LEDERER TAKEN BY DEATH IN WEST AT 71

Funeral arrangements for Alois Lederer, 71 years old, Chicago wallpaper manufacturer and wholesaler who died of heart disease on Sunday in Albuquerque, N. M., are to be completed on arrival of the body here probably today. Mr. Lederer, who was traveling for his health, was stricken on a Santa Fe railroad train and removed to an Albuquerque hospital. He was accompanied on the trip by his wife, Mrs. Nettie Lederer, and his sister, Mrs. Jennie Freund.

Mr. Lederer was born in Bohemia and taught school there from 1882 to 1891, when he migrated to this country and entered the wallpaper business here. Besides his wife and sister he is survived by two sons, Harry and Bernard, partners in the business under the father's name at 4860 South Halsted street.

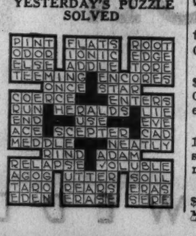
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

Alexander Olsha-Netski, conductor, composer, and violinist, will become the director of the Chicago Theater orchestra beginning next Friday. In this capacity he will become the musical director of the Chicago Theater of the Air, heard regularly over W-G-N, beginning next Tuesday evening. Olsha-Netski will replace H. Leopold Spitalny, who has been filling in since Josef Cherniavsky resigned. The new director comes from the Paramount theater, New York, where he followed David Rubinoff of radio fame, who left to work last summer in Hollywood with Jimmy Durante.

Olsha-Netski was born in Odessa and educated at the Imperial conservatory. He became first violinist with the Imperial Opera orchestra and was a band leader in the Russian army during the war. In 1917 he organized his own operetta company and toured the orient. In 1922 he organized an opera company with which he toured America. He has written several operettas. He was introduced to motion picture theater work by Borros Morros, Paramount production chief. He dropped work on an operetta for Molly Picon to accept the Chicago theater engagement.

Lawrence Tibbett's commercial show over NBC will go on the air from Chicago next Tuesday. The Metropolitan baritone will arrive next Friday afternoon and on Sunday is to appear in concert at Orchestra hall. Ordinarily heard with Wilfred Pelletier's orchestra from Radio City, Tibbett will be supported by one of the local NBC orchestras next Tuesday. John B. Kennedy, commentator, will contribute his portion of the program from New York.

NAVAL PARLEY TO OPEN TODAY; JAPS TALK FIRST

MacDonald Will Receive Tokio's Delegates.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 22.—The naval conversations will begin in London tomorrow, when Prime Minister MacDonald receives the Japanese delegates at his offices and addresses them on the world need for smaller armaments.

It is hoped, but it is not certain, that the Japanese will then lay their cards on the table and outline in detail their much publicized plan for arms reduction.

U. S. Delegates Forced to Wait.

In the meantime the American delegation is waiting and has little hope of getting into the picture for several days. It is expected the Japanese will take two or three days to expound their cause to the British. After that they will meet the American delegates, who by that time will have been informed by the British of the Japanese proposals.

Briefly, the position of the three powers is as follows:

The British want to reduce the size of capital ships from 35,000 to 25,000 tons and would like seventy small cruisers instead of the fifty allowed by the London treaty. They will not abolish submarines and will keep airplans carriers, but want to reduce guns from fifteen to twelve inches.

U. S. Wants Battleships.

The Japanese are willing to reduce the size of warships and want to abolish aircraft carriers, but the British have an open mind and might be willing to swap aircraft carriers for submarines. The Japanese also want to abolish the 5-5-3 ratio and ratios by categories. As a substitute they want some system of relative global tonnages, each nation being allowed to use that tonnage in whatever classes of ships it likes.

FAMOUS GERMAN WOMAN SPY DIES OF TUBERCULOSIS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ZURICH, Switzerland, Oct. 22.—Anne-Marie Lesser, famous in world war days as "Mademoiselle Docteur," one of Germany's most daring spies, is dead here after a ten year fight against tuberculosis.

Anne-Marie was a Jewish girl of good family. She spoke French fluently and risked death many times as a German spy in France and Belgium. To keep her nerve she turned to drugs. Smuggling herself back and forth through soggy marshes in "no man's land" she developed tuberculosis. Regardless of the warning of physicians, she carried on. After the war she went to Switzerland in an attempt to recuperate.

For her services the German government paid the spy's bill in a sanatorium near Zurich. There she showed her old-time cunning through her successful efforts to obtain the drugs which lulled her to death.

GIRL IS FATALLY INJURED BY AUTO BOUGHT FOR $10

Owner of Car Claims It Had Been Stolen.

Irene Czarnik, 10 years old, 1857 Huron street, who was struck by the automobile of a hit and run driver Sunday night, died last night in St. Mary's hospital. Racine avenue police held Frank Knapp, 21 years old, 868 North Paulina street, who said he had bought the car several days ago for $10.

Knapp was arrested three hours after the accident when he reported the machine had been stolen. He denied he was in the car when the girl was struck, and said he was attending a dance at Cleaver and Division streets at the time. The automobile was found abandoned at Moorman and Paulina streets shortly after the accident, which occurred at Ashland avenue and Emily street. No charge was placed against Knapp last night.

Another child, Herbert Urlaub Jr., 12 years old, 1324 South Elgin avenue, Forest Park, was fatally injured yesterday when he was struck by a car driven by Delbert I. Manning, 31 years old, 1622 Wisconsin avenue, Berwyn, president of the Manning Motor Sales company. The accident occurred in Harlem avenue near Roosevelt road, Oak Park. Manning, who told police the boy had run in front of his car, took the child to the Oak Park hospital, but later he was charged with manslaughter and released on a bond of $10,000. He was ordered to appear before Justice of the Peace Louis S. Gibson in Oak Park today.

The deaths of the two children increased the Cook county motor fatalities for 1934 to 988.

Miss Gertrude Lassick, 1616 Hammond street, was killed yesterday when an automobile overturned two miles west of Overton, Neb. Miss Esther Miller and Samuel Null, also of Chicago were seriously injured.

CORONER TELLS STORY OF GIRL WHO KILLED SELF

Carbondale, Ill., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Coroner Ed Travelsted of Carbondale said today after his investigation that Miss Fern Lambert 17, killed herself because of despair when her father objected Saturday night to her marriage to Carl Cattonara.

She had pleaded with her father to allow her to wed that night, but he warned her that he would call the sherif if she tried to do that. She and Carl had said good night on the front porch in the presence of her parents.

Suddenly Miss Lambert, weeping, ran into the house. Her parents heard a shot. She was found dying. A pistol bullet had entered near her heart. She still held the pistol, her parents said. She lived only a few minutes.

Her father, William Lambert, a miner, fainted. The coroner said today the parents were so hysterical he postponed the inquest until tomorrow. Miss Lambert was a popular high school student.

The doorbell rang from the vestibule lobby. A woman told the maid she had an appointment to meet Mrs. Kinzell, and was told to come in. With the woman was a man, who produced a revolver. Binding Miss Douzek with neckties and gagging her, they rifled the apartment, taking $100 cash, Mrs. Kinzell's two coats and other clothing, valued at $1,225. A GERMAN shepherd dog demonstrated to the crowds that filled the Coliseum last night for the annual dog show of the Western Specialty Club association how he leads his blind master safely about. His owner, Frank Hall, a Minneapolis music instructor, grasped two reins attached to the dog's harness and was led safely about the arena, in which some twenty hazards had been placed. By turning his shoulder right or left the dog guided his master around hurdles and away from overhanging obstacles that might have struck him in the face, and the spectators applauded vociferously.

Leaders—Display—Query—Straphanger.

It was the first time such a demonstration has been given in a dog show. There are two training establishments for blind leaders in America, one at Morristown, N. J., and the other at Minneapolis. Perhaps the best known blind leader in the country was Lux, the dog that guided blind Senator Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota about the capital. Lux had entry to every federal building in Washington, and had visited President Coolidge at the White House. He also had a pass that permitted him to ride on Pullman cars. Lux died, literally of a broken heart, intimates of the senator say. After being his constant companion for five years Senator Schall left him when he went to the funeral of Thomas J. Walsh at Helena, Mont. Lux's privileges and duties have been inherited by La Salle, whose training to be a blind leader has just been finished. The German Shepherd Dog club of the Great Lakes hopes to start an endowment that will enable it to furnish one dog a year to a blind person selected by the Chicago Lighthouse for the Blind, it was said yesterday.

JAMES HAY, one of the Art institute guards, whose experiences since he has been in attendance there would fill a book, was asked one day the identity of the four men painted in the lower right corner of El Greco's "Purification of the Virgin."

"Titian, Michelangelo, Don Guilio Clavio, and Raphael," he told her.

"Did Christ chase them out of the temple, too?" his interrogator asked.

St. Luke's Style Show Will Be Given Today

Only Fifth of Models Will Be Debutantes.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE shops won this year in the annual struggle—it's a very little and polite struggle, of course—between them and the woman's board of St. Luke's hospital, so less than a fifth of the models in the long heralded St. Luke's fashion show today will be debutantes.

The women in charge of the show always try to "sell" the buds as models to the shops, for they feel that the audiences like new faces, but the wise shop owners think that their gowns are shown off to better advantages by older girls and women.

It's a moot question, for what the very young lack in experience and poise they make up for in freshness and youth. And there's not much excuse for any of today's models not knowing how to walk nor to manage their hands, for one of the leading beauticians of the city offered several weeks ago as her contribution to the cause free lessons and exercises in correct posture to as many of the ninety-six models as needed them. This same beautician also gives shampoos, waves and manicures to those of the models who want them, so imagine what a madhouse her shop was yesterday and will be today until just before the afternoon showing which starts at 2:30 o'clock.

Tickets for it, by the way, may be secured at the door of the ballroom of the Stevens hotel, but reservations for the dinner dance, at which tonight's showing will be given, must be made in advance through the fashion show headquarters at the hotel.

Nurses in Uniform to Sell Programs.

Nurses from the hospital in crisp white uniforms will sell programs, reminding the guests of the charity for which the show is given, the social service department of the hospital.

Shaw, Mrs. Edgar Stanton Jr., Mrs. Bruce Thorne, and Mrs. John Valentine will sell flowers and cigarets.

The old fashioned wedding gowns that will be shown during the intermission will be modeled by Mrs. M. Grosscup Sampsell, Mrs. Louis E. Laflin Jr., Miss Nancy Avery, Miss Louise Forgan, Mrs. Douglas A. McMillan, Mrs. Dexter Cummings, Mrs. Solomon B. Smith, Mrs. W. Irving Osborne Jr., and Mrs. Louis C. Sudler.

Annual Meeting of Junior League.

Several young women who lunched at the Casino club yesterday following the Junior league's annual fall meeting were late for the St. Luke's fashion show rehersal, for when they saw the delicious raspberry ice being served they determined to stay and eat it, in spite of the fact that it would make them late at the Stevens.

"There's safety in numbers," one of the laggards declared as several other models joined her for the ice, so Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, in charge of models, had quite a group to scold.

The two proudest women at the meeting were Mrs. Joseph E. Otis and her sister, Mrs. Harold Eldridge, who were there to hear their daughter and niece, Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, as president of the league, preside at her first large meeting. The former Emily Otis conducted it with just the right degree of informality, humor and dignity.

Among the interesting reports made were those of Miss Helen Bell, theater chairman; Mrs. Ambrose Cramer, arts and interests chairman, and Mrs. Cly-

By Mae Tinée.

Good morning!

Children are certainly taking their parents in hands these days!

"The Human Side" is bound to make a hit with anybody who loves young folks because its cast is peopled by tremendously appealing youthful players.

They are seen as the offspring of a lovely mother and a theatrical producer father who are divorced but still love each other.

Every chance Gregory gets he spends an evening with his family. This burns up dad's temperamental actress lady friend and causes that wealthy, stuffed shirt, Mr. Dalton, who aspires to be mamma's next husband, considerable discomfort . . . . But the youngsters adore their father and he adores them—so there doesn't seem to be anything to be done about the situation. . . .

Mamma doesn't WANT to marry again. But WHAT to do to feed her brood, she being just a little home woman with no profession to fall back on, and Dad's alimony being so extremely uncertain. . . . . ? His plays somehow ALWAYS fizzle out. . . .

At last the cupboard IS bare. Mother promises that she'll become Mrs. Dalton upon the morrow. . . .

BUT—

She hadn't reckoned with the resourcefulness of her young nor with the depth of her former husband's affection for the whole caboodle of 'em. NOR—with certain peculiarities and plans of that fussy bachelor, Dalton, who a benedict would be. . . .

Better see pix for outcome. . . .

"The Human Side" is clean, effectively dialogued and charmingly presented. You'll love Doris Kenyon as Mrs. Gregory and be completely sold on all the children. Adolphe Menjou and Reginald Owen are aptly cast in their respective rôles of past and prospective husbands.

ACTING: Snappy.

DIRECTION: Good.

DIALOG: Clicketh sometimes. Sometimes doth not.

STORY: The aforementioned blondes work in a barber shop. Marie is a wise young bird. Rosie, engaged to a rough gentleman of questionable pursuits, is just learning the game of "Gimme, gimme; take, take"—WITHOUT paying and paying. . . . Ladies, mug lover, a pair of riotous vacationing aldermen, the wealthy Mr. Ashcraft Jr., et some others, set sail on a liner bound for Paris, where the last named's supposedly invalid wife is carrying on something scandalous with her Russian doctor. . . .

AUDIENCE APPEAL: This piece won't do so badly, because Glenda Farrell, Joan Blondell, and Hugh Herbert are always good for laughs—and fans know it.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A brand new and dandy invention is the brushless mascara. Looks like a flat black lipstick and works like a charm.

Cosmetic wonders will never cease. Here's a brushless mascara—and it's a humdinger. We were terribly skeptical, but we're sold now.

The quality of the mascara is just about all you could ask. It hasn't a soap base, which means that if you do get a dot in your eye you won't turn somersaults because of the miserable stinging; it doesn't smudge and it isn't drying.

But it's the mechanics of it that are most exciting. It looks like a flat instead of a round lipstick with minute corrugations on both sides. When used it's flipped out of its metal sheath, the tip dipped in water and brought lengthwise along the lashes. It's important to use the long length instead of the tip, which is what we did at first. Now we know how to use it we think it's fine—and our office staf whom we use as guinea pigs for all such experiments go around singing about. It's so blessed handy, they say, and the ones with a yen for curly lashes report with a happy gleam in their eyes that the weight of the stick seems to encourage a curl.

We thought the little corrugations into which the lashes slide as they're being coated would wear down, but they don't. They last as long as the stick does, and that should be a very long time.

It's very easy to coat every lash at almost one fell swoop with the stick, and getting at the frail, elusive ones in the corners doesn't seem as difficult as it used to be.

This mascara miracle comes in brown, in black and in blue. And while we're on the subject—how about the blue, you blue eyed gals? Why do so many of you shy away from it? It can do miracles for your eyes and still not be too theatrical looking. Sometimes on pale blondes with blue eyes it may be a bit garish in any other light than the soft ones of evening, but on the darker haired blue eyed women it usually looks decorously chic. Try it once and see.

Reinhardt Will Give Spectacle at Auditorium

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Max Reinhardt, who has been generally regarded as the world's greatest theatrical producer during the last twenty-five years, will bring his spectacular staging of Shakespeare's fantasy, "A Midsummer Night's Dream," to the Auditorium theater Thursday night, Nov. 15, for two weeks. Arrangements were completed yesterday by Grace Denton, manager of special operatic and concert offerings, who thus signifies her intention to bring a breath of new life to the shattered stage system of Chicago.

Reinhardt's treatment of "A Midsummer Night's Dream," to the incidental music of Mendelssohn, has been one of the highlights of his brilliant career. It has been acted for 1,000 consecutive nights in Europe and has been an annual feature of the Reinhardt drama festivals in Salzburg.

Early last summer Reinhardt went to California, by official invitation, to produce the play on an elaborate scale. Performances were given before audiences of many thousands in the Hollywood Bowl in Los Angeles, the War Memorial Opera house in San Francisco, and the Greek theater of the University of California in Berkeley.

The Chicago engagement will be a transplantation of the California production. The same scenic equipment and costumes will be used and many of the principal players, who were recruited from the motion picture studios of Hollywood, will be in the company.

Numerous auxiliary singers and dancers will be engaged and rehersed in Chicago. Felix Weissberger, Reinhardt's chief technical director, will arrive here within a few days to begin this work. Reinhardt himself will take charge of rehersals about five days before the première. The orchestra will be in charge of Einar Nilson, also a European associate of the great régisseur.

Among the leading members of the cast, as now selected, will be William Farnum as Lysander, Mickey Rooney as Puck, Francesca Braggiotti as Hippolyta, Frank Sully as Snout, and Jacqueline De Wit as Helena. In young Mickey Rooney, who will play the elf who causes all the merriment in Shakespeare's story, Reinhardt believes that he has discovered a unique comedian.

The last example of Reinhardt's method in staging large scale dramatic spectacles to be seen in Chicago was "The Miracle," which had a triumphant engagement in the Auditorium theater in 1925 under the management of Morris Gest. This pantomime was a matter of national interest at the time and had an extensive tour. "Sumurun," also a pantomime, telling a story out of the Arabian Nights, marked Reinhardt's introduction to American playgoers. This show had a long run in Chicago in 1912.

The time off was for the lunch of Josefina Betancourt, the young mother's 6 weeks' old child. The crying baby was brought to the studio shortly before noon by the child's father, who is unemployed.

Mrs. Morrow Sees Education as Lasting Joy

BY RUTH DE YOUNG.

With the spiritual and mental reserve provided by a college education, a woman has something that lasts beyond forty and bank failure cannot take away, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, widow of the United States senator, declared yesterday in a stirring defense of higher education for women. Her address was heard over the radio by 800 college alumnæ gathered for tea in the ballroom of the Woman's Athletic club.

Speaking from Radio City in New York over a coast to coast radio hookup, Mrs. Morrow's address was the highlight of a nationwide mass meeting of more than 100,000 alumnæ of seven eastern women's colleges—Barnard, Bryn Mawr, Mt. Holyoke, Radcliffe, Smith, Vassar, and Wellesley.

Mrs. Morrow attacked the opponents of higher education for women who think that a diploma must be a "Baedeker of how to produce hot rolls and roast beef." The aim of higher education for women is not specialization," said Mrs. Morrow. "It is to awaken those sensibilities and powers that will produce a richer life and make a human being better able to serve home and society. The colleges have no criticism, only admiration, for schools of domestic science but they do feel that the pressure of material things is so great and so insistent that woman's greatest need is the preparation of the mind and heart.

"In a changing world the colleges have always offered something imperishable. Ever linking their curricula with more gracious living through the study of music, drama, art, the women's colleges have proved and are proving that strawberries in March and orchids in the evening are not necessary to happiness. They show us that the power for enjoyment must be within ourselves."

Due to the exceptionally large number of guests three tables were spread for tea in the Athletic club lounge adjoining the ballroom. These tables used for their decoration the silver and linens from the homes of Mrs. Chauncy Borland and Miss Alice Jaques. Mrs. George Blossom Jr. arranged the large urns of chrysanthemums which came from the greenhouses and gardens of Mrs. Donald R. McLennan, Mrs. Charles H. Schweppe, Drs. DeForest Hulburd, and Miss Ellen Holt, all Smith alumnæ.

A number of the most recent graduates of the seven colleges served as ushers. Miss Helen Bell, Mrs. Thomas L. Kelly, Miss Emily Goehst, Miss Helen Dawes, Miss Jean Rumsey, and Miss Ruth Griffenhagen were some of the ushers.

Devise Correct Undergarment for Black Gown

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Pernickity black clothes owners have always had difficulty in keeping the pink or pale flesh colored straps of their underlayers from gleaming through or outside their sable hued dresses. Now they can complain about something else, for the foundation makers have sent slim black satin beauties for just such problem frocks. They are a nice relief for the all black evening clothes, too. Big or little, slim or well fed, ladies are well provided for—you can get expertly boned affairs with long, long lines to keep the thigh bulges under control, or the supple things for youthful silhouettes.

Or you can find the lastex back sections made with satin fronts and sides, simple numbers with fine net brassiere tops that are ideal models for daytime as well as evening wear. The larger models—that is, the skilfully designed foundations for the larger figure—have lace brassieres adroitly made to uplift. Most of the garters are flat, the trick kind that can be worn under the slinkiest of evening gowns without even a shadow of a bump where it connects with the stocking. Everything that you have been finding in the usual pink numbers now is provided in practical, wearable black.

And in the same department is a grand collection of white models styled in the same manner as the flesh and black for fastidious dressers who want white under white and so on. They are finds for all these pastel and all white evening gowns. The straps are white, the lace or net brassiere are white to match the slick white satin and satin lastex that is used for the rest of these super-slimming new foundation garments. They're all well worth the moderate price marks attached.

Cossack Hairdress, Styled to New Hats, Shown at Convention

The Cossack hairdress, inspired by the Russian trend in millinery, was introduced last night to the several hundred Illinois beauty shop onwers attending the annual convention of the Illinois Cosmeticians and Beauty Culturists' association at the Hotel Sherman. The coiffure, created by a Chicago stylist and modeled by Doris Lee Leeds, is well adapted to the new hats, since the hair is brought severely back from the forehead and up from the neckline with ringlet curls on the top of the head.

LAVENA

THE TWO-MINUTE OATMEAL FACIAL

The Forgotten Honeymoon

BY ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

Rhoda Cornboise becomes engaged to Maj. Ralph Stornack, nearly twice her age, due to the management of her ambitious mother. Rhoda is in love with Colin Briarley, who is serving a life sentence for the murder of a Canadian solicitor in a London night club.

INSTALMENT II.

IN PRISON FOR LIFE.

Time passed. Colin Briarley, in his prison cell, supposed it must be about midnight. He would have to try and conquer this sleeplessness. He must sleep! He would try all the sleep tricks. He would think of sleep—of splashing water.

Splashing water! Soda water splashing from a syphon into a glass and beside him that queer, shrivelled little man—such an unusual man to meet in a rather garish night club in London. He was a solicitor from Canada—who was being shown the sights of London. Colin himself was doing the same thing for a young Australian, who had drifted off with a dancing partner. And so these two men—himself a rising young engineer, and the other, an elderly solicitor, had been drawn together by their mutual dislike of night clubs.

"So you know Gallowden!" the solicitor was saying. "What a coincidence! I wonder whether you happen to know a family by the name of Cornboise, living at Cornboise Hall, about three miles out? . . . There now! On these occasions one remarks that the world is a very small place. . . . Yes, I've heard Mr. Cornboise is a very learned man, but without betraying professional confidence. I've come to Britain to see Miss Cornboise."

Perhaps the solicitor had had just a little too much whisky, for when Briarley had admitted that he indeed knew Miss Cornboise—very well indeed—the nice, incautious little solicitor had added:

"Well, now, young man—I canot say a word—but, strictly between ourselves, it may be that in a few days you will find me cast for the rôle of fairy godfather. You understand? No? Then perhaps I can give you a hint——"

And then the inexplicable had happened. Sudden darkness, as if the lights had fused—a gurgling cough from the solicitor—then before hubbub had really broken out, the light were up again.

The prosecution could find no reasonable motive. But the law does not require that a motive be proved, merely the facts. It was the position in which they were sitting that seemed to prove the facts against Colin Briarley. By the time Colin had studied photographs and measured diagrams it looked a sheer impossibility that anybody else could have murdered the little solicitor. Yet, because, in the end, there might have been a small percentage of doubt in the minds of authority, the sentence had been commuted to imprisonment for life.

The chief witness—almost the only witness apart from doctors and fingerprint experts and the like—had been a Maj. Ralph Stornack. He was the little solicitor's host—had brought him to the night club to show him the sights of London, and had left him to have a drink with a congenial stranger—Briarley himself—with whom he seemed to have made friends.

There was nothing wrong with Stornack's evidence, as far as Briarley could see. The fellow had seemed to give it reluctantly—admitted that he could not possibly suggest any reason why Briarley should want to murder the victim.

Briarley had felt no animosity against Stornack. Like the doctors and the people who had made the diagrams, he had merely testified to what he no doubt believed to be true. He had, he said, seen them sitting very close together just before the lights went out—which was perfectly true. And so on.

Yet in the loneliness of his cell, when Briarley lived again and again through the ordeal of his trial, the face of Ralph Stornack always seemed to dominate. It was as if he were the fountain head—the mainspring in the trap of destiny that had snapped on Colin Briarley and broken his life. But always, next morning, when he was taken into the open air, Briarley would admit that this was morbid—that Stornack could not possibly have been anything but a mere accidental link in the chain, as innocent of malicious intent as the waiters and the police and the innumerable officials.

It was the end of the working day and the sun of early summer filled his cell. The door clanged and a moment later came the nagging voice of Warder Caermaen.

"Now, then, Eighty-Seven! If I've told you once, I've told you a dozen times not to put your boots on the window sill."

There were no boots on the window sill, but Colin Briarley answered with quiet respectfulness:

"I'm very sorry, sir. I'm afraid I forgot again."

The warder thrust an envelope into the convict's hand. Then, with a wink, he relocked the cell and walked away.

Warder Caermaen was hardly a typical prison officer, though there is a sprinkling of men in his class in the prison service. A short while ago he had been an officer in the flying corps. He had been slightly injured in a motor accident, so they would not let him fly again. His record was promising and unblemished, and his general had arranged that he should receive early preferment to a post as deputy governor in the prison service. And in the meantime, if he cared to put in a couple of years in the ranks of the service, he would substantially add to his qualifications.

As Jack Caermaen looked at it, the same bit of blind luck that had planted a murder on poor old Colin, had put Colin under his charge in Mardlehurst prison. He had intended from the first to make the utmost use of that fact. Since boyhood Colin had been his best pal, and if regulations had to be broken—well, Caermaen hoped that he might be able to redress the balance later on.

In his cell Colin Briarley was reading a letter.

"Colin darling. It would be kinder not to tell you this. But it would seem like sheer treachery to let you hear it—as one day you must hear it—from some one else. I am going to marry. I love you. I shall love you all my life. If I could marry you in prison and live with you for the rest of our lives in that prison, I would do so.

"If I were free to please myself I would, of course, never marry anybody else. I would serve my life sentence with you in spirit, longing for you. But I am not a free agent. My mother has pointed out that I have my duty to her and my father. And so I have agreed to marry Maj. Stornack in six weeks.

"I am marrying him against my will. Be quite clear on that. It might make it easier for both of us if I could persuade myself that I hate him, but—I don't hate him. He is a kind and friendly man. Our friendship started when he came to see me about you. I told him I should always love you and he said he understood—that he would never seek to trespass on the shrine dedicated to you. Colin, try to bear this as I shall have to bear it. I don't know what to say to you. I can't even ask you to forgive me, because I don't feel that I'm actually doing wrong. Something in me died when they took you away and it doesn't seem to matter very much what happens to the rest of me. But I admit that I wish it needn't be marriage. All my love—always—Rhoda."

St. Luke's Style Show Will Be Given Today

mer Bowen, who has replaced Mrs. James R. Addington as chairman of the Lake Forest bookshop.

Miss Bell stated that there would be a winter theater season, probably not until after Christmas, however, and that the league probably will produce "Snow White" which has not been given since 1925. With Mrs. Cramer, Miss Bell is launching a scenery designing contest for league members.

Mrs. Cramer also announced the date of the first members' exhibit which will be given in the league's new quarters on Nov. 8. The opening of this exhibit of the work of Miss Veronese Beatty, Miss Betty Ashcraft and Mrs. John Satterthwaite will serve also as the housewarming of the new office at 644 North Michigan avenue.

Mrs. Arthur Meeker Will Lecture Today.

A number of those who attend the St. Luke revue this afternoon will have luncheon first at the Chicago Woman's club where Mrs. Arthur Meeker is to give her fascinating lecture "House Hunting in Africa" for the benefit of the club's good citizenship scholarship at the University of Chicago.

The winner of the Lincoln good will essay contest, sponsored each year by the club among the senior high school students, will be the beneficiary of the scholarship. Some of those who are planning to be present are Mrs. Harlan Ward Cooley, Mrs. Walker G. McLaury, Mrs. Edwin L. Lobdell, Mrs. Walter H. Buhlig, Mrs. Lorado Taft, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy, and Mrs. Henry Hoyt Hilton.

Very soon the guarantors of the Chigaco Grand Opera company will receive handsomely engraved, gold crested invitations bidding them come to a reception on the stage of the Civic Opera house following the première Saturday night, Nov. 10.

Mrs. Valentine Gives Dinner.

With her sister, Mrs. Vernon Booth of New York City, for a house guest, Mrs. Patrick A. Valentine had an excellent excuse for one of her delightful dinner parties last evening. Mrs. Valentine entertained a number of her friends whom she had not seen since her recent return from a summer at Southampton. Mrs. Booth will be here this week, primarily to see A Century of Progress.

The Lake Shore League of Women Voters will open its season with a luncheon at the Arts club at noon today. The league has invited all of the candidates for congress and for the 29th and 31st senatorial districts as its guests and speakers. Miss Elaine Blackman will preside at the luncheon, assisted by Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee, the league president.

Mrs. Albert Erskine, a former Chicagoan, who has not been here in five years, has arrived to visit her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert de Wolf Erskine, at their home at 1367 North State street. Mrs. Erskine knew Chicago in the '70s and '80s when she lived on Dearborn street, and then on Pine street, which is now Michigan avenue. She has come west from visiting her daughter, Mrs. J. C. Evans, in Buffalo.

John E. Hughes on Bear Hunt.

It just isn't possible for John E. Hughes to "stay put" for more than six months. Returned last spring from an extensive trip around the world with hunting trips in India for a highlight, he is now on a moose and bear hunting expedition in the Hudson bay country of Canada. He will be at home Saturday in time for the hunter trials of the Mill Creek hunt next Sunday at Millburn.

Friends of the Andrew R. Sherriffs will be glad to hear that Mr. Sherriff is recuperating from his recent illness which has confined him at the Passavant hospital. It is expected that he will be home at his apartment at 1320 North State street at the end of this week.

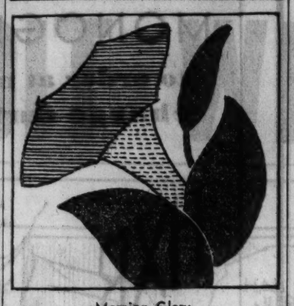
Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson will arrive at home in Lake Forest today from Europe. She was abroad on a brief trip to leave her daughter, Miss Joan Ryerson, with a family in Paris for the winter.

Miss Helen Johnson, recently returned from a summer in Europe, has left to visit friends in Arkansas for ten days. Upon her return she will be with her family, the William B. Johnsons, in Evanston until after Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. John S. Bell of Highland Park announce the marriage of their daughter, Helen Travis, to Wallace Manning Wilson on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Huse Dunham have issued invitations for the wedding of their daughter, Margaret, to Robert Cobb Stockton, which will take place at 4:30 o'clock the afternoon of Nov. 10 at the First Methodist church in Evanston. A small reception for relatives and friends will follow at the Evanston Country club.

Bright Colors of Morning Glory Lovely in Quilt



Morning Glory.

Patterns of this quilt design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, One South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

The variety of color found in the morning glory may be successfully transferred to an applique quilt block at small cost. Scraps of plain colors may be beautifully combined with suitable figured prints and no two blocks may be necessarily the same. The arrangement of this particular coverlet is unique in that a portion of the applique flowers is reversed to greet the other blocks in a friendly nodding fashion.

Eighteen Year Old Girl Has Right to Beau

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Eighteen, and her parents will not let her have a date. She has the way with boys that inspires invitations out, but the girl has to turn them down because mama and papa insist. No amount of coaxing, pleading, begging helps. On a couple of occasions, through intervention of girl friends, she managed to sneak out, but had to be home so early that it wasn't much fun. Besides, Rosetta does not like the clandestine meetings, and knows that it puts her in an unfavorable light with the boys. They just act differently. The last one got fresh, so Rosetta resolved that that would be the last time she'd accept an invitation under such circumstances.

The above furnishes a clear picture of what happens when a young woman is denied the rights of her home. Yes, they are her rights. Parents have no right to youngsters who, at 18, cannot be treated as grown up. And an 18 year old girl is a young woman. She is of an age when, for her best future interests, she should be permitted dates and company of boys. This should be granted her with full parental approval and whatever coöperation lies in their power, so that these young friends of hers may become friends of the family, too. They should be permitted the run of the home. If this is denied them, it in no wise insures against their following the urge of youth to seek companions of the opposite sex.

Death of Pastor's Wife Postpones Church Play

Due to the death of Mrs. E. W. Symonds, wife of the Rev. E. W. Symonds, pastor emeritus of the Millard Avenue Presbyterian church, the woman's society of the church has indefinitly postponed the play, "Her Honor the Mayor," which was to have been presented this evening and Thursday evening. Mrs. Symonds was a past president of the society.

Cooking Editor Spikes Milk Superstitions

The Public Harbors Many Misconceptions.

"Say It with Honey," a booklet of 27 recipes using honey, is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 3 cents. By mail, 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, Chicago Tribune.

BY MARY MEADE.

Should milk and fish be eaten at the same meal?

Is it dangerous to serve milk and an acid fruit together?

Should milk be sipped slowly?

These were among questions presented recently to a group of high school students. Surprising to relate, an amazingly large number of these young adults answered affirmatively to many of the questions, admitting their belief in diet fallacies, all of which have been scientifically disproved long ago.

Our usual answer is, when pinned down for a reason, "I've always been told so," or "It's a generally accepted fact." Which is very foolish, don't you think? Tomatoes, you know, used to be considered poisonous, and beans were supposed to bring on fevers and other dire ills. But who would decline tomatoes and beans on the grounds of health these days? It's just not smart any more to be superstitious about foods. Let's have a few solid facts, therefore, to clear up the business.

Scientific observation and common practice have proved that all this fish-milk ado has no basis in fact. The probable explanation for the taboo is this: In the days when refrigeration was practically nil sad results followed the eating of various foods—results which were certainly undeniable, but which were given fallacious interpretations. Fish is a food which needs special care, which spoils quickly if kept without refrigeration, and which will cause acute distress if eaten when slightly "turned." The addition of milk to a meal containing such tainted fish will neither improve nor add danger to the situation. In other words, it has absolutely no bearing on the matter.

Or light up the affair from another angle. Lobster and rich foods and ice cream spell a party, late hours, overeating. Because many self-indulgent souls have had tummy trouble after such orgies the blame has often foolishly been laid upon the combination of ice cream and fish.

I mentioned recently that I had served myself a glass of milk and a glass of orange juice for breakfast. My friend looked her horror. "Why, they curdle!" she exclaimed—as if that would be the height of tragedy. She had seen fruit juices and milk combined and curdled and she just didn't think it looked appetizing or safe.

Of course milk and acid juices curdle when they reach our equators. But what the shocked person did not know was that the matter of curdling is just part of the process of digestion. The acid which is normally present in the stomach is far stronger than any obtainable from fruit juices. In fact, in present day infant feeding acids often are added directly to the milk before it is given to the child.

Fallacy No. 3 accuses milk of causing constipation. Rather an amusing claim when one considers the makeup of milk. True, it contains no roughage, but it is a food which consists of 87 per cent water—hardly a good start for a constipating agent. The food elements in milk are quickly and easily digested. It is important, therefore, that it be taken along with a balanced, mixed diet furnishing a sufficient amount of bulk.

The milk sipping theory seems to be that if the liquid is sipped slowly it will form easily digested curds in the stomach. Fortunately for the busy luncher this has been proved absurd. Studies show that milk drunk naturally (not bolted, of course) is digested with ease and speed.

WOMAN'S DRESS.

Today's attractive dress will be lovely made of black canton crêpe. It is cut on simple lines, with the skirt forming a deep point at both the back and front, suggesting more length. Curved seaming minimizes any bulk that is apt to creep in around the hips, and the scarf of the becoming neckline detracts from bodice breadth. Canton crêpe, wool crêpe, metal threaded crêpe, and velvet are among the lovely materials from which to choose.

The pattern, No. 3442, comes in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measure.

Fashions Make This Big Year for Feminine Individuality

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If women ever had a year in which to be at their best, it is this. The clothes are so utterly devastating. The coiffures delightful with styles varied enough so that each and every one may be her own charming individual self. Complexion and eyelid tints are growing more alluring every minute. Shoes, bags, all the accessories are quite ravishing. Hats are just nutty enough to supply the male with a subtly flattering feeling of superiority.

Yet if a girl can't put it over this year, heaven help her. The arts and wiles of our modern beauty conjurers, dressmakers, cosmeticians, hairdressers, etc., seem not to have missed a point.

I think it a perfect year to court the conjurers' benefits, a year to discard the old self and substitute a new. I don't mean to clean out the wardrobe for the old clothes man's benefit. Well, I know that one has to fondle the budget allowance jealously. But that isn't what I mean. It's a state of mind I'm talking about, seeing a future ahead and a new one. Seeing oneself as a new, shiny 1935 model instead of a disheartened '33, '34 weather beaten machine.

A new coat of paint may be this old machine's first need. By which I don't mean rouge and lipstick, but a general overhauling of the complexion, an honest attempt and an industrious one to rejuvenate the tone, the tissue, and the muscles underlying the skin. Get a cream and massage the face as well as clean it. Rinse often and well with cold water. Get the circulation moving in lively fashion. Walk your skin into a healthier glow. Do something, have a program for rehabilitating lost hope and lost skin glory. The market is so full of a number of things that you can't miss on the thing you need most. But, I repeat what I have always claimed, that it isn't the cosmetic that matters so much as the will to use it, the will to improve.

Disposing of those few pounds that stand between you and the beauty prize cup is purely a matter of the will to do it. You know, as well as I, what to eat, what not to eat to trim down hips and waistline. You know it is no longer an agonizing period of fast and abstinence.

Most of all, however, today's message is to substitute energy for diffidence in matters of personal upkeep, to realize that miracles are being performed all around you by women who refuse to let themselves down for a day.

Teacher Should Help to Make Child Punctual

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Last spring a short series of articles addressed to teachers appeared in this column. The articles that appeared at that time were on:

Children who steal or lie or are deceitful in school.

Children who have sex problems.

Children who are timid in school.

Children who are disobedient, mischievous, or misbehave in other ways.

The mail response showed that other articles probably would be welcome to teachers.

Today we shall discuss how to deal wisely with the child who comes late to school.

A teacher's quite human response to this problem is: "Well, it's not my business to get the children here on time. That's their mother's job." And it is—or should be.

But there's always more than appears to anything on the surface. Most children don't like to be late, and when they are, it is often due to conditions over which they have no control. And, after all, it's results we're after—and obviously it's not good for the child and not good for the class for him to be frequently tardy.

Where lateness is frequent or actually chronic the teacher will need to get in touch with the home. She can talk over with the parents the value to the child of punctuality. She can, if the child is old enough, urge the parents to put the responsibility up to him. She can even suggest that the child be let alone at home [where he may love the attention his slowness gets] and trust rather to the effects of approval for promptness in school to stir him to the formation of punctual habits.

CONQUERING CONTRACT

By P. HAL SIMS

REBIDDING AFTER A FOUR NO TRUMP RESPONSE.

When you have bid one no trump and your partner bids four no trumps, you have an ideal situation for bidding any suit that is considered biddable in this situation. Having three and a half tricks in your hand, the question is not whether to slam, but whether to slam in a suit or no trumps. If you have a concealed suit of five or more cards, bid six in that suit, making its length definitely known as of five or more cards. You know your partner has at least the queen in it, so that this suit is now presumably solid, assuming that you lacked only one of the top three honors. Responder would now pass or bid six no trumps, according to his distribution. You cannot expect him to bid seven, as he has probably bid everything in his hand when he said four no trumps.

When opener has a four-card suit headed by two of the top three honors, he should, over four no trumps, bid five in that suit, leaving it to his partner to bid six in the suit or in no trumps. The same considerations apply as if the bidding had been one no trump, three no trumps, four in a suit. The opening bidder, however, has a little additional information about his partner's hand—he knows that there are in it three and a half primary tricks, some fillers and at least a queen in even the weakest suit holding. Consequently, if opener has a four-four-three-two distribution and responder raises his suit, he may be able to bid for a grand slam in the suit, expecting no need to finesse, whereas if the hand had to be played in no trumps, the contract should not go beyond six, because a finesse would appear inevitable. This decision for grand slam is naturally contingent on the absolute knowledge that there can be no ace against the partnership. To bid grand slam in no trumps, opener must be able to name every necessary high card in responder's hand and expect that no finesse will be needed. This can hardly be the case unless he himself has four primary tricks. If all the aces are assured, possession of concealed suit length obviates all considerations of intermediates or finesses in any of the other three suits. These should be rendered unnecessary when you have a solid five or six card suit to work with, and really the only factor now involved is whether you can be sure that there is no ace against you.

Grand Slam Situations.

I have written so fully about these short-suit developments as part of no trump slam tries that I feel no further examples are required of small slam bidding by way of short suits. However, grand slams are now more important than ever, and I will give you some examples to illustrate this process of visualization, or perhaps one should call it plain deduction, because it is more arithmetical in function than imaginative.

Sp. K x x	Di. A J x
Hts. K 10 x	Cl. A K J x

This is a nice hand on which to bid a no trump rather than a club. Your partner bids four no trumps. What do you now know about his hand?

First: In clubs he has the queen and one or two small ones, but no half tricks.

Second: In diamonds he has at most a trick, i. e., king-queen.

Third: Therefore he must have ace-queen and ace in the major suits to make up three and a half primary tricks. He may have ace-queen in both of them, but only the king of diamonds.

Thus you have twelve top tricks, and may have to operate against a missing queen. Count her as one dead. If your partner's four-card suit clears up, you can throw your loser in the suit which lacks the queen on his thirteener. Failing that, you can lead out all your clubs and get a line on which way to finesse against that queen, possibly squeeze out the queen or the fourth card of your partner's suit which failed to set up. Again, the opening lead will be from a worthless holding and may well kill the queen in the hand of the leader's partner. If all else fails, there will still be a finesse. Bid seven no trumps over the four no trump response. Change your distribution to

Sp. K J	Di. A J x
Hts. K 10 x	Cl. A K J x x

and seven clubs would be the right bid. You do not need the fourth queen now. In match-point scoring, your partner could still bid seven no trumps to go after the maximum score, but in rubber play he should pass. Change either of your major suit kings into a queen and your bid would be six instead of seven in each case. The four-primary-trick hands as given above have in reserve not only a half primary trick, but also suit length, and the decision for grand slam must be taken by the opening bidder without further reference to his partner, who would necessarily pass any bid of six.

Diet for Gaining Weight.

P. D.: It's unwise to confine your diet entirely to fat making foods when you wish to gain weight. Fresh vegetables, salads, and fruits must be included in your menus. You need one fresh vegetable along with your potato and meat, and salad twice a day is recommended.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth," —bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache caused by constipation—you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets.

YOUR GROCER WILL HELP YOU KEEP HEALTHY AND HAPPY

Delicious Cereal Promotes Regular Habits

The right kinds of foods form the very basis of health. You need nourishment for strength and energy. And you need "bulk" to prevent common constipation.

Otherwise, this ailment may cause headaches, loss of appetite and energy. You can correct it, usually, by eating a delicious cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN adds generous "bulk" to your daily menu. Tests show this "bulk" is similar to that found in leafy vegetables.

Inside the body, the fiber of ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass. Gently, this clears out the intestinal wastes.

ALL-BRAN is also a good source of vitamin B and iron.

Isn't it safer—and pleasanter—to enjoy this food in place of taking patent medicines?

Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily will overcome most types of common constipation. Chronic cases, with each meal. If seriously ill, see your doctor. ALL-BRAN makes no claim to be a "cure-all."

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal with milk or cream, or cook into fluffy muffins and breads.

Remember, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is all bran with only necessary flavoring added. It contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. Get the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

I wish I had believed it years ago:

MIDOL

"Frankly, I didn't believe the ads about Midol, or even friends who used it. My own periodic pain had always been so severe, it didn't seem possible that anything could help. Until one day the nurse in a store where I had succumbed completely, gave me a Midol tablet. Ten minutes later I had resumed my shopping—and was forever cured of my scepticism!"

Grateful endorsement similar to this is frequent. Many women who now go through this trying time in comfort regret the years they ignored or doubted the definite relief to be had from Midol. It acts immediately, and is effective several hours so two tablets should see you through your worst day.

Don't be afraid of the speed with which Midol takes hold; it is not a narcotic. Midol is as harmless as the aspirin you take for an ordinary headache. All drug-stores have these tablets; just ask for Midol—today, so you'll be prepared.

FRENCH DEPUTIES FIGHT PREMIER'S 'NEW DEAL' PLAN

Cabinet Gets Full Text of Proposals Today.

[Copyright: 1934: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Oct. 22.—Premier Gaston Doumergue will lay before his cabinet tomorrow the completed texts of the constitutional reform measures he recently outlined to the country. In attempting what not even the boldest of his predecessors ever attempted, the premier is risking changing the whole character of his ministry from one of truce to one of combat.

His proposals already have aroused marked opposition. There is even now considerable doubt as to whether he will be able to get them adopted by the national assembly, in which both houses of parliament will take part.

Five Proposals Listed.

There are five proposals:

FIRST—To give to the premiership constitutional authority.

SECOND—To permit the premier in accord with the president of the republic, to dissolve the chamber, suppressing the senate's present power of veto.

THIRD—To reserve to the government the right to propose expenditures.

FOURTH—To give the government the right, if the budget is not voted in time, to continue the expiring budget in force.

FIFTH—To establish the constitutional status of civil servants who would be called upon to accept a disciplinary code in return for the privileges they enjoy.

Uses Britain as Model.

Dougergue's intention is to try to model the French governmental and parliamentary procedure on that of Great Britain. He would like also to have the same separation of the magistrature from politics.

There is no doubt in anybody's mind that the premier himself is honest in his belief that endowment of the premiership with authority and the right to dissolve parliament would strengthen the republic. But Leon Blum, Socialist leader, sums up the essential difference between the régime which has existed since 1875 and that which Doumergue proposes in the phrase: "Henceforth it will not be a government which is responsible before the chamber; it will be a chamber which will be responsible before the government."

There will be strong, perhaps violent, protests by the deputies against being deprived of their right to change governments and against giving governments the right to change chambers. In the senate especially the opposition has increased during the past few weeks. The "elder statesmen" consider themselves custodians of the constitution of 1875 and the democratic régime.

Meet in Court After 32 Years

ALBERT ADAM AND MRS. MARTHA ADAM.

IRVING WEITZMAN IS ARRAIGNED AS DAICHES' SLAYER

Irving Weitzman, head of the Dotty Lee bakeries on the south side, was arraigned yesterday in the Felony court on a charge of murder for the death last March 3 of Eli Daiches, executive of the Thomas M. Bowers advertising agency. Judge Matthew D. Hartigan set Nov. 9 for the next hearing at the request of Assistant State's Attorney Richard Regan.

Weitzman, who is a brother of Louis A. Weitzman of New York, chairman of the board of the advertising company, is accused in the confessions of two men of plotting the murder of Daiches. Weitzman's attorneys charge that he had been beaten by investigators in an effort to gain a confession. This was denied by Mr. Regan.

During the day three witnesses, including the two men who have made confessions, Arthur Emblem and Walter Murphy, were reported to have testified before the grand jury. The third witness was Policeman Edward Tyrrell of the homicide squad.

Gary Councilman's Wife Found Dead; Gas Blamed

Mrs. Lily Braun, 43 years old, wife of Walter Braun, a member of the Gary city council, died in the Methodist hospital there yesterday of gas asphyxiation. Neighbors broke into her home at 1233 Roosevelt place, Gary, and found her overcome by gas from opened kitchen stove burners. There was an empty poison bottle nearby. Braun, a street car operator, said his wife had been in ill health for some time.

4 Minnesota Hunters Killed Over Week-end

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Four hunters were accidentally killed in Minnesota over the week-end, which marked the beginning of pheasant shooting in the state. Two of the deaths were caused by accidental discharge of guns in the hands of companions, one occurred as a hunter crawled through a fence, and another when a supposedly unloaded gun was discharged.

Case Is Continued

Albert Adam, 67 years old, 2352 Cleveland avenue, a Spanish-American war veteran, yesterday faced his first wife, Mrs. Martha Fitzpatrick Adam, whom he last saw when she went on the stage 32 years ago. In the Domestic Relations court before Municipal Judge Jay A. Schiller she charged him with nonsupport.

"I didn't know where he was until recently," the former wife explained, when asked why she had not gone to court sooner. She now lives in Lisle. "Through the pension authorities in Washington we finally found out where he was living."

"I tried to find her in 1932 when I filed suit for divorce," Adam contended. "I inquired among her friends. Finally the divorce was granted after publication."

Adam then married Miss Barbara Hurt.

Judge Schiller, faced with the problem of deciding whether a wife already divorced could bring suit for nonsupport, advised Mrs. Adam to attempt to have the original divorce suit reopened before Judge Denis E. Normoyle of the Circiuit court. Judge Schiller also advised her to apply to the Legal Aid society for help when she represented that she was penniless. He continued the hearing until Nov. 10.

Charge Against Indian Clergyman Is Dismissed

Municipal Judge Gibson E. Gorman dismissed yesterday a disorderly conduct charge against the Rev. Cornelius Aaron, a full blooded Mohican Indian of Oneida, Wis. The Rev. Mr. Aaron came to Chicago to preach. He was arrested on Saturday at State and Madison streets by Policemen William Finn and William Smith who commented on his "foreign" appearance. The Rev. Mr. Aaron confessed to them that he was a Mohican. They advised him to return to the country he came from and locked him up. A minister friend produced a $25 cash bond and procured his release. The Mohican preached four sermons on Sunday. The only witnesses against him yesterday were Americans Finn and Smith.

SEEKS $25,000 OVER DEATH OF F. H. WOLEVER

Charging that the Curtiss Candy company, the Maryland Casualty company, and seven persons conspired against her, Mrs. Mary Wolever filed suit for $25,000 against them yesterday in the Circuit court.

The complainant is the widow of Franklin H. Wolever, a consulting engineer for the candy company, who died on March 20 on the company's loading platform at 337 East Illinois street. A death certificate was issued showing heart disease as the cause of death and Mr. Wolever was buried. Later the body was exhumed and marks of injuries were found on it. A coroner's jury then determined that Wolever had been killed in an accident.

Mrs. Wolever names as co-defendants in her suit Alber Lichardt, president of the Lakeview Cartage company, whose truck she alleges crushed Wolever against the building; John Torbick, driver of the truck; Dr. G. N. Green, insurance company physician; and Marie Gill, nurse for the candy company. She also names three officials of the candy company, Karl Kiefer, vice president, H. J. Krieger, general superintendent, and Charles Hillman, supervisor.

She accuses the defendants of conspiracy to misrepresent the true cause of death in order to avoid payment to her of $3,200 under the workmen's compensation act, which she has since received.

asks Gloria Stuart

See GLORIA STUART in "GIFT OF GAB" A Universal Picture

Dear Miss Stuart:

It's hardly our place to answer that question. But we do believe that Old Golds are completely non-irritating even to the most sensitive throat.

Old Gold, you see, contains no harsh, hot-burning artificial flavoring. Its appealing taste comes solely from the skillful blending of pure Nature-flavored tobaccos . . . soothing and gentle to the throat.

That is why so many smokers DO consider Old Gold "the throat-ease cigarette" . . . America's smoothest smoke.

DETROIT WINS, 28-0; TIES BEARS FOR LEAD

TWO ST. LOUIS HOCKY CLUBS RESUME STRIFE

Both Determined to Play; Lease Rinks.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Resumption of the hocky war between the National league and the American association, a minor circuit, appeared certain today with announcement that both leagues would have teams in St. Louis this winter.

William F. Grant, president of the American association, said today that his league would operate here, with full territorial rights.

Arrangements have been completed for the removal of the Ottawa club of the National league to St. Louis, and the management has leased the Arena, big sports amphitheater used last year by the American association.

Leases Winter Garden.

Last year's association team played to numerous crowds of 10,000 persons or more and was a financial success. Frank G. Wainwright, owner of the association franchise, has leased the winter garden, an arena with 3,500 seating capacity, for use this year.

Indications were that legal maneuvers would precede the start of the hocky season. The first St. Louis game in the National league is scheduled for Nov. 8.

May Try For Injunction.

Harry A. Frank, attorney for Grant, said he was considering an injunction against operators of the Eagles, the new National league club, to restrain it from playing here. The action would be based, Frank said, on an agreement between Frank W. Calder, of the National league, and Grant, guaranteeing the association the St. Louis territory.

This agreement was signed two years ago at the end of a previous war between the circuits. The National league contends the agreement had but two years to run.

HAWKS SIGN KENNEY

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Fast young hocky players who melted the ice with their speed deep in Canadian forests currently are the main topic of conversation in Blackhawk circles, pending preparation of bulletins on the negotiations with established players still on the holdout list.

The latest of these fast young hocky players to be summoned to the Hawk training camp at Champaign is Ernie Kenney, who right now is rated just the youth to take the place of the popular Taffy Abel, one of the holdouts.

He's Heavy and Fast.

This fast young hocky player, who probably will scare Taffy into rushing his signed contract right in by the first dog team, was on the Edmonton Eskimos last year. Statistics on Ernie preceded his arrival at Champaign, which is scheduled for next Thursday. It is said he is 21 years old, weighs 205 pounds, is a very, very fast skater, and a very, very hard body checker. If the records are to be believed, he scored ten goals and thirteen assists in the Western Canada league last season, leading the defense men of that circuit in the scoring department.

Tom Coulter, brother of Art, who suffered a fractured small bone in one of his ankles in the intra-club game at Champaign Saturday night, expects to be discharged from a Chicago hospital this morning, but will be wearing a cast when he comes out. He will rejoin the squad at the training camp but it is thought he will not be able to put on skates for about three weeks.

Loughlin Likes Locking.

Clem Loughlin, new manager of the world champs, while awaiting the arrival of Kenney and the return of Coulter, yesterday waxed enthusiastic about the talents of another rookie, Norman Locking, obtained from the Cleveland team of the International league. Mr. Loughlin said that Locking possessed the hardest shot of any youngster he ever had seen arriving at a major league camp. It is said that Locking, who was the leading scorer in the International league last season, virtually is assured of a place on a line with Tommy Cook and Billy Kendall.

Lorne Chabot, holdout Hawk goalie, made it known at his home in Toronto yesterday that he had been notified he would be fined $50 for each day he remains away from the training camp, fines starting last Thursday.

Chabot expressed little concern about the notice, saying he would sign with the Hawks when the club meets his terms, and that he would remain in Toronto indefinitly until his terms are met.

NORTHWESTERN POLISHES UP ITS PASSING ATTACK

Freshmen Use Ohio State Plays Against Varsity.

Coach Dick Hanley eased the pressure on Northwestern's football practice yesterday and for the first time since the return from California the Wildcat regulars were excused from scrimmage. The workouts this week will be confined largely to polishing up the rough edges in preparation for the Ohio State game at Dyche stadium Saturday.

The heavy program of the last week which culminated in the freshmen game Saturday has served to put the Wildcats on edge for the Buckeye invasion. The backs are running harder and are getting improved blocking from the linemen.

In yesterday's workout the first string eleven held a long dummy scrimmage with the freshmen. The varsity was on defense while the frosh ran through Ohio plays. This drill was followed by a forward pass scrimmage. It was the first time that the varsity had devoted any attention to the aerial game since their return from the west.

Buckeyes Are Scouted.

Freshmen Coach Maurie Kent, who scouted the Ohio State-Colgate game Saturday, brought back word of the power possessed by the hard driving Buckeye backs. He reported that Heekin, Smith, and Wetzel are all dangerous ball carriers.

There is reason to believe that the Wildcats plan to do some running on their own account, judging from all the emphasis which has been placed on blocking during the last week The Purple is hopeful of getting Swisher and Cruice loose against the Buckeyes.

BUCKEYES SHIFT LINEUP

Three of the Buckeyes' first string backfield men are injured so seriously that they may not take part in the Wildcat encounter. Heekin, right half back, and Fisch and Pincura, quarter backs, are expected to be out of uniform for the remainder of the week.

Backfield Shuffled.

According to Coach Francis Schmidt, Jack Smith, left half back, who scored Ohio State's one touchdown against Colgate Saturday, will be able to resume his regular post. In the meantime, Antenucci will be shifted to left half back, Bettridge from his sub full back position to right half back, while Miller, a substitute half back, will be given a try at full back. Tippy Dye will have the starting position at quarter back.

Work today consisted of pointing out weak spots in play as noticed by Schmidt Saturday, as well as shaping up the Buckeye defense against Northwestern's plays. The Buckeyes are in for plenty of work on forward pass defense, according to Schmidt. The team leaves Thursday for Evanston. They will work out Friday on the Northwestern field.

MILER BATTLES ROSENBLOOM TO 10 ROUND DRAW

Crooner and Writer to Finance Golfer's Tour

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Bing Crosby, the singing movie star, and John Monk Saunders, the writer, think so much of Joe Ezar's prowess with golf clubs they announced today they will finance the youthful professional on a trip to Australia, where he will compete in the forthcoming $20,000 Melbourne tourney. Ezar, former Texas caddy, now is an assistant pro at the Lakeside Country club here.

HEY, WOLVERINES! WATCH THIS FELLOW!

Wolverines Try Out New Formations

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—With the Georgia Tech game out of the way and Willis Ward again a candidate for a regular job, Coach Harry Kipke shifted the Michigan back field today and returned Ward to left half. In making the change the Wolverine coach had in mind the need of Ward's speed on defense in the secondary as well as his ability as a ball carrier.

Kipke took his regulars aside for a long drill on new plays today, hoping to provide his team with as much ammunition in the few days remaining before the Illinois invasion as Coach Bob Zuppke is giving his team in two weeks.

Bill Renner's injured leg will be given an X-ray examination again on Wednesday. It is certain Renner will not play Saturday, probably not against Minnesota on the following Saturday and perhaps not this season.

NEW PLAYS FOR ILLINI.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—New plays designed for the Michigan game were taught to the Illinois football squad by Coach Bob Zuppke today as the Illini regulars began a strenuous week of preparation for the encounter at Ann Arbor. This is the second new assortment of plays which has been devised especially for the tussle with the Wolverines.

Big Arvo Antilla, who won honors against Michigan last year as a sophomore tackle, appeared on the first team in his old position and it is apparent that Andy Dahl will have to struggle to retain his post. Bart Cummings was worked at end, Palmer at center and Barnhart at guard in the place of Capt. Bennis, who is still laying off. Jack Craven, on the strength of his showing against the freshmen Saturday, was promoted to the second set of backs where he teamed with Henry, Portman and Fischer.

The possibilities of John Lippold as a center interest Zuppke, who used the sophomore on the second team. Today's workout included a scrimmage against the freshmen using Michigan formations.

HANK GREENBERG SIGNS TO PLAY IN PRO BASKETBALL

New York, Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Hank Greenberg, Detroit Tiger first baseman, who is so tall he can drop the ball down into the basket, has become the highest salaried professional basketball player, it was learned today.

Greenberg signed a contract with the Brooklyn Jewels in the American Basketball league. Hank will receive $20 per minute, his contract stipulating that he shall play at least 15 minutes a game.

He will be in the Jewels' lineup when they open the season at Brooklyn Sunday night against Trenton, N. J.

JOHNNY PHAGAN WINS DECISION OVER TONY BRUNO

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Johnny Phagan, Chicago Negro, tonight punched out an eight round decision over Tony Bruno, Milwaukee Italian, in the headline bout of a boxing card here. Phagan weighed 159, Bruno 159½.

In the semi-windup, George Black, Milwaukee, 158, scored a technical knockout over Al Salbano of Pittsburgh, 158, in the second round. The bout was scheduled to go eight rounds.

Talking It Over

[Copyright: 1934: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THE favorite story of Bernie Bierman, Minnesota football coach, relates how Ted Cox scouted Schoolboy Rowe when the Tiger pitcher was one of the best high school half backs in the south. . . . He hadn't dreamed of a major league baseball career at the time. . . . Cox was interested in getting Rowe to enroll at Tulane, where Bierman was coaching, but Rowe declined because he was afraid he would have difficulty learning out of books and would not be eligible to play. . . . Pittsburgh's victory over Southern California was more one sided than the score indicated. . . . Moving pictures of the game showed that Pitt scored a touchdown which was disallowed by the officials. . . . Mike Nicksick's touchdown in the second quarter, ruled illegal because Referee Hackett said that Weisenbaugh had touched the ground with his knees before throwing a lateral pass, actually was deserved. . . . Weisenbaugh did not touch the ground until after he had thrown the ball. . . . Jay Berwanger's full name is John Jacob Berwanger. . . . His teammates called him "The Dutchman." . . . After considering engineering and medicine Jay has settled on law as a career. . . . His hardest course this year is legal accounting. . . .

At a testimonial dinner the other evening the Rev. John O'Hara, C. S. C., president of the University of Notre Dame, said: "All the Deans are not with St. Louis." . . . He then introduced the deans of the five colleges of the university. . . . He didn't use the word dizzy, showing admirable restraint. . . . Willie O'Neal of St. Benedict's (Kansas) college had two teeth driven into the roof of his mouth in the first quarter of the game with Hastings. . . . He was rushed to a dentist and while being examined a radio announced that Hastings had tied the score. . . . Willie demanded that the teeth be pulled without anesthetic, which was done. . . . He then returned to the field and scored two touchdowns, winning the game with his face twice normal size. . . . The Chicago chapter of the Purdue Alumni association wired Noble Kizer after his team had lost to Rice and Notre Dame that it still was 100 per cent behind him and his team. . . .

SCHOOLBOY ROWE.

Tommy Ryan, who retired undefeated as welterweight and middleweight champion, was christened Joseph Jeunesse. . . . West Point will send out cadets to ride the Army mule and smoke the peace pipe with Illiniwek, the traditional Illinois Indian, who marches ahead of the band, for the game at Illinois, Nov. 3. . . . Walter Eckersall, nephew of THE TRIBUNE'S late football expert, is a freshman at the University of Chicago, but he isn't out for the yearling eleven. . . . He prefers other sports. . . . Bellaire, O., a town of 12,000 in the southeastern part of the state, is well representated in college football. . . . Among this year's headliners are Bud Bonar, Notre Dame quarter back; Miller Munjas, Pittsburgh quarter back; John Kadlic, Princeton quarter back; and Charles Goodwin, West Virginia end. . . . Other prominent college players who came out of Belleaire include Johnny Niemec, John Polisi, James Harris and Sheeketski of Notre Dame, Obie Miles of Princeton and Hart Morris of Pittsburgh. . . . Touchdown, a football serial presented on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings on WCFL, features Fred Collins, full back at Notre Dame from 1926 to 1928. . . . W. W. Edgar, sports editor of the Detroit Free Press, is taking in the Fair. . . .

Ken Willard, former Northwestern diving star, is now varsity swimming coach at California Institute of Technology where he is an aeronautical engineer. . . . The White Sox will carry three coaches next season. . . . Jim Austin and Billy Webb, former Galveston manager, will be in the coaching boxes and Muddy Ruel will continue to tutor young pitchers. . . . One of the best 2 year olds developed in the fall season is Calumet Dick, owned by Warren Wright of Chicago. . . . He no doubt is a namesake of Dick McMahon, who for many years has been in charge of racing affairs at Calumet farm. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Chicago Maroons went through long drills on offense and defense before leaving for Columbus to take on Ohio State. . . . Onwentsia's polo team defeated the Memphis Riders, 7 to 6, in the consolation round of the Grenda, Miss., tournament. . . . Willie Hoppe beat Augie Kieckhefer twice in their 400 point three cushion match.

NOW MINNESOTA CAN START DRIVE FOR BIG 10 TITLE

Iowa First of 5 Straight Conference Foes.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Minnesota, only member of the Western conference which has not played a conference football game, is regarded as the outstanding favorite to win this year's championship. This must be some kind of a record, for quite likely this situation is entirely new in the annals of the Big Ten.

But make no mistake about the Gophers. They have proved without doubt that they are one of the finest teams in the country. The only question is whether Minnesota now can maintain the splendid coherence of attack and hard hitting defense for five consecutive Saturdays on which it meets Iowa, Michigan, Indiana, Chicago and Wisconsin.

How's This Record?

Minnesota's record to date is: Minnesota, 56; North Dakota State, 12; Minnesota, 20; Nebraska, 0; and Minnesota, 13; Pittsburgh, 7.

Nebraska has beaten Iowa, 14 to 13, and Oklahoma, 6 to 0. Pittsburgh has defeated Southern California, 20 to 6. These victories by Minnesota's defeated rivals increase the importance of Minnesota's record.

It would be foolish in this year of unusual games, phenomenal upsets, and reversal of form to predict five Big Ten victories for Minnesota, although on the record this is not wild speculation. Injury to key men, notwithstanding Minnesota's replacement strength or increased powers for opponents through development, might upset Minnesota almost any week-end.

Anything Can Happen.

Nevada, beaten by California, 33 to 0, defeated St. Mary's, 9 to 7, after the Gaels had licked California. Washington State, victor over Southern California, 19 to 0, was beaten by little Gonzaga, 13 to 6. And Iowa last Saturday lost to Iowa State, 31 to 6. These are outstanding arguments by which Minnesota's coach, Bernie Bierman, will attempt to keep his players at the top of their game for the conference schedule and avoid overconfidence.

Minnesota does have a great team. There is no apparent weakness in any department of defense or offense. In Larson Minnesota has a great end. Tenner, who scored the winning touchdown against Pittsburgh on a pass from Lund, is better than average. The tackles, despite Widseth's inexperience, are capable on defense and better than average on offense. Bill Bevan, guard, is one of the greatest defensive linemen in the conference.

Rennebohm O. K. at Center.

Oech, a sophomore guard, can hold up his position and there's Bruhn, a 1933 regular who shares that responsibility and also substitutes for Bevan. Despite Rennebohm's two inaccurate passes from center, he played exceptionally well against Pittsburgh. It was Rennebohm's great tackle of LaRue when the Pitt safety man caught Lund's punt, that caused the fumble that opened the first Minnesota scoring drive. Svendsen is a good substitute at this position.

No conference eleven has a better balanced back field, nor as many No. 1 replacements. Lund, a steady, dependable half back, runs and plunges with power. He passes and kicks. His average against Pitt was 40 yards on kicks and they were covered so well that Pitt averaged less than five yards return.

Kostka Smashes 'Em.

Beise, a good full back, alternates with Kostka, a great plunger. Kostka was the only Minnesota back who broke through Pitt's defense when tacklers had unobstructed opportunity to dive for his threshing legs. Clarkson, a new man at right half, is supported by Alfonse, a speedy runner, and by Proffitt, a veteran.

In Seidel, Coach Bierman has that greatest treasure, a dependable, intelligent field general who can follow orders and in whom the team has confidence. Equally important is Seidel's substitute, Babe LeVoir, who can be depended on to carry into action any of the coach's plans evolved on the sidelines and who is a sure defensive man.

CLARK SCORES THREE TIMES IN DODGERS' ROUT

Victory Is Sixth for Lions.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Earl [Dutch] Clark scored three touchdowns in seven minutes tonight as the powerful Detroit Lions defeated Brooklyn's Dodgers, 28 to 0, to win their sixth straight National league game without being scored on.

The victory raised Detroit into a tie for first place with the Chicago Bears who had forged ahead yesterday by beating the Cincinnati Reds. Each has six victories with no defeats.

First Half Scoreless.

Held scoreless in the first half, the Lions unleashed an attack in the third quarter which routed the easterners. Ernie Caddel, brilliant throughout the game, teamed with Clark to put the ball on the Brooklyn 4 yard line in seven plays after the kickoff, Clark then scoring easily, aided by great blocking.

On the second play after the next kickoff, Clark ran 72 yards to score, and a few minutes later scored again after Frank Christensen had intercepted a Dodger pass at midfield and ran 37 yards to the 3 yard marker. Clark drop kicked all three points after the touchdown.

Glenn Presnell Scores.

Glenn Presnell scored the final Lion touchdown in the opening minute of the final period on a 16 yard slant around end and place kicked the extra point.

Brooklyn made only two scoring threats, two attempts at field goals failing in the opening period after the visitors had gained possession of the ball in Detroit territory on fumbles.

The lineup:

PACKERS HERE NEXT

When the Bears and Green Bay Packers meet in their second game on the National league schedule at Wrigley field Sunday it will be the thirty-first renewal of their rivalry that began in 1921.

The feud is second only to that of the Bears and Cardinals in age, but involves more games. The 24 to 10 victory of the Bears at Green Bay in the opener for the north siders Sept. 23 was the thirteenth registered by the locals to match the record of the Packers. Four contests have been deadlocks and the Bears have registered a total of 234 points to 216 by the Wisconsin team.

Packers Show Improvement.

Since that early season defeat, however, the Packers have steadily improved, as was demonstrated by their showing against the Bears in an exhibition game at Milwaukee Oct. 17 which the Bears won 10 to 6.

While the Bears were beating Cincinnati last Sunday, 41 to 7, the Packers having previously beaten the Cincinnati lads 41 to 0, Green Bay was beating the Cardinals 15 to 0 to bring their standing in the western section of the circuit up to 4 won and 2 lost, which keeps them a championship possibility.

Halas Scouts Lions.

In order to remain such they are faced with the necessity of winning Sunday. The Bears likewise must keep up their drive, for, with Detroit setting a fast pace, one game lost by the Bears could ruin hopes for a third consecutive championship.

The postponement of the Detroit-Brooklyn game Sunday on account of rain offered Coach Halas of the Bears a chance to scout the Lions last night. He is expected back today in time to take charge of the first practice of the week.

MICHIGAN'S NEW BROWN JUG IS THERE TO STAY!

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Here's news for Oscar Munson. Michigan has a new brown jug—one that even Oscar, the Minnesota equipment man, can't haul away. And the jug is to stay here, win or lose.

The new little brown jug is the opposite of what its name implies. It is 5 feet 1 inch tall and has a capacity of 400 gallons. It is the present of J. P. Seiler of East Jordan, Mich., delivered here last Saturday.

When the jug is complete it will have the scores of all Michigan-Minnesota games on it. It will rest in the trophy room. The jug may be taken to the stadium biennially for games between the Wolverines and Gophers, but not unless the Ferry field staf is augmented by enough men to lift it and some one furnishes a truck.

SPORTSMAN PARK FEATURE IS WON BY JACK MURPHY

BY FRENCH LANE.

Old Jack Murphy, the selling plater who becomes a stake horse when the race track turns into a carpet of mud, shook his ancient legs fast and furiously in the Blue Island purse at Sportsman's Park yesterday, and after a brief brush in the stretch with a couple of rivals went on to win by a length and a half.

Most of the good Irish folks on the west side remembered the mud running ability of Jack Murphy and they had their two dollars riding on his nose. The Irish still were celebrating when the last race was over, for Jack Murphy's victory was so lightly regarded in other quarters that he paid off in the mutuels at $38.24 for a two dollar ticket.

Likes Muddy Track.

Jack Murphy, a son of Dunboyne-Lady Panchita, is 6 years old. He has won a number of events each season since his racing career started. Yet he has never been victorious except when the track was muddy or heavy.

In the Blue Island purse he was badly outrun in the early stages by the two stoutly backed choices, Just Buck and Guilder.

Going down the back stretch for the second time Jack Murphy began to move toward the leaders. Jocky H. Jones made him run on the inside, and when Just Buck and Guilder faltered slightly and swerved out at the head of the stretch, Jack Murphy drove on past them and was gradually pulling away in the final stages.

Jockies Shaken Up.

The thrill seekers had their biggest afternoon of the Sportsman's Park meeting. Spills occurred in quick succession during the early races and the ambulance driver was the busiest fellow on the track.

In the second race, which went to the favorite, Polvo's Pride, two horses —Roycrofter and Thomas H.—went down while wheeling around the lower bend into the home stretch. Jockies J. Leyland and R. Haber went down with them. Neither was severely injured, but Haber was badly shaken up. He was unable to ride again during the afternoon.

When the field headed into the turn leading to the stretch in the third race Miss Twinkling, stoutly backed in some quarters, was enjoying a comfortable lead. Instead of hugging the rail she went toward the outside fence and before Jocky George Pruchniki could get her under control she ran right through the fance. Pruchniki dived into the mud, but was not injured.

Patricia C. Pays $101.

Patricia C., paying $101.86 for a $2 ticket, went on to win the race, with Thoughtful second and Midson third. Just after the field had passed the line of finish Inspector, ridden by Jocky Dale Edwards, didn't like the way he was pulled up, so directly in front of the clubhouse he sprawled into the muddy surface of the track to give his rider a mud bath.

NOTRE DAME HAS LIGHT WORKOUT FOR WISCONSIN

Irish to Play in Last Home Game Saturday.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Notre Dame today began rehersals for its final home appearance Saturday. The Irish were well banged about in the game with Carnegie Tech, but no serious injuries resulted from the 13 to 0 victory. Today the squad indulged in a light workout.

Wisconsin's Badgers, who hope to pick up where they left off in the fourth quarter against Purdue Saturday, will provide the opposition here this week-end. Notre Dame's other middle western appearances will be at Cleveland Nov. 10, against Navy, and at Northwestern Nov. 17.

The schedule twist, which gave the Irish four home games in a row and then five on the road, may prove a boon to Coach Elmer Layden, as he is getting a chance to build his team without interruptions of travel.

SPEARS STARTS SHAKEUP.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Reorganization of the University of Wisconsin football team, following the 14 to 0 defeat at the hands of Purdue last Saturday, was started this afternoon by Coach Spears.

Although the regulars were excused after a light drill, it appeared that several would be at different positions when scrimmage is resumed tomorrow. Clair Strain, reserve full back, will be tried at left half because of his showing against the Boilermakers; Mario Pacetti is likely to be shifted back to guard from tackle, and either Ray Davis or Milt Kummer may oust Capt. Jack Bender from his guard post.

Davis, along with Bob Null and George Deanovich, ends, was injured in the Purdue game, but it is believed all will be in shape to play against Notre Dame this week. Paul Jensen, husky Madison sophomore, probably will get a chance at Pacetti's vacated tackle position.

MAROONS STUDY DEFENSE.

Two weeks' schooling on the theme, "The Notre Dame offense and how to stop it" began for the University of Chicago Maroons yesterday. Chicago's next two opponents, Missouri Saturday and Purdue the following week, use the Rockne style of attack, and Coach Clark Shaughnessy expects that his team will have mastered the defense technique thoroughly before the Boilermakers make their annual appearance at the Midway.

Nelson Norgren, head freshman coach, who scouted the Missouri-St. Louis game Saturday, which was won by St. Louis, 7 to 0, reports Missouri's team is scrappy but comparatively light and inexperienced. The record of the Tigers in recent years and so far this season is not impressive. However, Iowa State, which beat the University of Iowa, 31 to 6, Saturday, was able to beat Missouri by only two touchdowns earlier in the season.

Peterson May Be Out.

It was still a matter of doubt yesterday whether Bartlett Peterson, Maroon left end, will be ready to play against Missouri. Peterson's hip was bruised in the Indiana game. No other injuries were apparent during yesterday's light workout, although there were a few limpers.

Harry Swanson, secretary of the La Salle Street Coaches association, announced yesterday that the organization alumni will hold the annual luncheon meeting this Thursday at 12:15 o'clock at the Roosevelt room of the La Salle hotel. The association was reorganized last year to combine the old La Salle Street Coaching society with other groups called the Monday morning quarter backs, the Upper Avenue Second Guessers, and the Stock Yards Coaching Staf. Swanson announced that the association stands ready to claim credit for the Maroon victories so far.

Half the varsity squad was excused from practice yesterday after less than half an hour, and Shaughnessy worked with the reserves in defensive tactics.

HOLIDAY FOR MISSOURI.

Columbia, Mo., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Coach Frank Carideo turned loose his Missouri varsity for a holiday this afternoon after a brief lecture on the faults turned up in the Tigers' defeat by St. Louis university. He praised the linemen for their work against the much bigger Billikens.

The only injury of consequence was suffered by Herb Grenda, end, who will be out a few days with a charley horse.

PURDUE SQUAD ELATED.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Elated at the 14 to 0 triumph over Wisconsin and the play of Duane Purvis and Jim Carter at the half back positions, Purdue's squad and coaching staf realized today that it will take a finished performance to defeat Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh Saturday.

Purdue scouts have reported that the Tartans have a good defense and that Michigan State and Notre Dame did not make sustained drives for scores against the Pittsburgh team. The men who played against Wisconsin Saturday were excused from drill, while the coaches concentrated on bolstering the offensive drive of the reserves.

Coach Kizer, harried by injuries all season, was particularly pleased today to find that there were no injuries as a result of the Wisconsin game. Duane Purvis' ankle, rather than suffering from the exertion against the Badgers, appeared to stand up in good shape.

INDIANA RESERVES SCRIMMAGE.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Members of the Indiana football squad who did not get into the Chicago game Saturday played a game with the freshmen this afternoon as the Hoosier regulars started recuperating from their defeat at the hands of the Maroons.

Twelve veterans who bore the brunt of the battle Saturday were given a holiday. Coach Bo McMillin let it be known that he is looking for new material from the reserve ranks. Indiana's next game is its homecoming contest with Iowa on Nov. 3.

Forced to Quit by Brown U., Says Referee

New York, Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Dr. E. J. O'Brien, Boston surgeon, long a leading eastern football referee and member of the rules interpretation committee, broke a two months' silence today and announced that the true story of his retirement from officiating lay in opposition by Brown university.

Brown was beaten last Saturday by Yale, 37 to 0. On Oct. 21, 1933, Brown was beaten by Yale, 14 to 6. Dr. O'Brien made a decision in the 1933 game that cost Brown a victory.

Dr. O'Brien last winter announced that he would devote more time to his practice in Boston and he so notified Walter Okeson, football commissioner. Shortly after Ed Thorp, another prominent referee, died. Okeson asked O'Brien to carry out Thorp's assignments. This O'Brien agreed to do. The list of games included the Pitt-Southern California, Brown-Yale, and Yale-Harvard games.

Charges Secret Protest.

"It is significant to note that I was not permitted to work a Brown assignment," said Dr. O'Brien. "Brown would not publicly oppose me as all assignments are supposed to be given out in a neutral spirit by Okeson and his board. Brown university agreed to Thorp. When Brown learned that I was to take Thorp's place the trouble began. The excuse that I protested expense money was seized and I was summarily notified by Okeson that my 'resignation' was accepted.

"I feel that I have been humiliated by all this conniving," O'Brien said. "There are many good officials left but their number is dwindling. The coaches and graduate managers who will not believe that an official can make an honest mistake or who wish to alibi themselves, save their jobs, or maintain their gates can say 'We took care of O'Brien and if you don't look out we will get you, too!'"

Cites Other Cases.

Dr. O'Brien pointed out that feuds between officials and colleges are not new; that Dartmouth had Bill Lanford on its blacklist; that Dave Fultz had been blacklisted by Harvard because he called a holding penalty which called back the famed Eddie Casey who was off for a touchdown.

Okeson could not be reached at Lehigh today for a statement but his secretary explained that football officials are chosen by the commissioner himself.

"Nobody can influence him," the secretary said. "He assigns whatever men he pleases to the games. The graduate managers of 16 schools founded the board in 1928. The commissioner's salary then was $12,000. It since has been cut to $7,500."

List of Games.

The list of games with fees, which O'Brien was given by Okeson was Army-Washburn, $50; Princeton-Amherst, $40; Pitt-U. S. C., $75; Brown-Yale, $60; Harvard-Dartmouth, $75. Pitt-Notre Dame, $75; Columbia-Brown, $75; Dartmouth-Cornell, $75, and Yale-Harvard, $75. On July 10, Dr. O'Brien wrote accepting the schedule which contained two Brown games.

On Aug. 2 Okeson sent a new list of expense allowances which called for no hotel or taxis and the compulsory use of week-end excursion rates on trains to Pittsburgh. On Aug. 9, O'Brien wrote that he had switched his assignments at the hospitals, that he would be unable to catch early trains, and that he wished to bill exact expenses for his trouble.

Okeson Says Au Revoir.

On Aug. 13 O'Brien received the following letter:

"Dear Eddie—I have your letter stating you do not care to accept Ed Thorp's schedule unless you are allowed to travel when and how you please and be compensated for the actual expenses.' I can readily understand your position, but unfortunately I am not permitted to make an exception to our rules.

"I have come to the conclusion I had no right to ask you to do something which means such an expense and inconvenience to you. I am withdrawing my request that you officiate this fall and have canceled the appointments sent you."

In the Wake of the News

FOOTBALL CHATTER.

MANY spectators at the Chicago-Indiana game Saturday wondered why Berwanger was credited with the first Chicago touchdown. The Dubuque star carried the ball in the final two yard line plunge but fumbled and the ball was recovered in the end zone by Flinn. Berwanger, however, was over the line when the fumble occurred and it was automatically a touchdown. If the fumble had occurred on the field of play and then recovered by Flinn in the end zone, the touchdown would have gone to Flinn.

Of 48 players listed on the varsity football squad at the University of Chicago, one of whom has since withdrawn, 26 are from Chicago and suburbs and 3 from other points in Illinois. Home states of the others are California, 9; Iowa, 3; Texas, 2; Florida, 1; Indiana, 1; Ohio, 1; Minnesota, 1; Michigan, 1. Based on experience, there are 27 sophomores, 15 juniors, 6 seniors.

Thirty-one of Indiana university's 45 varsity players are from the home state. Others are from Illinois, 8; Mississippi, 2; Wisconsin, 1; Kentucky, 1; Ohio, 1; Massachusetts, 1. Based on experience, there are 24 sophomores, 13 juniors, 8 seniors.

Three brothers who hail from Long Beach, Cal., are with the now conference leading Maroons. They are Bartlett Peterson, end; Gordon Peterson, sub center, and Kendall Peterson, a rangy freshman end.

In keeping with the times, official programs, giving numbers of players and other statistical information, sell for 10 cents at Stagg field compared with two bits at most stadiums.

Two sons of Maroon "C" fathers are under the tutelage of Coach Clark Shaughnessy. Merrill Meigs, who prepped at Evanston Township High school, is a son of "Babe" Meigs of the noted 1905 team. Jack Scruby of Beverly Hills, Cal., a 200 pound sophomore guard, who may later be used at full back, is a son of Horace Scruby, noted in his undergraduate days as a punter. The younger Scruby also is a kicker.

A Wish.

I want my autumn dreary
With somber days of gray,
With moaning wind bewailing
Bright sunshine now betrayed.
For when the leaves flame crimson,
When all the sky is blue,
When golden lies the sunlight—
It tears my heart in two.
Again I see you walking
Along a country lane;
I hear again your careless words
Of parting—mine of pain.
O let the days be dreary
With mournful tap of leaves,
And long, slow drips of raindrops
Upon my lonely eaves. Diane.

Iowa State Bars Nebraska's Path to Big Six Title

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 22.—(AP)—The University of Nebraska football team today was sent back to intensive practice in the face of a startling realignment of the Big Six conference race.

A week ago the Huskers were told they had only to beat the Oklahoma Sooners to clinch the championship. But now, after beating Oklahoma, they face the new threat of the Iowa State Cyclones, who will come here next Saturday.

Ed Weir, former all-American tackle, who scouted the Ames game, today viewed movies of the Husker-Sooner game and then predicted Nebraska would lose to Iowa State unless it improves.

CYCLONES DEVELOP PLAYS.

Ames, Ia., Oct. 22—(AP)—With only minor injuries suffered in the Iowa game, the entire Iowa State squad today started work on plays for the Nebraska game.

Bill Allender, full back, suffered the worst injury and will be out of scrimmage for a few days with a torn side muscle. Capt. Theophilus and John Catron, tackle, suffered minor sprains while Tommy Neal, quarter back, was shaken up a bit.

Crane's Long Passes Beat Austin, 12-0

Two long forward passes yesterday enabled Crane Tech to defeat Austin, 12 to 0, at Mills stadium in a city league game. The triumph permitted the Crane eleven to maintain its hold on first place in the west section.

Capt. Peters of Crane caught a 30 yard pass from Kriz and ran another 30 yards for a touchdown in the first period. In the third quarter Kriz again passed 30 yards to Peters, who dashed an additional 15 to complete the scoring for the day.

RIVERSIDE WINS, 6 TO 0.

Riverside won its third straight game in the West Suburban conference, defeating Downers Grove, 6 to 0, in a contest postponed from Saturday.

After three minutes of the first period had elapsed, Stromsky caught a Downers Grove punt in midfield. He hesitated until the onrushing tacklers had nearly reached him and then tossed laterally to Stolfa, who raced through a clear field for the only touchdown of the game.

GLENBARD BEATS MAINE.

The winners stepped off to a first quarter lead when Bliss smashed over from the three yard line. Rapp counted for Maine in the next period on a crack over center. The try for the extra point was missed, however, and Glenbard held a 7 to 6 lead at the half.

Glenbard was checked throughout the third quarter, but came through with two touchdowns before Maine again scored in the final quarter.

Lane Tech, leader in the north section of the City league, has a rather odd record for the season. Playing in three games, two of which were won and one tied, Lane has scored only 13 points. The Tech defense, however, is responsible for the success of the team, yielding but six points. Schurz, in four games, has counted 38 points to opponents' seven.

Sullivan, tied for last place in the north section, finally entered the point column last Saturday. A safety accounted for the two points on its record. Sullivan's opponents, one of which was tied, the other two winning, have scored 38 points.

Yale Prepares for Invasion of Army Team

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 22.—(AP)—With a capacity crowd of 50,000 in prospect Head Coach Raymond [Ducky] Pond confined Yale's practice session to a blackboard talk and a brief running through of some plays that will be used against the Army here. The same team that started against Brown formed the varsity.

ARMY HAS WORK TO DO.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 22.—(AP)—"There's work to be done," Head Coach Gar Davidson said today as he put Army through a hard dummy scrimmage in preparation for the Yale game. The Cadet B squad attempted to show the varsity Yale's aerial and running attack, which accounted for a 37 to 0 victory over Brown last week.

MISKO KNOCKED OUT BY ZALE IN MIDWAY WINDUP

In the semi-windup Joey Kleko beat Louie Mascef in five rounds; Jack Gibbons won a five round decision from Mickey Misko; George Vander Heyden and Johnny Fitzpatrick fought a five round draw, and Jack Mooney beat Lester Schultz in four rounds, in other bouts.

DE PAUL FACES HARD GAME WITH WESTERN STATE

De Paul university's football squad was sent through its first and probably its last scrimmage of the week yesterday in preparation for the battle Saturday with Western State at Kalamazoo, Mich. This contest is expected to be one of the season's toughest for the Demons.

With Frank Lorge, guard, lost for the season with rib fractures, the coaches learned yesterday that their regular center, Marvin Casey, had been ordered to the hospital with a throat infection

LATHER OR BRUSHLESS?

How about facts versus chin-music

"To me all this talk about brushless shaves being best for everybody—or lather shaves being ditto—is just a lot of ballyhoo. Here are the facts:... If you have an oily skin you should use a lather shave—Mennen Lather Shave because it flushes out your over-active pores. Loosens imbedded grease deposits. Leaves your face healthier... If you have a dry skin I recommend a brushless shave. Mennen Brushless is a cream, not a grease; contains special ingredients good for a dry, thin, tender skin... If you have a normal skin then take your choice. It's a matter of convenience—do you like to use a brush, or don't you?... You can be sure that either Mennen Lather Shave or Mennen Brushless are regular whisker-wilters!"

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 22.—Interest in the listed bond market today centered mainly in the Home Owners' Loan corporation 3s due in 1952 in view of the fact that an additional block of $50,000,000 of the bonds was offered today by a nationwide banking group headed, priced "at the market."

"The HOLC 3s opened at 98, off 3-32ds from last week, and closed at 97 30-32ds, the low for the day, off 5-32ds point. The turnover in this issue aggregated $2,706,000, compared with total dealings in bonds of the government group of $4,599,700. Other issues of the group closed generally easier, off 5-32ds to up 7-32ds. Farm mortgage 3¼s advanced 7-32ds, and treasury 3¾s were slightly firmer.

Corporation Issues Irregular.

Domestic corporation bonds generally showed minor price changes in quiet dealings. Railroad and industrial bonds averaged slightly higher and utility issues were down slightly.

Armour & Co. 5½s edged up ⅛ of a point to a new 1934 high at 100, and improvement was shown by issues of Interlake Iron, International Paper, Western Union, and a number of others. Bonds of McCrory Stores and General Steel Casting lost a point or so each. Loans of standard oils of New Jersey and California were down slightly.

Among the better rail lines were some of Santa Fe, Union Pacific, Chicago & Western Indiana, Illinois Central, K. C. Southern, Pennsylvania, Northern Pacific, and Missouri Pacific. New Orleans Terminal 4s got up 5⅛ points on few transfers.

Foreign Bonds Variable.

Foreign loans showed minor irregularities in light trading. Most of the European issues were steady despite the weakness of the principal currencies today in terms of the dollar. Advances were held by various obligations of Colombia, Silesia and Chile. Some loans of Australia, France and Poland were off around a point or more. Latin American loans were generally easier on the day.

On the curb exchange, domestic bonds were irregularly higher and foreign loans lower in routine trading. Most of the issues which were at all active showed only fractional changes.

National Biscuit.

Investors' Guide: What is your diagnosis of National Biscuit common?—J. W. H.

Answer: National Biscuit company is the world's largest baking organization. Its history was marked during early years by growth through expansion without acquisition of going concerns. During the last few years, however, the company obtained entrance into Pacific coast and Canadian territories by acquiring existing corporations.

The company is well integrated, milling about 70 per cent of its own flour requirements. It has two carton plants and one molasses blending plant. In addition to bread, cake, cookies and other bakery products the company is represented in the breakfast food line.

For the three years through 1933 earnings were featured by a loss in tonnage and dollar volume of the highly profitable "sweet" or fancy goods department. Earnings in the first half of 1934 of 44 cents a common share compared with net income equal to 47 cents a share for the first half of 1933.

Net income in 1933 was $14,995,000, or $2.11 per common share, against net of $17,104,000, or $2.44 per common share, for 1932. Per share earnings on the common in 1931 were $2.86, against $3.41 for 1930 and $3.28 for 1929 [adjusted to present capitalization].

Current position at the close of 1933 was strong. Cash assets alone totaled more than $23,000,000 while current liabilities were only $3,696,000. There is no funded debt. Capitalization consists of 248,045 shares of $100 par 7 per cent preferred and 6,289,263 shares of $10 par common.

Effective July 14, 1934, the quarterly dividend on the common was reduced from 70 cents to 50 cents a share.

It does not appear likely that much in the way of increased earnings can be expected until demand shows a more pronounced shift towards cake products, on which the profit margin is larger. Earnings will probably continue to reflect higher grain prices as the company's well stocked inventories, which were filled at lower prices, become depleted. Keen competition has prevented the company from passing on to the consumer in full the wheat processing tax, higher raw material costs and higher wages occasioned by NRA.

Procter & Gamble.

Investors' Guide: I am particularly interested in bonds of Procter & Gamble. Where can I find them listed?—Miss W. M. M.

Answer: You cannot find the bonds listed anywhere. They were called for payment at the call price of 105 as of Jan. 1, 1934. If you are holding any bonds of this issue we suggest that you put them through for payment, as they no longer pay interest.

NRA WASTEFUL IN BUILDING, SAY CONTRACTORS

Fight New Deal Day Labor Policy.

A heavy barrage against New Deal waste and inefficiency was laid down yesterday when the governing and advisory boards of the Associated General Contractors of America opened a two day fall meeting at the Palmer house.

E. J. HARDING. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

There was no impassioned oratory. Instead the construction men quietly presented facts and figures to show that the federal government is squandering money in its experiments, work relief, highway projects, and other construction work. The use of day labor directly by state and federal agencies rather than awarding contracts to private builders on the basis of regularly submitted bids was the vulnerable spot upon which the attack was concentrated.

"Fighting for Existence."

"The construction industry is fighting for its birthright and for its very existence," said Edward J. Harding of Washington, managing director of the association, in a detailed report. During the meeting it was shown how the contractor has become a "forgotten man" of the New Deal—cut out of work essential to recovery of the building industry by principles upon which the New Deal is operating.

"This menace [day labor] continues to make itself manifest on every hand," said Harding. "The Federal Emergency Relief administration is carrying on construction work to a great degree. Regulations specifically state that work be done by day labor and not by contract. The theory is that employment of the worker is paramount and efficiency on the project or product is of secondary importance. So long as this principle rules, it is the position of this association that work projects should be distributed among all industry and not concentrated in one industry."

Building Gets Burden.

Harding said that 87 per cent of all relief workers—drawn from all walks of life—are on construction projects despite the fact that the building industry is depressed to 37 per cent of former volume. He also showed that 75 per cent of present work is public construction, whereas private operations ordinarily account for 60 to 70 per cent of volume.

The federal housing act is regarded by Harding as an "excellent vehicle" to make the public "construction conscious" and help revive the industry, but he said it is more than probable that the assistance offered should be strengthened and extended to other types of building.

"Almost all of you have seen FERA move in and swallow up your work," said H. E. Foreman, assistant director, in telling of the havoc wrought by the organization in the construction industry.

Foreman told of instances where loans and grants from the Public Works administration have been shelved when it was found that Uncle Sam might be induced to bear the entire cost of the project through FERA. The change from probable contract to day labor has crippled and eliminated contractors with the result that efficiency and economy have been sacrificed, he declared.

Kirk Reports Waste.

H. J. Kirk, manager of the highway division of the association, went into greater detail to show exactly how the day labor experiment has already proved itself costly. In almost every instance where bids were rejected and the day labor experiment tried in road building the costs have exceeded the contract figures.

Location.	Final cost.	Low bid.
Alabama	$138,000	$125,979
Arkansas	11,509	9,671
*Indiana	238,750	191,000
*Iowa	113,000	101,971
†Michigan	17,500	15,700
‡Oklahoma	48,700	28,700
Rhode Island	78,728	38,608
*Tennessee	23,319	11,319

*Approximately. †To date. ‡95 per cent completed.

Tells of Building Blunder.

The blundering on construction of the agricultural experiment station at Beltsville, Md., was reviewed by B. L. Knowles, Worcester, Mass., member of the advisory board. An additional $500,000 has been asked to complete the project for which $1,300,000 originally was appropriated.

Industry has been subjected to unfair discrimination on the part of the government itself, charged Director Harding. Regulations of hours and wages have been laid down for private industry, but are violated by the government in like situations, he said. President Roosevelt's executive order permitting bids for government work as much as 15 per cent under posted prices was described as "perhaps the greatest discrimination" against private industry.

"Unless the government is willing to set examples as to what is meant by fair competition, it is difficult to see how confidence is to be maintained," he said.

New York, Oct. 22.—(AP)—The American Iron and Steel institute estimates steel production during the current week at 23.9 per cent of capacity, compared with 22.8 per cent a week ago, and 24.2 per cent a month ago. The advance of 1.1 points represents a percentage gain of 4.8 per cent.

Speculators in Silver Get Treasury Aid

New York, Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Coincidentally with the opening of the new Montreal silver futures trading facilities, the United States treasury took cognizance of several applications to remit money to Canada for the purpose of buying or holding metal in Canada and granted them all freely, it was learned this afternoon. This indicates the policy on the part of the treasury will be, for the present at least, to let Americans speculate freely in Canada and to remit what funds were needed out of the country.

Although even the treasury has no immediate figures on the extent to which licenses issued are utilized, it was believed in banks having Canadian connections that little money went to the dominion today.

Permission to permit all money necessary to carry on speculative operations in silver in Canada established a new record in liberality on the part of the treasury in its attitude toward foreign exchange control. Two weeks ago it ruled that applications had to be made for a license for such remittances, as they were neither normal nor commercial.

Start Trading in Montreal.

MONTREAL, Oct. 22.—(AP)—Montreal's new silver exchange, only open silver market in the western hemisphere, started operations today, just over two months after nationalization of silver in the United States ended silver futures trading in New York.

A total of 225 members belonging to the exchange—coming from Canada, the United States, England, France, Mexico, and China—gave today's opening session an international air. Kleig lights glared from overhead, photo lamps boomed, and motion picture machines ground as the silver traders gathered to start operations.

Only futures will be traded on the new exchange until December, when "spot" sales will begin. A contract, the smallest amount that will be traded in under the exchange's rules, is 10,000 ounces. With the market at about 53 cents an ounce, that means any trader must have $5,300. Margin, however, is $600, more or less.

126 Contracts Traded.

A total of 126 contracts changed hands during the five hour session. December futures, the first delivery month traded, closed at 52.70 cents an ounce after touching a high of 53.18, and a low of 52.65. In addition it was the active leader with 71 units being transacted. March recorded 38 contracts and was quoted on the close at 53.74, which was also its low. May with 10 contracts sold closed at 54.15 to 54.25, having touched a top of 54.75 during the day. January was lightly traded in with final quotations being 53.15 after a high of 53.35 was established earlier in the day. February, June, July, August and September were not traded in with nominal quotations prevailing.

The spot price in New York was 53.00 cents an ounce, while in London the quotation was 23 13-16 pence per ounce.

SEC to Probe Salesmen's Use of Registration Data

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—Activities of the securities and exchange commission against stock swindlers are to include a checkup on their use of the fact that data regarding new securities has been filed with the commission. Word has come to the securities exchange commission that some salesmen have employed this fact as though it were a recommendation of the security. The commission is extremely anxious to avoid this impression.

GREAT STOCK CRASH STARTED 5 YEARS AGO; TRADE STAGNANT NOW

New York, Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Wall street tomorrow will observe the fifth anniversary of the beginning of the stock slump of 1929. Five years ago tomorrow, on a turnover of 6,300,000 shares, values of issues listed on the stock exchange declined approximately $4,000,000,000. In the last hour alone, trading totaled 2,600,000 shares, and the ticker was 104 minutes late at the close.

Brokers today commented on the startling contrast between the present market, and the hectic trading of the 1929 crash. What troubles the financial community today is excessive inactivity. The turnover on the exchange today was 574,080 shares, or less than 10 per cent of the volume on Oct. 23, 1929.

On Oct. 23, 1929, THE TRIBUNE'S index of fifty stocks closed at $261.97, off $18.24. On the following day, the index touched $238.19, then rallied to $255.39; and on Oct. 29, on a turnover of 16,400,000 shares—the largest in the history of the stock exchange—the index dropped $24.66. Today the index closed at $82.48. The lowest level of the depression, $33.98, was touched July 8, 1932.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Subscriptions totaling $205,632,000 were received by the treasury on the $75,000,000 issue of 182 bills offered Oct. 24, Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau announced last night. The average price on the $75,102,000 of tenders accepted was 99.900, representing an average of interest rate of 1-5 of 1 per cent on a bank discount basis.

NRA Unfair to Employers, Say Executives

New York, Oct. 22.—[Special.]—Seventy-seven per cent of 1,347 executives of various business enterprises in the city who have responded to a questionnaire of the Merchants' association declared they believed the government's labor policies have tended to discriminate unduly in favor of employés, it was announced today.

A total of 619 reported that the government's recovery program had retarded business activity and 445 said it had helped. Seven hundred and seventy-two asserted it had decreased profits and 344 replied that it had increased profits.

Louis K. Comstock, president of the Merchants' association, declared that replies indicated "the recovery program has evidently succeeded better in stimulating business than in making it really healthy."

More Studies to be Issued.

Later on a study of responses received to other questions will be issued. Three of these relate to industry's attitude toward the NRA, and others seek general expressions of opinion as to the helpfulness or harmfulness of government policies. The questionnaires were sent to businesses and professions of all types.

Two hundred executives said the government's program had neither helped nor retarded business activity, and in 103 instances the replies were classed as doubtful. Of those who answered the question on profits, 165 said that the government's program had no effect on profits and sixty-eight answers were classed as doubtful.

Some Think Employer Is Favored.

Of the 1,347 who answered the question on labor, eighty-nine, or 6.6 per cent, said they thought the government's labor policies favored the employer. One hundred and ninety-one saw no discrimination against either employer or employé.

Many of the replies were accompanied by comments either criticizing or praising government policies which the writers felt were factors in the situation. Some of those who replied to the labor question declared that they believed the reduction in hours had been too drastic; others, that minimum wages were too high or that there were unfair wage differentials between various communities.

FEDERAL TRUCK CONTROL URGED BY EASTMAN

Wants All Carriers Under Single Rule.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Inclusion of federal control over motor truck operation in a national organization regulating all forms of transportation was recommended yesterday by Joseph B. Eastman, federal transportation coördinator, in a talk before the American Trucking association, which is holding its annual convention at the Stevens hotel. Some 1,000 truck operators from every state in the union, representing around 200,000 vehicles, are attending the meetings, which close tomorrow.

Other speakers included Charles P. Clark, deputy administrator, transportation section NRA; Ted V. Rodgers, president of the trucking association; Sidney J. Williams, National Safety council, and Arthur M. Hill, president, National Association of Motor Bus Operators.

Speaks of "Armed Camps."

Stressing the need for coördinated transportation control, Eastman spoke of "the existence in every state capital and in Washington of armed camps, on the one hand the railroads and their allies, and on the other hand the truck manufacturers and operators and their allies," with both wasting money and time and harming both themselves and the country.

Eastman said that common transportation for hire has from time immemorial been regarded as a public business throughout the world, and it has always been recognized that it is a proper subject of public regulation. The essentials, from the public viewpoint, are safe, reliable and convenient service, at known, dependable and reasonable rates, free from unjust discrimination, by responsible operators with sufficient financial strength to expand as required and take advantage of all improvements, he said. To secure this experience has demonstrated that public regulation is necessary, he declared.

Cites Many Complaints.

The coördinator asserted that the truck operators have already had direct proof of the need for railroad regulation, judging by the frequency with which they appeal to the interstate commerce commission for protection against rate reductions. Eastman said that unless the situation is changed the demand from the truck operators for rate protection will greatly increase.

"I venture to guess that the railroads have only made a feeble start on what they may deem it necessary to do in the way of competitive rate cutting," he added.

While applauding the efforts made by the truck industry on behalf of self control through their code, he stated that no business which is so material to the public interest as transportation can regulate itself to the satisfaction of the country, even with government help.

Eastman, in urging a single federal agency charged with the control of all transportation, sought to allay fears that the truck operators might have should this be invested in the interstate commerce commission. He suggested that the commission be broadened to include representatives of all forms of transportation, including truck operators.

U. S. Seeks Small Investors' Funds; Brokers' Fee $300,000

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—Small investors are being asked for the first time since the war to help finance the federal government, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau disclosed today.

MARRINER S. ECCLES. [Assoc. Press Photo.]

Big investors were actually refused the right to purchase today any of the current issue of 50 million dollars' worth of 3 per cent Home Owners' Loan corporation bonds, the secretary said. This was done so that small investors could buy up the issue, thus leaving more bank credit free to absorb directly other treasury issues. At the same time Secretary Morgenthau and his special assistant, Marriner S. Eccles, disclosed additional amazing facts about the floating of the HOLC bonds.

Reveals Terms to Bankers.

First, Secretary Morgenthau admitted that never before in history have government obligations been floated by a private banking syndicate such as is being allowed to control the marketing of these bonds.

Second, the secretary disclosed that the syndicate is being paid a commission by the treasury of ⅝ of 1 per cent on the flotation of the bonds, making the syndicate's gross profit on the transaction approximately $300,000.

Third, Eccles admitted that the syndicate of private bankers who are thus cashing in on a government flotation was selected merely because it had had some previous negotiations with the HOLC; other groups are not known to have been consulted.

Fourth, Secretary Morgenthau and Eccles both announced that the syndicate had today refused to sell any of the bonds to New York or Chicago banks.

Won't Sell Bonds to Banks.

This unusual prohibition against Chicago and New York bank sales was laid down by the syndicate, Eccles explained, in order to make sure that the HOLC bonds would go into the hands of small investors.

Secretary Morgenthau added that the reason the treasury had made the unusual departure of marketing the bonds through a syndicate was because the treasury wanted some sales force to push the bonds.

The treasury's desire to have the HOLC bonds, of which additional issues will be forthcoming in the same manner, in the hands of small investors is two-fold. The treasury feels that private individuals will hold the bonds and not dump them back on the market. Secondly, the treasury wants to sell its own direct obligations to the big investors.

Future Syndicates Possible.

The possibility that the treasury might some day let syndicates of private bankers float government securities themselves loomed today.

"I don't know," was Morgenthau's only comment when asked if treasury bonds might not at some time be turned over to a syndicate just as the HOLC issue was."

Eccles explained that the agreement with the syndicate stipulated that the bonds be sold at the day's market price, but not below 97.

SELL PART OF ISSUE.

It was reported in La Salle street yesterday that the syndicate handling the sale of HOLC bonds has disposed of some $30,000,000 of the obligations. Of these it was estimated that from $10,000,000 to $12,000,000 were distributed in middle western territory. The bonds closed yesterday at 97 30-32ds—a decline of 5-32ds from the close on Saturday.

DOLLAR VALUE HIGHER; POUND FALLS 2½ CENTS

New York, Oct. 22.—[Special.]—The dollar improved today against the leading foreign currencies. The British pound lost 2½ cents to close at $4.95½, while the French franc was 1⅞ points lower at 6.62 cents.

Dutch and Scandinavian currencies were generally 12 to 16 points lower, following sterling. Far easterns moved in the same manner, Hongkong dropping ¼ cent to 40.50 cents and Shanghai .55 of a cent to 32.75 cents.

Indications were that the reaction of the pound was due chiefly to a decrease in the sales of francs to buy pounds, attributed to decision of the gold block nations to adhere to the gold standard.

The United States treasury reported release from earmark in London $44,000,000 of its gold held there since the rush of metal from that city to New York in February and March last. It is inferred that the gold has been used to buy silver in London, as the treasury's purchases of Chinese silver have totaled about $45,000,000.

The price of gold in London was advanced 3½ pence to 141 shillings 2½ pence, equal to $34.99 an ounce, based on opening of sterling at $4.96.

Sun Oil Company Declares 9 Per Cent Stock Dividend

New York, Oct. 22.—[Special.]—The Sun Oil company today declared a dividend of 9 per cent in stock on the common, payable Dec. 15, and the regular quarterly dividend of 25 cents a share. A similar stock dividend was paid a year ago.

J. R. THOMPSON COMPANY VOTES 12½C DIVIDEND

A dividend of 12½ cents a share was declared yesterday by directors of the John R. Thompson company. The payment will be made Nov. 15 to stockholders of record Nov. 5. Earned surplus will be used, said John R. Thompson Jr., president of the national restaurant concern. This is the third dividend declared since the rate was reduced last May from 25 cents.

Gross sales for the first nine months of the year were up to $8,651,113 from $8,111,104 during the same period in 1933. Net loss was $168,642, against $215,319 during the first nine months last year, although depreciation charges were $496,537, compared with $451,487 in the same period of 1933.

APPROVE BUYING OF COTTON BELT BY UNION PACIFIC

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—(AP)—An interstate commerce commission order authorizing the Southern Pacific to acquire control of the St. Louis Southwestern railroad was sustained today by the supreme court.

The Missouri Pacific and the Texas and Pacific protested the proposed control, through purchase of stock, contending it would materially impair their revenues. The federal commission in 1932 authorized the consolidation, and a three judge federal district court in eastern Kentucky dismissed a suit brought by the complaining railroads to have the order set aside.

BANKERS BLAST FINANCE POLICY OF NEW DEALERS

But Leaders Display Studied Optimism.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 22.—Attacks on New Deal economic and financial policies today featured the opening sessions of the American Bankers' association annual convention.

Government extravagance, the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage moratorium act, the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation, and other features of the New Deal program, drew fire in group meetings preceding the beginning of general sessions tomorrow.

While these criticisms were being voiced by various speakers, the top men of the A. B. A. continued to foster the newly launched rapprochement between the bankers and the Democratic administration.

Leaders Display Optimism.

The theme song of the convention is a studied optimism on the part of the A. B. A. leaders that the President is beginning to "lean to the right" on matters of financial policy and that if the bankers will "go along" with the administration he will lead them to recovery by more orthodox routes.

The bankers freely admit that they have no tangible promises and they do not attempt to explain the change in their attitude. If Francis Marion Law, president of the A. B. A., and the incoming president, Rudolf S. Hecht, know more than the rank and file of the delegates about the basis for this optimism they have not divulged their secret. They do not even pretend to guess what the President intends to say in his address to the bankers Wednesday night in Constitution hall.

Cheerful Despite Deficit.

Whatever its foundation, there is no doubt that the bankers are in a more cheerful mood than at any time in the last year and a half. This despite the knowledge on their part that they will probably be asked in the near future, possibly in the President's Wednesday night speech, to underwrite another year's federal deficit to the tune of something like five billions.

The attack on the Frazier-Lemke act was made before the state bank division meeting this morning by John G. Brown, counsel for the Montana Bankers' association.

"The question," he said, "is whether or not those private engagements between two individuals, and that frequently have to do with trust funds shall be the subject of a partisan basketball game, to be tossed from one political basket to another, with the score upon a political scoreboard, watched with eager interest to see who wins by throwing it this or that distance.

Act "Class Legislation."

"It [the Frazier-Lemke act] uses what was intended to be a constitutional guaranty of equality and personal rights as a vehicle for vicious class legislation.

"The Missouri State Life Insurance company failed the other day. We thought it was great and impregnable, and that nothing could touch it. So also have failed half a dozen insurance companies that attempted to start in the middle west, with the great idea of keeping the money at home and of putting it into farm

STOCKS REVERT INTO RUT AFTER INITIAL UPTURN

Eyes of Traders Turned to Bankers' Meeting.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 22.—After making a promising start the stock market hopped back on the treadmill today and lost fractional ground on the average. Resumption of the market's stand-pat attitude was reflected in a turnover of not much more than half a million shares.

Strength in the forenoon was based on optimism born of stimulating news at the bankers' convention in Washington, but the market's failure to follow through on the early fillip led to heaviness in key issues and business thinned out to a walking pace. In numerous instances pivotal industrial and railroad shares substituted small recessions for earlier gains, while some others finished the day without change. On the upside the less active specialty issues, notably department and chain store stocks, were dominant.

Bankers' Convention Watched.

Lacking anything else in the news to fire the speculative imagination, the financial community concentrated its attention on the conclave of the nation's bankers in close proximity to the White House. Traders scanned the ticker's output of remarks, official and otherwise, both attacking and supporting the administration, but the tone of the various statements was taken as generally bullish.

The belief and hope is expressed in more than one quarter that the President's speech will serve to clear up some of the fog of uncertainty and provide the thus far slow moving business machine with a fulcrum on which to turn.

The market was short of features aside from the spurt in chain and department store shares. At one time buying was quite brisk in the preferred stocks of National Department Stores and Schulte, both of which gained 4 points. Helme reached the best price since 1927 on an advance of more than 7 points.

More Mergers Rumored.

Sun Oil firmed fractionally to the best price since 1920 on declaration of the same dividend as was paid last year. Other oils, however, did little.

A half-point net recession in U. S. Steel came in the face of estimates that the industry would step up operations a full point this week. Other so-called pivotal issues to fall slightly behind included American Can, American Smelting, American Telephone, Chrysler, Johns Manville, J. I. Case, and Westinghouse. General Motors and U. S. Smelting were unchanged.

Santa Fe, New York Central, Southern Pacific, Union Pacific and other pace-making rails went ahead at the start but lost momentum and finished off fractionally.

Utilities were quiet and irregular. Consolidated Gas failing to hold new support after last week's decline.

WHEAT CANCELS EARLY GAINS IN SELLING FLURRY

Canadian Visible Supply Shows Increase.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Wheat prices advanced nearly two cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade early yesterday only to be knocked down again when the market came under moderate selling pressure in the late trading. Final quotations on wheat as well as corn were slightly below last week's closing prices.

Inspiration for the early buying came from Liverpool, where prices turned higher after eight consecutive daily declines. It was the lack of any real pressure rather than aggressive buying that made possible the early flurry that spent itself as quickly as it appeared. The character of the present market was illustrated by the manner in which the change in trend was brought about. Traders took profits at the earliest moment, seizing upon what was regarded as a unusually big increase in the visible supply of Canadian wheat.

Canadian Supply Increases.

Using the generally accepted method of figuring the Canadian visible supply, the increase shown yesterday over the preceding week was 3,769,000 bushels, a normal change for this season of the year. If some 7,700,000 bushels not previously reported were included in the figure, last week's gain would have totaled nearly 11,000,000 bushels. Even the later increase would not be considered abnormal at this period but the varying interpretations read into the figures were credited with contributing to the late selling.

A decline of 3,301,000 bushels was reported in the visible supply of wheat in the United States, which could only be construed as a constructive market development. It got no more than passing attention, however, probably on the theory that a decline had been anticipated. The visible is now 105,000,000 bushels, or 40,000,000 under a year ago.

Price Changes Small.

Price changes in wheat futures yesterday were slight. December wheat was selling for 97⅛ cents a bushel when the day ended and the losses on the various futures extended from ⅛ to ⅜ cent.

Somewhat to the surprise of traders corn displayed greater weakness than wheat after its strength last week. Final prices on corn futures were ½ to 1⅛ cents below Saturday's quotations and the December contract closed at 75⅞ cents.

Oats held their early gains for the most part and closed ¼ higher to ¼ cent lower. Rye lost 1 to 1½ cents. There is reported to be a steady demand for the latter grain but apprehension over further importations has an unsettling effect on the market.

HEAVY HOGS GAIN; OTHERS DECLINE 15 TO 25 CENTS

Heavy hogs of good quality were scarce again in the Chicago market yesterday and sold strong to 10 cents higher. Light grades were too plentiful, however, and fell 15 to 25 cents. The changes placed the price range in the widest spread of the season. Top heavies sold at $8.25, including the processing tax of $2.25, and the average was $7.75.

[The following figures on hog prices include $2.25 per hundredweight collected by the federal government as processing tax. There is no processing tax on cattle or sheep. The price quotations given below are per 100 pounds of live animal.]

OCTOBER RETAIL AUTO DELIVERIES PLACED AT 160,000

Retail deliveries of new passenger cars and trucks may reach the 160,000 mark for October, according to Automotive Industries. Price reductions of the last week should have a stimulating effect on sales and a total closer to 170,000 units is not impossible, the journal says.

"Production figures call for only 145,000 cars and trucks," it says, "including Canadian and export allotments. As a result there will be a striking reduction in new car and truck stocks in dealers' hands for the month, possibly totaling 50,000 to 60,000 units.

"Except for the possibility that shortages of certain body models may actually occur in some major lines during November, the month should mark the low point of the year production-wise. Present indications point to the probability that total output for the industry will not exceed 75,000 to 80,000 passenger cars and trucks."

SEARS-ROEBUCK TO HANDLE HOME REPAIR LOANS

Gen. R. E. Wood, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co., yesterday announced the formation of the Sears Finance corporation to handle home modernization loans under the provisions of the national housing act.

"Loans are now available to the firm's 12,000,000 customers through the acceptance of the Federal Housing administration contract entitling the company's loans to receive the benefit of the government's insurance plan," said Gen. Wood.

"No new setup is required to make loans qualifying under this act, as we have been engaged in the handling of instalment accounts for many years, checking annually inquiries running into seven figures. In cases where Sears customers are delayed in obtaining bank loans, they will be served through arrangements just perfected. They may apply through their local Sears store or to their nearest mail order plant."

Distance will be no barrier, Gen. Wood stated, because the home owner will be permitted to arrange his modernization loans by mail, buy his materials by mail, and, with a part of his loan, pay the wages of the men he hires to do the instalation work.

Have spent several months of time and $10,000 in money to organize a class A music school. I now need $1,000 to $2,000 for advertising purposes before the enrollment can be expected to come in. If I stay as I am now, the overhead will pile up and yet I am not able to accommodate 7,000 lessons a week. The profit on this place should amount to $200,000 to $400,000 per year as the result of the proper advertising.
